DESPERATE NEED FOR CLOTHING AT RELIEF EXCHANGE

The Welfare Exchange operated in the old city hall building, is so much in need of clothing of all kinds and sizes that another appeal is being made by those in charge, in order that those who apply for aid tomorrow and next week need not be turned away.

Last Saturday more than 50 of the unfortunate who must ask for aid in clothing their families this winter were assembled in the store room at 9:30, the opening hour.

Twenty women were anxiously seeking work in the sewing-room so that they might receive clothing in exchange for their labor. Mrs. Glenn Smith has been supervising the sewing for some time.

The loan of two more sewing machines for use in the workroom is asked by the committee, and anyone who will loan a machine is asked to call headquarters, 1050 tomorrow.

Among things most needed by the Welfare Exchange are sleeping garments, stockings, underwear, shoes, coats, suits and house dresses, but anything contributed will be utilized or exchanged.

The public is again reminded that the Welfare Exchange is open only on Saturdays and Wednesdays, and that in case bundles cannot be left there on these days, Mrs. David Rosenberg, whose telephone number is 1215, will see that contributions on these or other days are collected and delivered to headquarters.

Mrs. H. D. McCaskey, who is in charge of the exchange during the illness of Miss Helen J. Carlton, has announced that all persons interested in this work are invited to visit the shop and workroom so that they may see how the work is conducted as well as the needs of this department of welfare work.

Craterian Stars

RALPH BELLAMY and GLORIA STUART in "AIR MAIL"

The average life span of an air mail pilot is said to be eight years from the time he starts flying the mail. This is almost one-half the average life of an army or navy flier, given 14 years by statisticians.

"Air Mail," now playing at the Craterian theater, reveals why the intrepid government fliers crash even more often than their military colleagues.

Ralph Bellamy, Pat O'Brien, Slim Summerville and Russell Hopton are seen as the daredevil flying quartet in the film with Gloria Stuart and Lillian Bond providing the feminine interest.

In conjunction with the opening of "Penney's Toyland," the J. C. Penney Co. will sponsor a 5-cent kiddies' matinee at the Craterian Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. There will be free gifts for every child, an auto show and the showing of the regular program. After the show a trip to Penney's Toyland.
