

DENVER PUBLISHER REMEMBERS VISIT FOR FISHING HERE

Twenty-five years ago when F. G. Bonilla, editor and publisher of the Denver Post, passed through this section, he stopped over to fish for steelhead. He only got two—a three-and-a-half pounder, and the other three pounds. So today he arrived back in the Rogue River valley, derby and all, to spend a few days at the Frank D. Madison lodge with Alex Daugherty, also of Denver, and "to fight with the big boys."

They will be joined tomorrow by Mr. Madison and party from San Francisco.

The editor, a medium-sized man with shaggy gray eyebrows and mustache, skipped over the conversation of fishing, to talk politics and newspaper.

Being a personal friend of Herbert Hoover's, Mr. Bonilla said that his paper is supporting the President in his election campaign. He expressed the belief that the Presidents of the United States should serve one six-year term, instead of being eligible for a second term.

"They'd make the most of their jobs, and no try to play politics to get in for another term," he said. "Hoover, like other Presidents," the publisher pointed out, "will probably not live long following his second term—but he is willing to make the sacrifice, to continue the job he has started."

Mr. Bonilla referred to the suit his paper, one of the flashiest of the nation, has filed against the Scripps-Howard newspapers, for publication of an editorial in the Post editor described as "perfectly monstrous."

"We let the matter rest for a long time," Mr. Bonilla said, then decided to make "my dear friend Howard" talk. Thought we'd put a little red pepper in their mouths, and see how they liked it. The case hasn't come to trial yet. The suit is for $200,000.

Getting back to his squamous Oregon fishing trip, Mr. Bonilla exclaimed over the wonderful weather in the valley. As he climbed into the station wagon en route to the river, to land his big steelhead, the editor courteously tipped his derby, beneath which was visible a pompadour of gray hair.

DEAD NOMINEE KIN OF MURRAY

He was always an unlucky politician—Francis M. Wilson, Democratic nominee for governor of Missouri, who died in Kansas City, October 12, according to his first cousin, C. C. Murray of this city. He had always sought office on the Democratic ticket during the few years when Missouri went Republican. This year, when his election seemed assured, C. C. robbed him of the victory.

He was candidate for senator from Missouri, when Al Smith was candidate for president four years ago. He was candidate for congress the year of the great Theodore Roosevelt landslide. This year pneumonia developed from injuries received in an auto accident and death put him out of the running.

CENTRAL PT. UNIT TENDERS APOLOGY

Central Point health unit wishes to take this opportunity to tell the Women's Relief Corps that it is very sorry for the omission of their name in the published list of donors to the Sparrow Memorial.

The Women's Relief Corps of Central Point was the first local organization to send their check for this worthy cause. Their name was sent in at the head of the list, but for some unknown reason was omitted. The unit wants the members of the Relief Corps to know that they appreciate their help and that they are very unhappy that this error was made.

CENTRAL POINT BABY CLINIC NEXT FRIDAY

The monthly well baby clinic of the Central Point health unit will be held Friday, October 14, at the Health Center building, from 1:15 to 3 p. m. Babies of pre-school age should be registered at Bone's drug store. Dr. Drummond and Miss Walker, nurse, will be in charge of the clinic, assisted by Mrs. Geo. Treichler and Mrs. Raymond Driver.

FALSE PROPHETS DANGER SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT

At the conclusion, the chief Denverite thanked the president "for his contribution" on behalf of the association.

On the platform was a distinguished assemblage of national and international harriers, including Marquis Reading of England, Paul Reynaud, French statesman, members of the supreme court, and John W. Davis of New York, 1924 Democratic presidential nominee.

Government on Trial
"Our form of government is on trial in the eyes of millions of our citizens," President Hoover said. "Economic stresses of unparalleled magnitude have wracked our people, and in their distress some are tempted to lay the blame for their troubles upon the system of government under which they live."

"It can be a dangerous thing, if wise and trusted men fail to explain to the people how often in history the people's interests have been betrayed by false prophets of a millennium, promised through seductive but unworkable and disastrous theories of government."

"The menace is doubled by the fact that these vain allurement are today being offered to our harassed people by men of public reputation in economics and even by men in public life."

President Hoover told the lawyers "your court procedures are too unwieldy" and that it was their duty to simplify them "to make the administration of law a terror to evildoers by its promptness and certainty."

ASK PROBATE OF RAY TOFT'S WILL

A petition was filed with the county court this afternoon, admitting to probate the will of the late Ray H. Toft, realtor and loan broker, who committed suicide at his home in Jacksonville a week ago, by twisting a wire tourniquet around his neck, in a fit of despondency over ill-health and finances. The petition states that no will was left by Toft, and asks that Fred E. Wahl of the Farmers and Fruit Growers Bank be named administrator of the estate.

The petition also asks that an inventory of the estate be taken. Its estimated value is placed at $5500 in the petition.

Held As Slayer

Clarence Woolery, 14, was charged with killing Mrs. Frank Garlock near Baker, Ore. Police say he confessed the slaying because the woman reprimanded him. He was adopted five years ago.

ELKS WILL HOLD BENEDICT'S NIGHT

Second regular meeting of the winter season for the local Elks' lodge, will be conducted this evening, it was announced today, and a large representation of members is expected to be in attendance.

