Garden Club Has Interesting Meet, New Court House

The November meeting of the Medford Garden club, held in the auditorium of the new county court house, was a very interesting one, according to reports from the membership.

Raymond Miksche addressed the club on bulbs and bulb planting, stressing the fact that the blossoms of the tulips and of narcissi, to be enjoyed this coming season, are now developed in the bulbs when they are planted and that for the blossoms to develop the bulbs must have been allowed to ripen naturally, their foliage not being cut until yellow.

Activities of Legion Auxiliary

By Mrs. Cole Holmes
All those who attended the Auxiliary Vesper services on Nov. 6th, at the Presbyterian church enjoyed an inspirational talk by Dr. Howell. The Armistice Day luncheon and parade attracted a number of out of town members and all who attended enjoyed a pleasant visit with old friends and members. I believe that all who attended the luncheon at the Hotel Medford will agree that the Circus was worth the effort Mrs. Bricker, the chairman, put into it.

WOMEN, CHILDREN PROVIDED SHELTER 4-SQUARE CHURCH

Homeless women and children, or those who find themselves stranded in Medford without food or shelter, will be housed at the Four-square Gospel Light House, under a new policy inaugurated today. It was announced by Dr. Estelle M. Jones, pastor.

Decision to open a women's and children's shelter was made by Dr. Jones and her staff, following numerous calls at the Light House by men and their wives, by individual women, and sometimes by girls, all of whom were in need of some place to stay.

From now on it will be our policy to house such persons and in addition we will try to find housing for Medford women and children who are present and living practically in the open. We know of a case where pneumonia developed among children in one family that is trying to stand the rigors of this chilly season by living without proper shelter.

"In our work with the soup kitchen we discovered that we could keep a check on transient men and compel them to cease hanging around Medford," Dr. Jones continues.

"We intend, with the aid of the authorities, to urge women, girls and children, to go to their home communities, by telling them the truth about conditions in this part of the country, where every community is hard pressed to care for even its own poor. Medford must not become a roosting place for persons whose sole desire is to wander about the country and live off charitable organizations."

"But we must treat these women and little ones and the girls who come to us with kindness and I know that the community will respond to this endeavor and will help us with donations that we may carry on this work."

"It wrings our hearts to see women with children come to our doors after midnight and ask for a place to stay, 'just over night.' Sometimes girls come here and beg us to take them in. This is a responsibility quit on our shoulders and we will not shirk it."

Already the following Medford firms have agreed to help in the shelter project by donating articles to be used in fitting out rooms: Mann's Department store; the John Cupp Furniture company; the Esda and Holbrook Furniture company; and the Medford Furniture and Hardware company. The Medford Bargain House has agreed to donate a stove.

Bedding, mattresses, floor coverings, chairs, tables and two more stoves are urgently needed. Dr. Jones said. The Light House telephone number is 918 and a driver will be sent to collect any article about which citizens telephone.

The Light House also is badly in need of funds. This institution has conducted no financial campaign and plans to conduct none. Dr. Jones could use cash donations now, she said.
