Ye Smudge Pot

By Arthur Perry

Reports from Portland indicate that an Oregon campus politician was happier over the upset victory, than the Ucla coach.

• • •

There is still more election betting than tax-paying, amongst our redeemers from all civic and political ills.

• • •

The mad wife of a mad farmer, towned yesterday and reported that he was madder than ever, because she was going to vote him for Hoover.

• • •

A. L. Bixby, of the Nebraska State Journal, well known here, through his visits to kin in Jacksonville, has written the following poem anent Roosevelt's trip to the west:

In the states of the west he is doing his best
To promote his own perilous cause;
He is blowing hot air and has pledges to spare
For the making and breaking of laws.
He gives promise of rest to the poor and oppressed
In the land of potatoes and pork.
Farm relief is his boast, on the far western coast—
But he never did much for New York.

The Young Democrats of the valley to date have failed to act like young Democrats, and formed a male quartette, for the duration of the campaign nonsense.

The W. C. T. U. will pray for a Hoover victory, the last week of the month. This is fine, but don't forget to vote.

The Bates Boys have installed a new stove in their tonsorial parlors, to repel the chill blasts of Winter. This is the first time since the war, that these genial chinwhackers have admitted there was such a thing as Winter, and would make any effort to combat it. The early morn customer always felt that he had accidentally advanced to within 10 degrees of the North Pole. Even Atty. T. Miles, the cold water bath enthusiast, favored the stove. These kind of mornings, Atty Miles likes his cold water bath with lots of hot water in it. Henceforth something will be heated besides the arguments.

MORE HECKLING
(Scene: Country Schoolhouse.)
(Time: Any evening.)

My beloved fellow citizens: When I first took the stump, (that ain't all you took) I had no idea (Correct) that I would find so many people who wanted me to run. (Into the next county.) Unlike my opponent, I have not run for office oftener than the Faber store at Central Point has been robbed. What is Mr. Faber going to do about it? (Move his store up to the state penitentiary, where he will be safe from honest men.) If I am elected there will be no robberies, even in the courthouse. I will have a deputy sheriff to watch every citizen, and the citizens will watch the deputy sheriffs, and thereby everybody will protect everybody else. (But who will watch you?) I am now going to tell you some stories. (Call 'em by their right names.) When the mean men caught the poor boys making moonshine, I said, and still say, they did not know what they were doing. (Their liquor sure tastes like it). And they were martyrs and heroes. (And needed money to buy California moonshine for their own use.) If you have any turkeys, the hungry voters are liable to steal them and sell them. (And be victims of the Depression when caught.) I talked to a man today. (Who ran out of gas in front of the courthouse.) He has been here hardly long enough to vote, and I am sorry he is not here tonight. (As you paid him $2 to cheer.) When he asked for beans, the gang told him he could not buy gasoline with beans, and there is a silent 4d, as a result of the insolence of our duly elected officials.

An Important Local Event

WE trust the address of Major Francis Yates-Brown, author of that excellent book "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," at the High School Saturday night, will not be overlooked in the surrounding political excitement.

Major Yates-Brown will speak on that mystical and little known Hindu philosophy "Yogi", relate his adventures as a disciple of that cult, and the wisdom he learned at the feet of the learned and holy-men of far-off India.

That his address will be exceedingly interesting, there can be no doubt; but there is also reason to believe that to many of his hearers, it will be educational and profitable.

Educational, because it will open up a new field of philosophical thought; profitable, because the old civilization of India has evolved a wisdom of life, and a knowledge of living, which goes far deeper than anything the western world has ever attained.

• • • • •

WITH our essentially materialistic civilization, struggling to recover from the shock of a world-wide economic earthquake, much may be learned from the experiences of Major Yates-Brown, and the message of another world, which he brings.

As Hamlet observed "There are more things in Heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

Learning some of those things, should be particularly helpful, during this period of stress and strain, and we trust the people of Medford—particularly the younger people,—will not overlook this rare opportunity to secure it.

The Medford Airport

THE securing of Major Yates-Brown, whose itinerary is confined almost exclusively to the larger cities, emphasizes the value of a local asset which isn't as generally recognized as it should be.

This asset is the Medford airport, and the fact that Medford is an important station on the regular transcontinental air route.

An aviator in the war, the famous British author and lecturer travels almost exclusively by air. The only reason the local University club was able to secure him for this address, was the fact that he had to fly through Medford from Portland, to keep a speaking date in Pasadena.