On the program is initiation of two members into the Married Men's club, and voting of constitutional amendments concerning delegations and representation at conventions as recommended at the national convention.

Monarch Seed and Feed company, now located in the Iamson building, are having the building at the corner of Sixth and Bartlett streets repainted and remodeled, where they plan to move in the near future.

The pioneer feed store of Medford will be located in the new quarters as soon as the work is completed, it was announced today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The stock market slid back abruptly in extremely quiet trading today. A little stiffening in the final few minutes reduced the extreme losses by a point or so, but net declines of 1 to more than 3 points appeared throughout the list. The late tone was heavy. Transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.

BODY FOUND BY COMPANIONS IN FOREST DEPTHS

from the camp in the King Spruce section.

Fabrick, with D. E. Millard, realtor of this city, and Ellsworth Kunkle, a fruit worker, and brother-in-law of Millard's left Tuesday afternoon on the hunting trip.

It was reported in this city, this noon, but unconfirmed, that Fabrick left camp alone yesterday afternoon for a hunt. He did not return with nightfall, and Millard and Kunkle fired shots and shouted throughout the night. At dawn they began a search and found Fabrick dead, beside a log.

District Attorney George A. Coddling and members of the state police left shortly before noon to investigate the tragedy.

In Deep Wilderness
The death spot is located in the heart of a virgin wilderness with difficult ingress, and it will be necessary to pack the body out with horses.

News of the tragedy spread like wildfire throughout the city and county and left a pall of sorrow.

Glen Fabrick, Sr., was born in Harlem, Winnebago county, Illinois, February 14, 1877, and was 55 years of age. He is survived by his immediate family circle by his widow, a son, Glen Fabrick, Jr., and two daughters, Jeanne Fabrick of this city and Mrs. Katherine Engles, living in Ashland, besides other relatives in this and Washington state. He was the owner and founder of the Medford Domestic Laundry and had been a resident of this city for nearly 25 years.

He was a leader in formation of DeMolay orders in this state. He was past master of the Blue Lodge, and a member of the Royal Arch and Knight Templars and Shrine. He was also a member of the B. P. O. Elks, Medford lodge. He was an ardent sportsman and lover of the outdoors. He was a man of extreme kindness and gentleness, and scores of friends mourn his untimely passing.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

DeMolay Postpones Installation Rites

Postponement of the installation of officers by the DeMolay lodge, planned for this evening, was announced this afternoon. The postponement has been made because of the death of Glen Fabrick, Sr., father and sponsor of the local lodge.

The meeting will be held one week from tonight.

Phoenix Youth Held Gas Thief

Bryson Miller, 18, a resident of the Phoenix district, was detained by the Phoenix police today as a suspect in the theft of gasoline from a parked auto, and for driving an auto without any kind of a license. He will be given a hearing this afternoon.

ST. MARYS TRIMS JUNIORS, 53 TO 0

St. Mary's football eleven showed power last evening when they played Ray Henderson's junior high team. The Saints won, 53 to 0, through a passing system they have perfected.

The junior high team is making rapid progress this season, according to Val Singler, coach at the academy, and he expects the Henderson squad to show some good teamwork before the season closes.

Starting for the St. Mary's team were Dick Lewis, quarter; Loffer, tackle and Joe Patton, halfback.

Central Pt. Grange Literary Program Typical of South

CENTRAL POINT, Oct. 13.—(Sp.)—Grange met Friday with an increase in attendance, opening with a literary program typical of the southern negro of the long ago. Each number, together with appropriate southern songs drew tremendous applause. Two Regie river cowboys of Lake Creek, familiarly known as "Lonesome and Smoky," gave a group of songs which were greatly enjoyed.

Among guests of the Grange session were Miss Georgia Pruett and Mrs. Bigham of Sacramento and Mr. and Mrs. Lamb who recently moved here from Eagle Point. Luncheon, prepared by the H. E. C. group, concluded an enjoyable evening.

STILTS and BUSTLES . . . OR . . . FULL POWERED and FULL SIZED

WHICH DO YOU WANT?

It's easy to build a cheap battery. One way is to raise the bridges or stilts that the plates rest on. Another is to pad the plates with heavy bustles. Both help to make the battery look big—but reduce its power and life.

There's no economy in gambling with a cheap battery. The cost of just one service call will pay the difference between it and a full-powered, full-sized Firestone Battery. Come in, examine these Firestone batteries and see for yourself why they give you the greatest value your money can buy. We accept your old battery in trade and give you a liberal allowance for it.

Firestone BATTERIES FULL POWERED . . . FULL SIZED

1. High oversized or full height plates are used in Firestone batteries—No high stilts—no bustles.

2. Select Port Orford Cedar Separators which withstand chemical action longest.

3. Special design rubber bushing which prevents electrolyte leaks and absorbs road shocks.

4. Thick heavy reinforced covers protect battery contents against shock and vibrations.

5. Extra strong hard rubber cases which are not affected by grease and acid.

6. Ample capacity at all temperatures—always dependable.

We have a Firestone Battery to fit every car and to meet every price and service need. As low as
