In the reports from the units it was learned that each is planning to serve hot soup and milk for under-nourished children and in this connection the organization voted to sponsor the Hollywood Marionettes some time in the near future to raise funds for this work and each child will be given the opportunity to pay by doing work in connection with the kitchen or school.

WORK ON COUNTY ROADS ASSIGNED WITH RELIEF AIM

Fifty-five men were assigned Friday by the county court, to emergency road work starting Monday. In addition 15 men will be put to work in the Eagle Point district Monday, under direction of Road Supervisor Ed. Dutton.

Next Wednesday 75 men will be assigned to relief work, for the week starting Monday, November 28. The assignments will not be made until three o'clock Wednesday afternoon and the meeting will be held in the auditorium of the county courthouse. This will avoid confusion and congestion in the courthouse halls, and in the county court rooms.

The county road work is being conducted through funds provided for emergency relief work. It is being granted to the 400 or 500 heads of families in the county, in need, and with dependents. The applicants are checked with the records of the county, and the Red Cross. No work is being dispensed to those with small incomes or resources, or in fair circumstances. The applicants must have a Jackson county labor card.

Most of those assigned Friday had labor cards over a year old, and with notations that they worked last year.

The county hopes the labor fund will last until work starts on state and federal fund projects planned for this section are underway. Bids for the re-routing of the Pacific highway over the Sixtyfour and the Central Point cut-off will be opened by the State Highway commission December 14. Work is expected to start a few days after awarding of the contract and to last well into the spring.

The county road is the only public work now underway and the labor is being distributed as much as possible over the county.

In the north end of the county close to 75 residents of Josephine county and the north end of this county are employed on road grading work, which will last all winter, as far as weather conditions permit.

Activities of Legion Auxiliary

By Mrs. Cole Holmes.

The Armistice Day luncheon favor was won by Mrs. Maude Holmes.

Many dinner parties and midnight supper parties were inspired by the Armistice Day dance and now that "our day" is over our thoughts are turning to the more serious side of the organization.

Our sewing club will meet Monday evening at the welfare room in the Medford National Bank building at 7:30 p. m. All members of the auxiliary are urged to come and meet with the club. We are sewing on Red Cross work that is much needed at the present time.

There has been a great deal of sickness in the families of the auxiliary members. It is a pleasure to know that all are improving.

The first social meeting of the auxiliary was held last Monday night in the club rooms at the armory. Due to the inclement weather we did not have as many members present as the committee had expected. Mrs. Myrtle Wright and her refreshment committee served refreshments appropriate to the month of November. The tables were beautifully decorated in autumn colors. "Gootie" was the game of the evening and the head prize was won by Mrs. Geo. Coddling and low by Mrs. Humphreys.

The auxiliary helped in the Red Cross drive, about fifteen members canvassing the residential district.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Burnham of Seattle were guests here last week of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Johnson at their country home west of the city.

CHAMBER FORUM AT ROTARY CLUB SESSION TUESDAY

A members' forum meeting of the Medford Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for Tuesday noon, at the Hotel Medford, in connection with the regular meeting of the Rotary club, according to A. P. Johnson, forum chairman. The feature of the meeting will be a motion picture and lecture by Harold C. Boyd, showing scenes along the route of the proposed Pacific International highway. According to advance notices, the picture to be shown is an exceptionally fine one, revealing scenes along the route from Alaska to Panama, with a running account by the exhibitor, Mr. Boyd. The production is under the sponsorship of the Gilmore Oil Co. and is being shown at various civic and community meetings up and down the coast.

The travalogue starts in Alaska, with a picturization of scenes there, covering wild life, fishing, industries, etc., and from there proceeds down the coast to British Columbia, where scenes of photographic beauty combine with many unexpected and extraordinary incidents caught by the camera, including a Northern Indian village, totem poles and burial grounds, glaciers, and fishing at its best.

HOW THE BANK CONTRIBUTES TO COMMUNITY WELFARE

A Bank's First Duty is to Its Depositors - - -

Lending money is of course a primary function of banking—but as loans are made from money deposited for safe keeping, every loan granted must have the utmost assurance of repayment when due.

The "tight-fisted" banker thus earns his nickname simply because he must be extra careful that depositors' funds are not tied up in doubtful "promises to pay."

Banking, after all, is nothing more than a business enterprise in which conservatism is the best policy always.
