Sees Medford Pears—A letter received during the past week by Wm. Isaacson from Fred Grund of J. Friedman and Company, Inc. brings cheering news of Medford pears. The first thing he saw upon leaving his hotel after arrival in New York City, Mr. Grund writes, was a box of Medford pears, looking fine and tasting better. Mr. Grund also writes that the famous play by Clemence Dane, "Unholy Love" is going to be cheaper, after making a survey of the New York markets.

Sir Harry Lauder Started As Miner

Sir Harry Lauder's elevation to knighthood apparently has not brought forgetfulness of his early struggles when, scarcely able to make a living as a singer, he was forced to return to the coal pits in order to sustain himself and his wife. Sir Harry began life as a "pit boy," driving a Sbedjan pony. When he had advanced to the position of a full-fledged coal miner, he felt that he was on the highway to riches. While at work he often sang, and in time the other miners learned to enjoy his singing, and contributed to his reputation as an amateur entertainer.

His first professional appearance after he left the mines was at Lanarkshire, Scotland, with a concert company. He got the equivalent of $7 a week. It was fourteen years before he made his first appearance in London, where he scored an instant hit.

Sir Harry Lauder, who comes to the Craterian theatre Monday night is more than a mere entertainer. He is a unique character, and is known and popular in all English-speaking countries.

In Holly Picture

Two of America's most glamorous stars and a newcomer who seems destined to attain the same great screen prominence are seen in "A Bill of Divorcement," the four-star picture showing at the Craterian today. John Barrymore and Billie Burke, contemporaries through years of this country's most colorful period of the theatre, are seen together for the first time in this powerful picture taken from the famous play by Clemence Dane. Katharine Hepburn is the newcomer about whom Hollywood is buzzing with praise. Owing to the Sir Harry Lauder Co. showing here Monday night, "A Bill of Divorcement" will show today only.

At Fox Rialto

Twelve women—and the thirteenth! The proverbially unlucky thirteenth is the one who causes all the heartbreak and anguish in "Thirteen Women" at the Rialto theatre for today and tomorrow.

Revival Meetings Open At Phoenix

WILL COMB CITY FOR CLOTHING TO CARE FOR NEEDY

Wednesday, November 23, leaders in the drive to obtain clothing for the relief shop will make their first tour of the city, calling at homes from Main street South in the West end of the city. Miss Helen Carlton, chairman of activities, announced yesterday.

All persons, who have clothing to donate to the shop, announcements of the needs for which have been distributed by pamphlets about the city, are asked to have their packages on the door step to add ease to the campaign.

Four unemployed men have been hired to gather the clothing. All kinds of clothing will be accepted as the demands of the needy are constantly increasing. There are more people coming into the clothing shop each day. Mrs. Carlton, at yesterday, and the clothing is sold only to those persons who are really in need of it and they are allowed to obtain the clothing by paying for it in work and service.

The plan is one which enables the needy to help themselves and does not encourage a dole system. Anyone willing to contribute garments to this relief shop is asked to have them ready when the workers arrive. The city has been divided into three groups for the drive and the first collectors will start out Wednesday through the West end, traveling south from Main street.

The system adopted by the women's division of the County Council for Relief of Unemployment, has won much praise from local folk and visitors, in that it enables the people to ask for the things they need without asking for charity as they are given a chance to pay in labor for what they receive.
