

LOVERS OF MUSIC MUST SIGN UP BY 10 P. M. SATURDAY

Tomorrow night at 10 o'clock the fate of civic music in southern Oregon will be determined for the present concert season. Saturday night is the deadline for registration of memberships. Anyone who desires to enjoy fine concerts must be registered before that time as no single admissions will be available.

William F. Isaacs, president of the Southern Oregon Civic Music Association, issues the following statement to representative citizens of Medford:

"There remains only today and tomorrow (Saturday) for citizens of Medford and community to vindicate the reputation we have for an appreciation for the cultural things of life. It has been my experience that we usually get those things that we most believe in, although it may constitute a sacrifice on our part. Membership in the Civic Music Association resolves itself into a question. Can I afford to miss this cultural opportunity this year above all times when this sort of inspiration is so much needed?"

"What better investment can anyone make for boy or girl than to buy a membership in the Civic Music Association? Although it may entail the elimination of certain selfish desires on our part, we owe this advantage to our young people.

"Civic music is an asset to our community and all those who are music lovers and interested in making Medford a better place in which to live should immediately respond at headquarters or phone 284 and be registered."

The large number of workers who have not as yet reported the results of their work to headquarters make it impossible at this time to prophesy the outcome of this second annual campaign. The second report meeting is to be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce which largely determine the results of Saturday night when the campaign closes.

"Although reports indicate that a large number of memberships are in the hands of workers and that the response of the public is most encouraging, it will be necessary for every worker to carry on through to closing time if we are to exceed last year's membership," states Arthur W. Manuel, Pacific coast manager of the Chicago Concert service, who is in Medford for enrollment week.

HEALTH, FINANCES SEEN AS CAUSE OF RAY TOFT SUICIDE

The suicide of Ray Toft, well known resident of the city and valley, yesterday afternoon at his home in Jacksonville, was due to financial worries and ill health, according to Coroner H. W. Conger, and no inquest will be held. Toft made a tourniquet of small wire, which he twisted around his neck. His passing was a shock and surprise to friends and relatives.

According to Attorney T. W. Miles, and Ed White, old acquaintances, who recently visited Toft at his Jacksonville home, on business, he was dependent and told them he was unable to escape financial worries, though he knew they were the cause of his nervous illness. White endeavored to cheer Toft, and did to a certain extent, but he was subject to recurring spells of melancholy. It is thought that he took his own life when thus afflicted.

Jacksonville residents said that Toft the past two weeks had given hints that he intended to take his own life.

Dr. C. T. Sweeney was at the Toft home in Jacksonville soon after the suicide was discovered, with Coroner Conger. Dr. Sweeney and the county official both said the manner of the suicide was unusual. Members of the state police said they had a record of four similar cases in this state.

Toft was a resident of this county for 40 years, and for a good portion of that time was engaged in the loan and realty business. He owned considerable property in this city and Jacksonville. His wealth was once conservatively estimated at $100,000, but he suffered from decline in property valuations the past two years. He recently purchased the John Miller home in Jacksonville. He had been in poor health for the past two years.

Registers Here—Stanley H. Elletts of the U. S. S. New York, California, registered last night at a local hotel.

LABOR EXCHANGE CENTRAL PT. PLAN

Central Point's unemployment relief committee, of which Arnold Bohnert, A. M. Terrill and Fred Sanders are members, is preparing to care for the unemployed in that community this winter by an exchange of labor for food.

As a part of their plan, Arnold Bohnert is supervising the canning of prunes and tomatoes, with the assistance of a number of women of that district.

E. C. Faber contributed prunes, and Otto and John Bohnert gave tomatoes to fill 300 cans. That was the number of containers filled on Wednesday, at the close of two days canning. In the Central Point grange hall kitchen.

Central Point committee will cooperate with the county committee during the coming winter, the members have announced.

In Medford Today—Among shoppers in Medford today from neighboring towns are Miss Lura Burson of Phoenix, Mrs. D. W. Dickey and Mrs. A. S. May also of Phoenix and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Boardman of Central Point.
