

DEMOCRATIC AIMS DANGER AMERICA DECLARES HOOVER

an army of police and waving flags was a repetition of those that he had received in rapid succession during the day at Baltimore, Philadelphia, Newark and cities in between.

It was topped off with a 15-minute ovation that filled the great spaces of Madison Square Garden with a deafening din that only died down when Senator Hebert (R. R. T.) began to introduce Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former president, who in turn presented Mr. Hoover.

Before the chief executive could begin his speech, an excited man shouted down from one of the high balconies, "You're a liar." He repeated it over and over until those near him, and a half dozen police mauling him and dragged him out of the garden.

Dangers Pointed.

Telling his vast audience that "this philosophy upon which the governor of New York proposes to conduct the presidency of the United States is the philosophy of stagnation, of despair," the president listed eight "proposals of our opponents that will endanger or destroy our system."

"This campaign," Mr. Hoover said, "is more than a contest between two men. It is more than a contest between two parties. It is a contest between two philosophies of government."

"We are told by the opposition that we must have a change, that we must have a new deal. It is not the change that comes from normal development of national life to which I object, but the proposal to alter the whole foundations of our national life, which have been built through generations of testing and struggle, and of the principles upon which we have built the nation."

Steady Study Record.

Mr. Hoover, said in considering what the Democrats are proposing, "we must go deeper than platitudes and emotional appeals of the public platform in the campaign and study their records and look into the type of leaders campaigning for the Democratic ticket."

Referring to the latter, the chief executive said, "I can respect the sincerity of these men in their desire to change our form of government and our social and economic system, though I shall do my best tonight to prove they are wrong."

The crowd boomed, as the president added:

"I refer particularly to Senator Norris, Senator La Follette, Senator Cutting, Senator Huey Long, Senator Wheeler, William R. Hearst, and other exponents of a social philosophy different from the traditional American one."

See Help From Democrats.

Unless these men feel assurance of support to their ideas," he continued, "they certainly would not be supporting these candidates and the Democratic party. The zeal of these men indicates that they have confidence that they will have roles in the administration of our government."

Continuing, the president said the changes proposed by the "Democratic principals and allies are of the most profound and penetrating character."

"Let us pause for a moment and examine the American system of government of social and economic life which it is now proposed that we should alter," he added. "Our system is the product of our race and of our experience in building a nation to heights unparalleled in the whole history of the world."

Unique System.

"It is a system peculiar to the American people. It differs essentially from all others in the world. It is an American system. It is founded on the conception that only through ordered liberty, through freedom to the individual, and equal opportunity to the individual will his initiative and enterprise be summoned to spur the march of progress.

"Questions often arise whether democracy can remain master in its own house, can preserve the fundamentals of our American system. I contend that it can, and I contend that this American system of ours has demonstrated its validity and superiority over any system yet invented by human mind. It has demonstrated it in the face of the greatest test of our history, that is the emergency which we have faced in the past three years.

Value Is Proved.

"In spite of all these obstructions we did succeed. Our form of government did prove itself equal to the task. We saved this nation from a quarter of a century of chaos and degeneration, and we preserved the savings, the insurance policies gave a fighting chance to men to hold their homes. We installed measures which today are bringing back recovery. A million men have found jobs.

"I therefore contend that the problem of today is to continue these measures and policies to restore the American system to its normal functioning, to repair the wounds it has received, to correct the weaknesses and evils which would defeat that system."

"To enter upon a series of deep changes to embark upon this inchoate new deal which has been proposed in this campaign would be to undertake to undermine and destroy our American system."

30 Years' Improvement.

Reviewing improvements in American life during the last generation, the president then said:

"This 30 years of incomparable improvement in the scale of living, the advance of comfort and intellectual life, inspiration, and ideals did not arise without right principles animating the American system which produced them. Shall this system be discarded because vote-seeking men appear to distrust and say that the machinery is all wrong and that it must be abandoned? Should not our purpose be to restore the normal working of that system which has brought us such immeasurable benefits, and not destroy it?"

Cries of "No!" greeted the president as he asked if the system should be discarded.

