

ELECTION WINNERS TO HEAR OFFICIAL NOTICE OF RESULT

Official election count for Jackson county was completed Saturday by the canvassing board and the county clerk will proceed at once to the issuance of certificates of election to the winners.

A certificate of election will in all probability be issued to Gordon L. Schermerhorn, democratic nominee, who leads Ralph G. Jennings, "write-in" candidate by 123 votes in the official count.

The county clerk has requested the attorney-general for a ruling on the counting of "write-in" votes, in all phases, including the "intent of the voter." Until this opinion is received, all legal proceedings in connection with the application for a recount by the Committee of 7000 will be held in abeyance.

A recount will be sought in the race for city recorder of Ashland. J. Q. Adams received 626 votes, to 625 for Gertrude Biede, incumbent.

L. A. Roberts, incumbent was re-elected justice of the peace in the Ashland district by a substantial majority over his nearest rival in a field of five candidates.

The official vote was: Roberts 1138, Pittinger 484, Peters 518, Law 399, Andrews 558.

Francis Martin was elected constable for the Ashland district, George Prescott for the Medford district, and Charles Barge for the Gold Hill district.

What's This? No Perfect Faces Found for Films?

HOLLYWOOD.—(AP) Believe it or not, but there's a big scarcity of perfect faces in Hollywood. In fact, none has been found so far. Maybe it's a bit startling, but this situation is revealed by a newly invented face measuring device which also tells how to fix faulty noses and eyes and chins so the camera won't know the difference.

The instrument, designed by Perc and Ern Westmore and Max Factor, film make-up men, takes facial measurements and then shows what certain features should be concealed or enhanced.

Takes Form of Face. The device consists of innumerable pieces of flexible tape, held in place by tiny set screws. It is fitted over the entire head and face and is regulated in such a way that the metal strips are pressed to take the form of the face.

For instance, if this scientific aid to beauty correction shows the nose of the subject is ever so slightly crooked, the Westmores know what to do to make it appear straight. They shade one side of the offending organ with brown powder.

If it is disclosed the eyes are too small, the can be enlarged (for the camera) by shaping the eyebrows in a certain fashion. In much the same manner, large eyes can be made to seem smaller.

How Beauty Is Gauged. The correct facial proportions, according to beauty experts' standards, are: The nose should be the same length as the depth of the forehead, and should equal the distance between the base of the nose and the tip of the chin.

The eyes should be separated by a space the width of the eye. The corners of the mouth should not extend beyond the distance of the pupils of the eye.

The revealing pieces of tape have been adjusted around many famous screen heads, but none, say the Westmores, has all the correct proportions.

No, this isn't a new hair curling device. It's an instrument used in Hollywood to calibrate beauty. At the moment Sheila Terry is being tested. The device has revealed there are no perfect faces in Hollywood.
