LITA LOSES ANEW IN EXPLOITATION OF CHAPLIN BOYS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 27.—(AP)—A wistful plea against exploitation of his children in the movies, where his own fame and fortune were founded, has won for Charles Chaplin another victory against the plans of the mother of his two sons, Lita Gray Chaplin, to place them before the film camera.

Making a personal appearance yesterday in the court of Superior Judge Charles S. Crail, before whom Mrs. Chaplin, the comedian's former wife, had filed a petition seeking to abrogate a previous decision in favor of the actor, Chaplin related the hardships of his own boyhood and said he wanted his boys to "romp and play" in their childhood days.

In the first contest, the court ruled in favor of Chaplin by inserting in their divorce decree of 1927 a clause that both parents must present written consent before the boys, Charles, Jr., 7, and Sidney, 6, could be employed in any vocation. In the latest proceeding the mother insisted that Chaplin had adopted an attitude of arrowgance toward her plans.

In rendering a decision, Judge Crail cited the success of the comedian in pictures, against the "little success" of Mrs. Chaplin as a film player, and said he believed the actor was best qualified to judge "what exploitation in pictures means." He commented that if the children were successful, Mrs. Chaplin "would be basking in reflected glory of her husband" and "it should be his privilege to direct who shares in the glory of his name."

The court also called to the mother's attention an expenditure of $12,000 annually for support of the children and remarked that it seemed somewhat extravagant. The judge suggested that some provision should be made to bring the father in closer touch with the "management" of his sons.

RUFFIAN ATTACKS MT. ANGEL WOMAN

SALEM, Oct. 27.—(AP)—State police continued their search today for a man who waylaid Miss Teresa Zach of Mount Angel near that city last night, tying her hands behind her and forcing her into the brush near the roadside.

The girl reached home with her clothes badly torn after being roughly handled, but was not injured, police said. Headed by three state police officers, a posse quickly formed and combed the hills and timber near Mt. Angel.

The man was of medium build and wore a mackinaw-like coat, she said. He poked a small revolver in her back and then bound her hands. At the side of the road he grasped her throat when cars passed.

HUNTING TRAGEDY VERDICT FREES

LA GRANDE, Ore., Oct. 27.—(AP)—A coroner's jury last night found that James Ellis of Milton-Freewater met "accidental death from a gunshot wound from an unknown source." Ellis died here Sunday evening from loss of blood and shock resulting from a wound in the left arm received while hunting deer near Starkey with L. C. Johnson and S. W. Gaines, both of Milton-Freewater.

A bare possibility that the bullet was from some other gun than the one Johnson was carrying is believed to have been considered by the jurors in returning the verdict.

District Attorney Carl Helm said that the verdict officially closes the case.