Roosevelt For Tariff Benefit To Agriculture

ample is you own fellow citizen, Mr. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who has recently proclaimed a plan for the restoration of agriculture, not unlike my own. President Hoover does not favor a program of that kind. He has closed the door of hope to American agriculture, and when he did that he closed the door of hope to you also.

For Immigration Curb.

"He says proudly that he has effectively restricted immigration in order to protect American labor. I favor that, but I might add that in the enforcement of immigration laws serious abuses have been revealed.

"But he does not tell you that by permitting agriculture to fall into ruin millions of workers from the farms have crowded into our cities. These men have added to unemployment. They are here because agriculture is prostrated. A restored agriculture will check this migration. It will keep these farmers happily at home. It will provide a market for your products. That is the key to national economic restoration."

Hoover Can't Cooperate.

One more word. I have spoken of getting things done. Now the way to get things done under our form of government is through joint action by the President and the congress. The two branches of government must cooperate. This is necessary under our constitution, and I believe in our constitutional government.

"President Hoover cannot get action from the congress. He seems unable to cooperate. He quarreled with a Republican congress and he quarreled with a half Republican Congress. He will quarrel with any kind of congress. He cannot get things done.

"This is something you must consider. The next congress will certainly be Democratic. I look forward to cooperation with it."

"Then Dignity Died."

A few minutes after Mr. Hoover finished speaking last night in New York city, the Democratic presidential candidate said, "At first the President refused to recognize that he was in a contest, but as the proposals have responded to our program with enthusiasm he recognized that we were both candidates."

"And then," Mr. Roosevelt added, "dignity died. At Indianapolis he spoke of my arguments—misquoting them. But at Indianapolis he went further. He abandoned arguments for personalities."

Royal Wedding Held Assured

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Stockholm newspapers openly disengage rumors today that the engagement of Princess Ingrid to Prince George of the Prince of Wales will be announced in London on November 11.

The newspapers added that the announcement might be made at a dinner in the British capital celebrating the 50th anniversary of the birthday of the princess' father.

The presence of the princess in London for a visit with her royal relatives there, as well as the recent visit to Sweden of the two British princes, lent zest to the reports, however.

The fact that Prince George was always found at Princess Ingrid's side in Sweden recently made his name more prominent than his elder brother's, the heir to the throne.

Republicans Sarcastic On Denial From Farley

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Republican national committee said today that statements by Democratic Chairman James A. Farley "indicate that he is adept at practicing the ancient political adage: Never let the right hand know what the left hand is doing."

In a formal statement, the Republican committee added:

"In brandishing as a forgery a letter bearing his signature received by a Canadian shipping man asking him for a contribution to the Democratic campaign fund, Mr. Farley made this public statement:

"We have never solicited contributions from anyone, Canadian or American."

"Scarcely had this statement been issued before Henry W. Leeds, president of the Chalfont-Haddon Hall Hotel at Atlantic City, turned over to Ambassador Walter Edge a telegram signed by Mr. Farley asking for funds for the Democratic campaign. . . .

"Did someone in the Democratic headquarters also forge Mr. Farley's name to this telegram?"

To the Editor:

For the past two years there has been a hue and cry among the tax-paying citizens that taxes simply must be lowered; right now we are having meetings of city and county budget committees composed of as fine a bunch of citizens as we have, most of them personal friends of mine and some of whom I have talked tax reduction with and still it seems as tho no relief will be had.

The idea that the base of taxation must not be lowered is so firmly fixed in some people's minds that they cannot see any other idea.

Now I know that most everyone knows that taxes absolutely must be reduced and right now while most of us are marking time waiting for economic conditions to right themselves is a good time for us taxpayers

We have the privilege, of course, of protesting the budgets when the proper time comes, but no one has any intention of paying any attention to us as individuals, we would only be yelled down and laughed at.

I have a perfectly safe, sensible, business-like plan that will work out, but it is a taxpayers' job and will require an organization of the taxpayers to put it over, and as there is

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE SEA WOLF

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the noted artist, N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the infamous Captain Kidd's fierce raids on the gold-laden Spanish galleons (1696), which made him the scourge of the Spanish Main. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.