• • • • •

SOME years ago the building of the Natron cut-off put Medford off the main line of railroad travel, and as a result, Klamath Falls took Medford's place, as the stopping-off place for important theatrical and musical attractions.

Securing Major Yates-Brown, suggests that eventually Medford will gain far more, by being a regular stop on the coast airline, than it lost through the Natron cut-off.

The travel of the future will be by air. Medford enjoys certain climatic and geographical advantages, which undoubtedly will render its strategic place on that air route, a PERMANENT ONE.

Contemptible Treachery

PROCLAIMING himself a "better Republican" than the leader of his party, Senator Norris of Nebraska, is attacking the president of the United States, because starting as a poor boy in Oregon, he worked his way through college, and by his own efforts, attained financial independence.

The Nebraska senator says NOTHING about how that fortune has dwindled the past few years, until today President Hoover is not only far from a rich man, he is only well-to-do. He FAILS to mention the fact, that in spite of his losses, in his effort to reduce federal expenses, President Hoover voluntarily reduced his own salary by 20 percent—returning $15,000 to the federal treasury.

Nor does he compare President Hoover's financial status with that of his opponent, Franklin Roosevelt. Regardless of what President Hoover's fortune may be, he at least made it himself. Franklin Roosevelt, on the other hand, born with a silver spoon in his mouth, coached by high priced tutors, sent to the most expensive boarding schools in the country, and on frequent trips to Europe, inheriting a distinguished name, a large fortune, and today enjoying an income of over $50,000 a year, never earned a dime.

This is not necessarily to Roosevelt's discredit, nor would it be mentioned, if demagogues and Bolsheviks like Senator Norris, were not trying to arouse prejudice against the president, by descending to such cheap and contemptible tactics.

• • • • •

WE don't question Senator Norris' right to desert his party at this time and take the stump for the Democrats. We do not question the right of Hiram Johnson to do the same thing.

But we do MOST EMPHATICALLY QUESTION the right of either man, to desert the leader of their party this year, when his political life is at stake; and then return to that party, when THEIR political life is at stake,—as it will be two years hence,—ask for the support of the party, they have ditched, and whose leader they have so treacherously assailed.

• • • • •

WE hold no brief for blind partisanship, but we do hold a brief for LOYALTY AND COMMON DECENCY AMONG MEN.

If Senators Norris and Johnson wish to become democrats, let them do so. But then let them STAY democrats.

We are eternally tired—and we believe the fair minded people of this country are tired—of having these two demagogues and four-flushers, deserting their party whenever they are secure in their seats, and have NOTHING TO LOSE, and when the mischief has been done, having them get down on their hands and knees and plead for the support of that party, whose leader they have repudiated, and whose principles they have abandoned, in its hour of greatest need.

No matter how this election comes out, unless the people of this country are dead to every consideration of loyalty and common decency, when Senators Norris and Johnson again come up for re-election, they will be returned to the oblivion of private life where they belong.

Personal Health Service

By William Brady, M. D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady in care of The Mail Tribune.

SHOULD A SKINNY WOMAN CHANCE MATERNITY?

After six years of persuasion, she writes, my husband has about decided that he is willing to have a baby, provided that the risk is not too great for a woman of my age.

Hats off, men, to this courageous husband. Seriously, though, no kidding, suppose the women of the world should declare a holiday and leave it to us men to have the babies. Would we squawk!

The lady goes on to say she is 33½ years old, 66 inches tall and weighs 115 pounds. I suppose with her teeth in and everything. In spite of that, she avers she is in no pain to speak of at any time. Her husband, she solemnly declares, is six feet eleven inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. I suspect the lady is confused in her measurements. Whataman is probably five feet eleven inches tall, and even at that he is no midget, what.

But here comes the scandal. Besides her whale of a husband, the skinny woman seems to carry on an intrigue with another chap who has often figured in this column. She has Ben Told that since she measures only 13 inches from hip to hip, across the abdomen (of course she means from anterior superior spin opposite ilium across the belly) her husband's child would likely be too large for her to bear . . .

Well, that's far enough to go in this sordid recital.

My advice to the skinny woman is to give Ben Told the air, also Mrs. Sumsey and Sairygamp, and settle down and raise her a family.

At the age of 35 to 40 years a woman is or should be in her prime physically, and better fitted for motherhood than ever before. In fact, women of that age who achieve the happiness of maternity generally have a normal, easy delivery, and not a hard time as the old harpies would have them imagine.

