FEED AND FROLIC FOR LEGION MEET

Eva Nealon Hamilton
One of the most entertaining meetings ever held by the local post of the American Legion will be on tap Monday night at the Medford Armory, according to plans announced Saturday by Lewis A. Corbett, chairman of the committee in charge of entertainment, and Post Commander Leo Giesbeck. All Legionnaires and other ex-service men are extended a cordial invitation to be present at this session, which convenes at 8:00 o'clock.

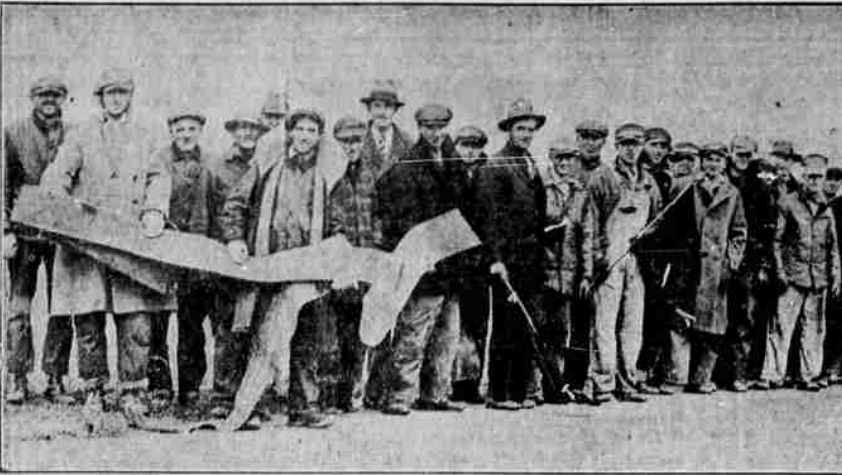

Distinguished guests and entertainers from all parts of the world are scheduled to be present, and an unconfirmed rumor about town Saturday has it that the famous Madamolle from Armentieres has announced her intention of entertaining the ex-service men with a number of her equally famous songs. Committeemen who are preparing the program refused to either confirm or deny the rumor, so the only way to find out will be to attend the session.

Members of the post executive committee and Commander Giesbeck are planning on starting the new Legion year with a "bank," and in addition to the entertainment program, there will be a stag feed following the regular post meeting. The principal business to be discussed at the meeting will be plans for the annual Armistice day celebration, which will be under the direction of Post-Commander R. E. McElhose, assisted by a large number of Legionnaires, assigned to the various Armistice day committees.
It was especially noted that all ex-service men, whether or not they are members of the Legion, are invited to attend Monday night's meeting.

Foster Fined, Jailed, On Rum Possession

Pete Foster was fined $150 and sentenced to thirty days in jail Saturday when he appeared before Judge Glenn O. Taylor in justice court, on the charge of possession of liquor. Foster was arrested Friday night by city and state police at a front street resort. A ten-gallon keg over half full of wine, a half case of pint flasks of moonshine, and about five cases of beer were seized by the officers. The moonshine was found in a closet, and the wine in the cellar, the police officers.

FARM PICKETS DEFY PRODUCE TRUCKS TO PASS

These farm strikers, shown along a highway at Forest Lake, Minn., near St. Paul, used an effective threat against trucks attempting to haul produce to market. They held a threshing machine belt through which spurs were driven—forecasting punctures for any truck which tried to pass when the belt was laid across the road. (Associated Press Photo)

COURT RELUCTANT TO GIVE LIFE ON FORGERY CHARGE

Circuit Judge H. D. Norton, rather than impose a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment, under the habitual criminal law, upon Victor Gray, for uttering a bogus $15 check, granted a suspended sentence of 30 days, with the promise, that pending good behavior, the suspended sentence might be continued for Gray.

