

BOURBONS START IMMEDIATE PLANS FOR GOVERNMENT

date short session. A sudden spurt in the late vote counting on the part of Republican Senator W. Warren Barbour of New Jersey was brought him safely past his Democratic opponent, Perry H. Stewart, to whom at one time he had conceded defeat. The seat is to be occupied this session, just as is the one in Colorado where Republican Karl C. Schuyler won. Weils Take Hope.

With the Democratic sweep of congress appeared to have come such anti-prohibition majorities that the hope of immediate legislation of the beer, held by ardent wet, climbed high, and several key men in congress hastened to add their voices to those who have already spoken for accomplishing this modification of the Volstead act during the winter.

With this hope, up went expectations of early submission to the scales of the 18th amendment. The hope of immediate repeal, which like modification, was demanded by the Democratic platform and called for in the campaign by Roosevelt. The majorities for prohibition change were calculated on the basis of polls by anti-dry organizations which indicated that a minimum of 47 senators in the new congress would support repeal or recombination while in the house some 300 were so recorded. Hoover "Tiredest Man."

While the country's political thoughts and talk dealt almost exclusively with the winner, at Palo Alto, California, rested "the tiredest man in America." So his aides described President Hoover, who had conceded defeat and congratulated his successor-to-be, less than half a day after completing an extraordinary cross-country campaign, in search of the vote of confidence that was denied him.

Socialists were counting on the total of their candidate, Norman Thomas, who termed his own defeat a victory. With a scant third of the country heard from, his popular vote was nearing 400,000, with a strong possibility he would pass the record set for his party by Eugene Debs, in 1920, with 920,444.

The election hardly over, the bitterness and hard words of the campaign were being rapidly forgotten, covered under assurances by the losers that there would be no obstruction of any sound Democratic program.

Communications

Statement by Mr. Pipes To the Editor:

The 1932 campaign is behind us. The history incident to the results of this election must yet be written. I do not fail to remember that those of us in the ranks cannot lay full responsibility for this history upon the shoulders of the ones chosen to lead us. We must bear part of the responsibility and we owe to them our allegiance and our help, regardless of our disappointments.

The campaign I conducted, while militant in character, was waged in the interest of clean and wholesome government and without any personal rancor. I have come through it and still maintain that same spirit. I deeply appreciate the loyal minority support given to the program I proposed for Jackson county and the principles I enunciated.

Passing through this period of another vivid instance of the American way of settling our disagreements. If our lessons of democratic experience do not fail us, the flaming passions of the past few weeks will soon be forgotten and we will be better off for its season of plain speaking. We should now turn our faces to the future and with one accord devote our energies to the tasks which lie ahead, even though we find ourselves under strange circumstances.

A. W. PIPES. Medford, Nov. 10.