A woman is as old as she feels.

I have never known of disaster or regret coming to the woman who bears her first baby at that age, that is, anything that could fairly be attributed to her mature age.

The measurement the thin woman gives doesn't mean anything, because the dimensions of the true pelvis are independent of the breadth of the hips. If there is any doubt of the development of the pelvis her physician can determine by pelvimetry precisely whether the normal pelvic capacity has been attained.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

After two applications of photographer's hypo, as suggested in one of your articles, I want to say "Thank you" for the relief this brought to some kind of itch I had had for four years. Incidentally, if your stuff is dropped by our paper my subscription will be cancelled at the same time, because your line is so strictly on the level as to be a real enjoyment and a liberal education to me.—M. C.

Answer—The problem is, how to let the publisher know without making him think I think he is thinking of canning my column. Photographer's hypo—hyposulphite of soda, formerly called thiosulphate—has proved an excellent local remedy for ivy poisoning and also for ringworm. It is best applied as a lotion, 1½ ounces of hypo dissolved in a pint of water. Or the solution may be applied on cloths or a bandage kept constantly wet for an hour or longer.

Ten Cents a Glance.

It is six months or more since I wrote for your booklet, "The Constipation Habit," and I haven't needed any sort of laxative up to this date. I had been a slave to physics for 40 years.—J. W.

Answer—Any victim of the habit can do as you did if he or she will do as I say: Just say "I have the constipation habit." Inclose a stamped envelope properly addressed and a dime.

Feet Strengthened.

My feet used to perspire and sweat, but since I began taking the exercise you advise, on a two-inch plank each night and morning, it no longer troubles me. Also my feet do not get so tired and ache toward the end of the day.—M. M.

Answer — Some feet just perspire, while others sweat. It must be terrible when one's feet do both. In any case we are glad to send instructions for the care of the feet to any reader who tells us he has foot trouble and what his trouble is. Inclose a stamped envelope bearing your address.

HONOR AND MONEY FOR BLIND GENIUS

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Miss Helen Keller, blind worker for the blind, was today awarded the $5,000 "achievement prize" given annually by the magazine Pictorial Review to a woman who during the past year has made some unusual contribution to science, art or social welfare.

The prize, which went last year to Jane Addams and in 1930 to Carrie Chapman Catt, was given to Miss Keller for completion of the $1,000,000 fund for the American Foundation for the Blind "by her own individual efforts."

Miss Keller returned this week from England and Scotland, where she spent the summer.

BOOTLEGGER HELD FOR AUTO TRAGEDY

PORTLAND, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Charged with involuntary manslaughter and possession of liquor, Henry Weckert, 38, alias Henry Evans, was held in the county jail here today under $5,500 bail, accused of having been the driver of the liquor-laden automobile which Sunday crashed into another car, killing Catherine C. Collins, 19, and injuring three other persons critically.

Weckert, who police say admitted he was the driver of the death car, surrendered late Monday. He had escaped from the scene of the accident before witnesses reached the spot. George Mayes, 68, riding with him, was arrested as he sat, dazed, in the wrecked machine. He faces the same charges as does Weckert.

Mrs. Clinton C. Collins, mother of the dead girl, Martha J. Collins, 22, a sister, and Ralph L. Freeze, Portland attorney, were still in a critical condition today.

Stronger than He Was at Twenty

FIFTY-FIVE years old, and still going strong!

Do you want the secret of such vitality? It isn't what you eat, or any tonic you take. It's something anyone can do—something you can start today and see results in a week! All you do is give your vital organs the right stimulant.

A famous doctor discovered the way to stimulate a sluggish system to new energy. It brings fresh vigor to every organ. Being a physician's prescription, it's quite harmless. Tell your druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Get the benefit of its fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and that pure pepsin. Get that lazy liver to work, those stagnant bowels into action. Get rid of waste matter that is slow poison so long as it is permitted to remain in the system.

The new energy men and women feel before one bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin has been used up is proof of how much the system needs this help.

Get a bottle of this delicious syrup and let it end that constant worry about the condition of the bowels. Spare the children those bilious days that make them miserable. Save your household from the use of cathartics which lead to chronic constipation. And guard against auto-intoxication as you grow older.

Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is such a well known preparation you can get it wherever drugs are sold and it isn't expensive.