Gray, a middle aged man, according to the district attorney's office, has spent 11 years in prison for forgeries, that netted him less than $100. He has been paroled from several prison terms for bad checks, the authorities say. Drink is given as the reason for his check forgeries, coupled with domestic troubles. Gray, a divorcee, was moderately well situated in an up-state city.

Luther (Toots) Crosby, a convict on parole from the state penitentiary, also was granted a delay in the passing of sentence. His fiancée told the court, that "they wanted to get married, and live on a ranch in Idaho." The court delayed decision. The court is in the position of granting a parole, to a parole violator, Attorney T. J. Bright appeared in behalf of Crosby.

Leslie (Buck) Wilson, also a state prison parole violator, Virgil (Dodo) Burnett, and Emalee (Bobby) Mansfield, companions of Crosby, and alleged to have robbed the J. C. Penney Co. store at Ashland last July, also had their cases deferred. In the case of the Mansfield girl, sentence was deferred, until one of her parents could be present. All admit complicity in the robbery, the authorities say.

Benjamin F. Bailey, and son Harold, charged with receiving stolen goods, and another son, Ira Bailey, alleged to have stolen pistols and camera from a state police auto, ten days ago, were also before the court. Ira Bailey has been in trouble before, the authorities say, and obeys and his auto violations. The Baileys live in the Central Point district, and are former residents of Grants Pass. The case of Ira Bailey, was cited last spring, as an alleged "injustice case" of this county.

MERCHANTS MEET MONDAY EVE; WILL MAKE YULE PLANS

Retail Merchants of Medford will meet in a business session at the Hotel Medford tomorrow evening at 6:30, for a discussion of plans for the annual Christmas opening, which will be held soon after Thanksgiving, according to John Moffatt, president of the retail trade division of the chamber of commerce, and all merchants are urged to be present at the meeting, in order that complete plans may be mapped out for the winter event.

The Christmas opening has for a number of years been a feature event of the winter shopping season, designed to inaugurate the Christmas season with timely displays of winter merchandise, and, according to plans which have been made by the directors of the retail trade division, this season's event should equal or surpass any event of its kind ever held in the city.

Plans for street decoration schemes, window lighting contests, window display features, and entertainment are already being prepared, and will be presented to the merchants of the city at Monday night's meeting, and it is especially requested that all merchants who are interested in making this annual event a success, be present at the session, which will open with a dinner in the small dining room of the Hotel Medford.

A number of new and novel ideas for pre-Christmas exploitation will be presented, and it is expected that the evening's discussions will result in a Christmas opening program which will interest the entire population of Jackson county and Medford's trade area.

TERUKO MARU TO WALK IN SPRING SAYS DILLEHUNT

(By Eva Nealon Hamilton)
For two years she has waited and longed for the realization, the feel of the steady earth again beneath her feet, her hopes never surrendering to discouraging pain. And now it has come—the answer to her wishes and her dreams. And Teruko Maruyama smiles, for she knows that as sure as the cherry blossom will blow in next spring's wind, so will she walk again.

Dr. Richard B. Dillehunt, who has helped many spines to stand erect and legs to travel with girls and boys over valleys and hills, told Teruko's father so last week.

And "Mr. Maru of the University club," as he is known to hosts of friends throughout the valley, was smiling with his daughter yesterday (smiling through tears), as he told the glad news left him by the Portland specialist.

Teruko, who is now 15, and a person very much in love with life, was accidentally shot by a playmate two years ago this fall. The bullet lodged in her spine and para, his numbered her body from the hips down.

Her parents rushed her to San Francisco. They conferred with local physicians, and it was decided to leave the bullet where it was. Time passed and they were assured that Teruko would live, but walking was another thing.

Her world came to be the world which is reached by wheel chair. Books and school came to her, she could not go to them, except when transported in her chair. But in spite of her handicap, she has progressed, and was described yesterday by Supl. E. H. Hedrick as one of the most intelligent students in the Medford system.

