Society Revived By Thoughts of Coming Holiday Festivities

Thanksgiving holiday plans are demanding the attention of many society folk this week and the holiday spirit has already taken a place in entertaining. While some are going south for the "day of plenty" others, who number more, are staying here and families and friends will gather at their favorite fireplaces Thanksgiving day, which will be preceded and followed by numerous dinners, dances and small afternoon gatherings.

Mr. and Mrs. Corbin Edgell, who left Tuesday for the south will be located in a new house in Carmel for the holiday, according to a telegram received by Mrs. W. A. Holloway. The Edgells will spend the winter in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Geary Garrett are leaving Monday to spend the holidays in San Francisco.

Mrs. E. H. Lloyd of London, England, and Mrs. G. W. Sumner of Honolulu, who have been house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrill, will also be in California, having left Friday for Oakland, where Mrs. Lloyd will be guest for some time of her sister, Mrs. Sumner and son, George, who will leave in the near future for the islands.

Before their departure from Medford they were the inspiration for much entertaining. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Carpenter were hosts at a dinner in their honor Wednesday. Other guests for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Morrill, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Emmons, Chas. Voorhies, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carpenter and Mr. C. S. Newhall.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carpenter were also among members of the ranch colony entertaining last week. They invited to dinner at their home last evening: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Turley, Mr. and Mrs. Van Hoenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrill, Mr. and Mrs. Sprague Biegel and Messrs. Paul Scherer and Chas. Voorhies.

Tariff and Prohibition Topic of Club Paper

In her paper "Great American Issues," at the Wednesday Study club, Mrs. Harding chose Tariff and Prohibition as the subjects of her discussion. Tariff has been, so to speak, the football among the important issues, being regulated by one political party and then the other, whereas it should be handled by competent business men, she stated. No issue has attracted so much attention, with the exception of slavery, as the prohibition question, she added.

Mrs. Alfred reviewed "The Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens," taking him from his boyhood days in New York, his life proved a fascinating story of adventuring in many lands.

Mrs. Hanby gave many interesting up-to-date items in her news review.

Gordon String Quartet To Play Here Nov. 28th

What is probably the finest collection of four musical instruments in actual use today, is in the possession of the Gordon String quartet, which is to play a concert here on Monday evening, November 28, at 8:15 o'clock at the senior high school auditorium under auspices of the Southern Oregon branch of the Civic Music association. As concerts of the season will start promptly at the stated time, guests are urged to be in their seats at that time.

Realizing that every stringed instrument varies in the subtlest way from every other, the members of the Gordon string quartet have chosen their instruments to match each other as exactly as do the collective temperaments of their owners. The result is an unparalleled purity and beauty of tone and a high aggregate of insurance premiums. For the working apparatus of the Gordon String quartet is one of the most valuable of its kind in the world.

Mr. Gordon's violin is the famous instrument formerly known by the name of its possessor, Tom Taylor, one of the ten most perfect Stradivari in the world, and made by the master in 1732, when he was ninety years of age. Among those who have used it are Paganini, Ludwig Spohr and Joseph Joachim. Joachim, founder of what in his day grew to be the foremost string quartet in the world, wished to buy the Tom Taylor, but the instrument was not removed from the collection it graced until the recent death of Mrs. Taylor, when Mr. Gordon purchased it for $40,000.

Ralph Silverman, the quartet's second violinist, plays an instrument made by Nicola Amati, the teacher of Stradivari. This violin is recognized as one of the finest of all Amati's and is appraised by experts at between $20,000 and $25,000.

Paul Robyn plays a viola made by Gasparo de Salo, the founder of the renowned Cermona school of violin makers, a school which included Amati, Stradivari and Guarneri. It's value is $25,000.

Nashoun Bendittsky's cello is one of the best known of those made by Gaudagnini. It was formerly a part of the Rudolph Wuritzer collection, and is worth between $25,000 and $30,000.

For initiation of new members of the Torch Honor Group a delightful party was given Friday evening at the home of E. H. Niedermeyer on the Old Stage Road. The following were given both the faked and formal initiation: Wallace Lawry, Barbara Holt, Waunita Wilson, Pauline Rogers, Elmer Blake, Ruth Tucker and Dolph Jones, candidates for the one bar pin and Doris Rose, candidate for the two-bar pin.

Following initiation all members enjoyed games until a late hour, after which refreshments were served. Old members present were: Mrs. Julia Benson, advisor; Katherine Stearns, president; Wilton Colbaugh, vice-president; Marjorie Rogers, secretary; treasurer; Velma Smith, historian; Irene Stubblerfeld, Erma Niedermeyer, Dorothy Gore, Francis Tucker, Dorothy Phillips, Cleo Hicks, Frances Perry, Elizabeth Perry, Helen Crane and Arletta Tyrrell.

Memberships In B. P. W. Club Bring Full Explanation

In response to numerous inquiries recently received by members of the Business and Professional Women's club regarding the requirements for membership in the organization, the officers issued a statement yesterday to the effect that the by-laws of the organization demand that only 75 per cent of the members be required to be active business or professional women. Under this provision several women, who are not engaged in business or professional work, and who do not draw a salary in any capacity have been invited into the local chapter. Among them are Mrs. H. D. McCaskey and Mrs. Sydney Richardson, well known members of local society.

The club has at all times had several persons within the membership, who were not actively engaged in business, but who were interested in the progress of the club and its major activities. At no time has this number exceeded the percentage permitted by the national by-laws of the federation.

Interest on the part of housewives and other club workers in the activities of the Business and Professional Women's organization, is always welcomed, the officers stated yesterday, and as many persons as the by-laws will permit, from other walks of life, are welcomed into the club.

No one has been asked to join, however, until her eligibility in relationship to the existing membership of the club has been investigated. So that the public may be assured of the verity of the above statements the article on membership from the constitution of the Oregon Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs is submitted. It reads as follows:

Section 1. Organizations, seventy-five per cent of whose membership is made up of active business and professional women, shall be eligible to membership in this federation.

Section 2. This federation shall be affiliated with the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, and every club holding membership in the state federation shall automatically become a part of the national federation, paying dues accordingly.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox Much Entertained. Mr. and Mrs. David Wilcox, who are visiting here from Portland, were the inspiration for several events of the past week in local society. A no-host party at Moore's Inn was given for their pleasure last evening and attended by 18 local society folk.
