

JACKSON COUNTY NEEDY SHARE IN FLOUR DONATION

(Contributed)

Since May 11, when the American Red Cross started its distribution of flour, made from government-owned wheat, voted by congress to aid the suffering people of this country, the local Red Cross chapter has distributed 41,160 pounds to over 500 needy families in Jackson county. It was announced today. The money value of this flour was $662.80, the same being given away to families in need of food, with no charge to them whatever. Points of distribution have been in Medford and Ashland, and there will probably be three additional points of distribution established in the near future.

This gives the people of Jackson county an idea of what the Jackson County Red Cross has already done in a practical way to aid the needy and suffering people of southern Oregon, and why the chapter asks for financial aid at this time, so that the worthy work may be continued during the ensuing winter.

While this wheat flour has been donated to the Red Cross by the government, the Red Cross has assumed the entire expense of handling and distribution, with central distribution station for the country at Chicago, and 3,179 Red Cross chapters, including the local chapter, participating in the work.

To shoulder its share of expense, and continue the distribution of flour to the hungry people of this community, the local Red Cross must have funds, and the drive to secure such funds will start on November 11.

This is only one portion of relief work being carried on by the local Red Cross, and only one item in its budget of expense. Others will be brought to the attention of the people, in subsequent articles, so they may know what an important work this local organization is carrying on and how deserving it is of generous financial assistance at this time.

MORO PRINCESSES BRING SURRENDER

DOLU, P. I., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Through the intervention of two moro princesses, niece of the Sultan of Bulu, six leaders of the island's native outlaws surrendered today after three weeks of intermittent fighting with the Philippine constabulary which cost 56 lives.

Two other leaders still at large were expected to give themselves up tomorrow. Iman Ibbal, leader of the first ambushes of constabulary men, was reported insane and chained to a tree in the Bulu forests.

Princess Dayang Dayang negotiated the surrenders. Princess Tarhata, a graduate of the University of Illinois, is the wife of an outlaw leader now in prison, and is arranging for the surrender of another chieftain.

THE VALLEY OF THE ROGUE
Where the skies arch blue,
All the year through,
And the birds sing their sweetest—
There the mountains hold,
Like their treasure old,
A valley the completest—
The beautiful Valley of the Rogue.

The Rogue's crystal stream,
Glides like a dream,
By upland, lowland, and lea;
And the stars' bright eyes,
Gleam their surprise,
As they nightly joy to see,
The charming Valley of the Rogue.

Where the savage tracked,
And ox-whips cracked,
In the brave old days ago;
Now, the school boy plays,
And the iron-horse neighs,
As he gaily speeds along
The stirring Valley of the Rogue.

Here's the stately home—
The foundation stone
Of our nation, strong and great;
Here's the altar fire,
That bids souls aspire,
To reach the eternal state,
Oh, inspiring Valley of the Rogue!

Oh! sing as you please,
No land o'er the seas,
Though old in song and story,
Has more of the charm
Of village and farm,
Than this of western glory—
The smiling Valley of the Rogue.

Old Time never dies,
But lightly flies,
This lovely valley o'er;
The days always seem
Like Love's young dream—
Too sweet to live forever—
Oh, dreaming Valley of the Rogue.

In the years to be,
O'er life's rough sea,
Should our ship sail a rover,
We'll return some day,
To rest for aye
Beside our early lover—
The beautiful Valley of the Rogue.

ANDERSON PROVES COMPETENT JUDGE BLUE BLOOD BULL

John Anderson, one of southern Oregon's most prominent farmers, knows bulls as well as everything else that goes along with the farming and dairying business, he proved during his recent stay at the Oregon State fair.

Mr. Anderson left his farm at Central Point for one very definite reason, the purchase of a young bull at the state fair. Upon arrival in Salem, he selected a Guernsey and purchased the animal from D. H. Looney of Jefferson. The bull, eight months old, was from the J. C. Penney herd. It had not been before the judges when Mr. Anderson selected it.

Later, competing with 15 others in its class, the bull was awarded first prize as Oregon's finest bull.

After the calf had taken the blue ribbon, Mr. Anderson sent him home and went on to the Pacific International Livestock show in Portland.

There another southern Oregonian, Wm. Warner, local postmaster, demonstrated the progress of the dairying industry in this section, the Warner-Young dairy being awarded a silver medal certificate on grade A raw milk, which scored 97.1.

At the livestock exhibition the local product was competing with milk from all sections of the world, so the Medford dairymen stated today they are particularly well pleased with the score attained.

Other persons from Medford attending the livestock show in Portland were Chas. Austin, milk inspector, and Mrs. Austin.

Roseburg Friday and she returned home with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hartley spent Saturday night and Sunday visiting friends in Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Kleinhammer were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Houston at Medford.

Thurston Culp of Klamath Falls arrived Tuesday at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Mary Pursel. He will be employed at the Pursel ranch for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Stevens and family of Jacksonville have moved to the Applegate vicinity. They now reside in the Waskins district, where the children will enter school. Mr. Stevens is driving a caterpillar tractor for the forest service road crew on the Beaver Creek road, which is nearly completed to the Beaver cabin, and will camp there.

Everett Gilson of Mare Island, Cal., who has been visiting relatives in southern Oregon for the past month and who spent last week here visiting his father, Harry Gilson, left Monday to spend a few days with his grandmother, Mrs. Dave Portney, on Thompson creek. Everett, who belongs to the navy, had a month's furlough and planned to leave for San Francisco Thursday to report by November 1 for duty on board the U. S. S. Ramapo.

Cloverleaf Dairy, near Ruch, owned and operated by E. H. Taylor, now has 175 customers, with 20 more signed up. All dairies here are now delivering milk in the afternoon, due to colder weather.

Mrs. A. Throckmorton was honored guest Sunday when several relatives remembered it being her 77th birthday and arrived early with many gifts and a nice dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anders and two children of Medford and Mr. and Mrs. William McDaniels and son Glenn of lower Applegate.

Cold, stormy weather caused the release of many of the forest service workers. All lookout men have been discharged for the year with the exception of Tallow-box and Dutchman's Peak. John Byrne, who has been stationed as a fire guard on Little Applegate, has a few days rest work to complete, as has Hugh Combs at Wagner Gap. The 13 fire guards, including the cook, who were camped at the Star ranger station, were recently discharged. Bill Fruit, fire guard on Steamboat, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Andrews of Wagner lookout were released last week.

APPELEGATE, Oct. 28.—(Sp.)—The schoolhouse on Little Applegate, which was built for an average attendance, now has 22 pupils. This year marks the largest attendance in the history of that district, the lowest being three, many years ago. All eight grades are taught by Miss Ethel Houston. The district board members found it necessary to mend old seats that had been discarded several years ago and to make two tables and benches for the primary grades.
