

S. O. N. S. Point for Title Tilt With Monmouth Normal Friday

HOBSON POLISHES DEFENSE TO HOLD REPUTED ATTACK

Evenly Matched Teams in Annual Battle at Ashland — Backfields Touted for Stirring Performances

(By Estill Phipps.)

SOUTHERN OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, Ashland, Nov. 17.—(Sp.)—Howard Hobson, Sons grid mentor, is running his machine under full steam as he applies the finishing touches to the defense which is expected to hold the flash attack of Oregon Normal Friday when the two teams meet here to settle title honors of Oregon's Normal schools.

Plenty of preparations are being made to assure competent handicuffing of Ray Wolfe's sure-fire backfield. The Sons picked up some fine points this week as Hobson pointed out what they might expect from the Monmouth attack and Wolfe's three running soles, Scroggins, Gretsch and Edwards.

Fierce Fight Looms. All indications are that the annual battle will be a fierce fight between two evenly matched teams. Hobson's layout has swept through to victory in every tilt except the first tussle of the season—that against the California Aggies, which resulted in a 12-13 deadlock. The veteran Monmouth aggregation has likewise a perfect record except for its initial exhibition against the University of Nevada. Nevada won, 12 to 7, in the last two minutes of play. S. O. N. S. triumphed over the Wildcats of Chico, 14 to 7, last week, and Wolfe's men trimmed the same team earlier in the season, 8-0.

Backfields Brilliant. With two fine forward walls to carry the heavy work, the game should be filled with brilliant performances by the two backfields. Carrying the brunt of the ball-carrying duties will be Lancaster for the Hobson crew and Gretsch for Oregon Normal. Both are triple threats and kick over 40 yards repeatedly. Hines and McLean do most of the aerial transmitting for Hobson. It was McLean's two perfect passes that were responsible for the win over Chico Armistice day.

In the line Wolfe will throw his big stars, McKennie, former all-northwest conference lineman for Willamette; Weeden, guard, and his pair of ends, Gordon and Squires, against such veteran S. O. N. S. luminaries as "Swede" Anderson, former Medford high and Oregon freshman mainstay; Mahoney, fiery little 150-pound center; Dwight Patterson, Anderson's mate at guard, and Stapp, Hobson's big wingman.

Records Impass. The season's records for both teams: Oregon Normal, 7; University of Nevada, 12. Oregon Normal, 8; Chico State, 0. Oregon Normal, 10; Cheney (Wash.) Normal, 0. Oregon Normal, 10; Albany College, 0. Oregon Normal, 10; Pacific Lutheran, 0. Oregon Normal, 8; Willamette, 0. S. O. N. S., 12; California Aggies, 12. S. O. N. S., 20; Pacific University, 0. S. O. N. S., 25; Humboldt State, 0. S. O. N. S., 31; Eastern Oregon Normal, 0. S. O. N. S., 14; Chico State, 7.

While no word has come from Monmouth regarding the starting lineup, Wolfe is expected to use his strongest eleven from the start.

Starting Lineups. Hobson has announced his starting lineup as: Connie Mahoney, center; "Swede" Anderson and Dwight Patterson, guards; Mike Balkovic and Harvey Oakes, tackles; Frank Stapp and Bud Jones, ends; Claude Hines, quarter; Cliff McLean and Al Bradford, halves, and Pal Lancaster, full. The same officials who handled the Sons-Pacific game in Medford have been secured for this game. They are Douglas Lowell, referee; George Minnaugh, umpire; and Lynn Jones, head linesman, all of Portland.

A Sturdy "S.O.N."

HARVEY OAKES, 180-pound first string tackle on the Southern Oregon Normal squad, whose 5 feet, 4 inches of height has been a tower of strength in the season's schedule. He will see action Friday against the Monmouth teachers.

SPEARS TO FORE IN BIG 10 RANKS AS BADGERS WIN

Former Oregon Mentor Brings Order Out of Chaos in First Season at Wisconsin—Others Also Good

By Paul Mickelson.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(AP)—It looks like a tough, dull winter for the notorious "drug store" coaches of the Big Ten football world.

Armed with dynamite, figures and arguments a month ago for bigger and better coaches at their respective campuses, the disasterters have been victimized by a series of comebacks by their football targets. Today, with the close of the Big Ten season one game away, virtually every coach in the conference seems assured of at least another season of master-minding.

Situation Today.