Four months ago X-rays taken of Teruko's spine by Dr. E. W. Durno, attending physician, were sent to Dr. Dillehunt in Portland. Last week when Dr. Dillehunt arrived for the clinic sponsored by the Jackson county Public Health association at the Alex Sparrow memorial clinic, he called for Teruko. Following the examination, during which he urged her to take a few steps, which she has been able to accomplish, he assured the girl and her father that walking will come with time and exercise.

"Exercise and constant practice. Practice day and night. Good exercise," Mr. Maru declared, "That is probably all she will need to do. And we are very happy," he added, with that note of deep appreciation which the westerner has yet to learn from the Oriental.

CIVIC LEAGUE TO OPEN 'DRY' DRIVE

Indications throughout Jackson county, both in urban and rural communities, point to a healthy increase in support of the dry cause, through the recently formed Jackson County Civic league, as the former unite in their efforts to retain the Oregon state dry law and the 18th amendment. Every possible means of enlightenment will be used by these forces, including addresses in schools, churches, at meetings, and over the radio, also by means of the press and "dry" literature which is being widely distributed.

Brief talks by "minute men" of the Sunday morning church services, a plan instituted last Sunday, will be continued until after Nov. 8, speakers of Medford, Ashland, and other county points will interchange at today's services, out-of-town speakers bringing the message to the different congregations. Names of speakers and summary of talks will be published later.

With an imposing array of facts assembled as ammunition for protection of the dry cause, a group of forceful and interesting speakers addressed a meeting held Friday evening at the Methodist church at Talent. The Jackson County Civic league was represented by Walker Lovette, Walter Fraser Brown and Rev. Oldenburg, with Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Hall of Ashland and others from various points, as well as from Talent, present.

PENALTIES ISSUED IN LIQUOR CASES

Four liquor cases were taken before Judge Glenn O. Taylor in justice court Saturday morning, with convictions and fines in each.
Earl Brown, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Under the state law, his driver's license will automatically be suspended for a year. Brown's car crashed into another vehicle on the Pacific highway at an early hour Thursday. Brown's companion, Carman Evans, pleaded guilty to being drunk on a public highway, and was fined $25. Unable to pay his fine, Evans was also lodged in jail.

Clyde Gunter of Grants Pass, arrested for the possession of liquor, was fined $25, and his friend, Charles James, also of that city who was with Gunter was fined $10 and costs by Judge Taylor, for being drunk on a public highway. They were arrested Saturday morning about 1:30 by state police.

CRATER LAKE C. E. UNION CONVENES HERE DECEMBER 2

Monday evening, October 17, 1932, the executive committee of Crater Lake Union held their meeting in the Congregational church at Ashland. This was the first meeting since the appointment of our new president, Norman Prley of Medford, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Lawrence Mitchelmore who is attending theological seminary.

An interesting report of the Klamath Lake Union convention, which was held in Klamath Falls, October 14 and 15, was given by Jerry Latham who accompanied our president to the convention.

It was decided that the Crater Lake Union convention will be held at the Medford Christian church, December 2 and 4.
A pre-convention rally will be held in the Presbyterian church at Grants Pass, in the form of a pot-luck supper at 8:00 to 9:00 o'clock, on Tuesday evening, November 15, 1932. Each society will take part in the entertainment by giving a stunt or song or anything they may wish to do.

Carl Hoover and Jerry Latham were appointed as a committee to help solve the transportation problems of societies who wish to attend the union convention.
The president appointed the following persons to act as convention registrars in each section: Ashland, Vincent Sawyer; Medford, Dorothy Shafer; Grants Pass, Irene Manual; Jacksonville, Lulu Metzger; Grants Pass, to appoint someone in Phoenix; and Carl Hoover to appoint someone in Central Point. Registration price: $2.50 before the convention, $3.50 after convention begins.

President appointed Opal Bush, Jerry Latham and Carl Hoover to work with him on the program committee.

Sunday afternoon, November 6, 1932, at 2:30, the next executive meeting will be held in the Christian church in Central Point, 8:00.
