SLOVER FREED ON PAROLE TO FOLKS

Ralph Slover, 16-year-old Central Point youth, taken into custody about two months ago on a charge of attempt to assault a four-year-old child, was released today, following an operation ordered by the county court, and paroled to his parents, H. E. Slover and Sadie Pierce of Central Point.

He will be paroled to his parents as long as he conducts himself "in accordance with the peace, health and safety provisions of Oregon law," the order of the court states.

He will remain in the court's custody for five years. The operation undergone by Slover, following the examination which established his delinquency, was with the full and voluntary consent of himself and his parents, the county court order also sets forth.

Mr. Maloney was accompanied by E. E. Gore and H. O. Wortman, well known in local pioneering, the latter having been a friend of Mr. Maloney for over 40 years.

Mr. Maloney made an excellent impression on those he met, as a man of character, standing and ability. Unlike many candidates, he made no extravagant claims, but gave the impression that if elected he would give the people a good business administration of the office.

Suit started for return of horse

Suit was filed in circuit court yesterday by Florence Dolan against Rachel Mead and Harry Mead, charging that on June 1, 1932, the defendants seized a sorrel horse, with white face, valued at $500, from a pasture at Prospect, moving the animal to a farm at Sams Valley.

The plaintiff states that demands for the horse have been repeated and that she was forced to make a trip from Reno, Nev., to southern Oregon at a cost of $200 in an attempt to regain the horse. She asks judgment for the return of the horse and $300 damages, and further states that if said horse cannot be returned the plaintiff asks for a judgment for the value of the horse, the additional sum of $300.

DECISION DENIES NALLEY SHARE IN ESTATE OF WIFE

Decision denying P. K. Nalley, plaintiff, a share in the estate of the late Mrs. Nalley, was handed down today in circuit court by Judge James T. Brand of Coos county, presiding on the local bench. The suit brought by Nalley against B. E. Harder, executor in the estate of Mrs. Nalley's father, the late Wm. Potter, involving the settlement of his divorced wife's estate, was finished this morning. The judge's decision followed soon after the completion of the case.

A second decision, determining the rightful heirs to the Nalley property will be handed down when the legal rights of the various claimants have been thoroughly determined. The second decision will determine the distribution of the money to the heirs.

The case, a very involved one, has been in the courts of this county for many months. Nalley was represented in the recent suit by Attorney Guy O. Smith of Salem. Attorneys P. J. Newman, A. E. Reames, O. C. Hogg, J. P. Pielgel, Hilding Beutgen and W. J. Looker represented heirs and other persons concerned with the case.

Judge Brand also heard the cause for action in the case of P. A. Bates against the Medford Printing company for alleged libel this morning, and ordered the attorney for the plaintiff to state separately the causes for action. In the complaint filed, eight separate publications are included in the one cause for action.