Wisconsin: In his first season at Wisconsin, Coach Clarence "Doc" Spears has become the most talked of mentor in the conference. Bringing order out of chaos, "Doc" led the Badgers to perhaps their happiest season since the championship year of 1912. Only a one-point defeat by Purdue and a tie at Ohio State are against the 1932 record.

Illinois: Coach Bob Zuppke, off to a bad start, has made a great finish, to stretch Illini imaginations for 1933.

Ohio State: They're still after Coach Sam Williamson, but he and his team are making another great finish, defeating Northwestern and Pennsylvania after tying Indiana, Pittsburgh and Wisconsin, and losing to Michigan. The Buckeyes also have earned the "who cares" attitude.

Northwestern: Coach Dick Hanley, despite his worst year, is looking forward to next season with the whole Wildcat mass solidly behind him.

Iowa: Although Iowa alumni have adapted the "who cares" attitude, Coach Oast Soem has made good with a fine finish. His system and optimism have renewed Hawkeye hopes for '33.

Minnesota: The defeat by Wisconsin was a blow to Bernie Bierman in his first year, but he's had a good season and can crown it Saturday with the thanks of Purdue by defeating Michigan.

Michigan: Coach Harry Kipke is sitting pretty with a championship within his grasp.

Purdue: Coach Noble Kiser is making them forget his predecessor, Jimmie Phelan, with one of the best coached teams in football.

Indiana: There are rumors of disension among the Monday morning coaches at Indiana but a victory over Purdue Saturday would make the season a great one for the Hoosiers and Coach Hayes.

Chicago: Everyone close to Coach

MODERN GRAPPLING HELD ROUGH, BRUTAL CLOWNING

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Professional wrestling was in danger today of being banned in Maryland as being "nothing but rough, brutal clowning."

Denouncing the bouts he saw at a weekly show here Tuesday night, State Senator Joseph L. Donovan who has been "a wrestling fan for thirty years," said last night he intends "to push this thing for all it's worth" at the next session of the state legislature.

He explained that if the wrestlers do not "clean their own house"—or if the state athletic commission does not do it—he will propose a law either to ban wrestling entirely, or to prohibit exhibitions of the type he described.

"All that's left now for the wrestlers to do," Donovan said, "is to go to each other with axes. Yes, axes! Place an ax in each wrestler's corner and give him the right to use it."

"Why, in one of the matches one wrestler was kicked out of the ring three times. The referee was almost thrown out of the ring. That kind of thing has to end."

"I don't want to make a pink tea out of wrestling. I want it sportlike. This kicking, cuffing and punching ought to be stopped."

"I'm told that this thing is permitted because the people want it. Suppose the people wanted to see murder—should we permit it?"

Informed of the senator's statement, Robert Sindall, head of the athletic commission, said, "the only complaint I had against the bouts Tuesday night was that they were too tame. The crowd doesn't like them. As for me, I like them rough, but fair."

HENSELMAN TALKS ON STOCKS, ACTIVE CLUB

At the regular meeting of the Active club at the Holland hotel Tuesday evening, George Henselman, Medford broker, spoke on "Investments," and described the kinds and history of bonds, stocks, investment trusts and the transactions of stocks on the New York exchange.

Mr. Henselman outlined an investment program, and said that one of the big things people of today are learning, is "the necessity of diversified holdings and supervision." Questions concerning stocks were answered by him.

Charles Ferguson was introduced as a new member.

THYE AND REILLY RESORT TO FISTS IN PORTLAND BOUT

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Last night's wrestling bout between Ted Thye, Portland heavyweight, and Pat Reilly, Boston, ended in a double foul and was declared no-contest. It was something new for the wrestling books. Referee Harrington refused to name a winner after Thye and Reilly, in less than 30 minutes of the roughest kind of rough and tumble man-handling did everything to each other but pull up the ring posts and use them for clubs. The double foul came in the third fall after Reilly had taken the first and Thye the second when Thye dropped his opponent with a right hand smash to the stomach. Harrington reached down and raised Reilly's hand in token of victory but the fighting Irishman wasn't satisfied. He jumped to his feet and hung one on Thye's chin. Harrington then raised Thye's arm. There was a wild scramble for several seconds with both grapplers trying to mix it, but Harrington finally got the men to their corners and declared it no contest.

In the special event, Bob Miller, 162 pounds, Chicago, defeated Pat Callahan, 164 pounds, Portland, with an airplane spin in the third round. It also was a lambing affair.

Fred Maracel, 175 pounds, Scappoose and Dr. Nap de Vore, 174 pounds, wrestled three thrilling rounds to a draw in the preliminary.
