MEDFORD COUPLE IN AUTO CRASH

Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS.

A L CAPONE, once the country's best press-agented gangster, now a convict in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, is a model prisoner, working hard in the prison shoe factory, conducting himself like a gentleman and earning every month the ten days allowed off his sentence for good behavior.

CAPONE, you see, knows that in prison he can't take his enemies out for rides and shoot them down. He can't bulldoze poor devils who are weaker than he. He can't corrupt the police and run beer at a huge profit. It's useless to try any of these things, and he knows it.

So he settles down to an industrious life, and becomes a decent and useful member of the particular society in which he happens to be living.

THERE'S an interesting thought there, which is this:

If the laws of the city of Chicago had been as efficiently and as firmly administered as the laws of Atlanta prison, Capone would probably have been a useful and hard-working citizen of the city of Chicago, instead of becoming its best known gangster.

IF PRISON, the breaking of the rules is CERTAIN to be followed by punishment.

If the breaking of laws, outside of prison were equally certain of punishment, there would be far less crime.

WITH the figures all in from the doubtful places, it becomes apparent that the Democrats will control the next house of representatives by a majority of 193. They will control the senate by a majority of 22.

That is as it should be. They now have complete authority to do exactly as they please, and upon their shoulders rests the full responsibility to DO A GOOD JOB.

CONTRAST this situation with Germany, which has 20-odd political parties, none of which is able to swing anything even approaching control of the reichstag, which is the approximate German equivalent of our congress.

The two-party system, with one party in complete control of the government and the other functioning as opponent and critic, may have its drawbacks; but it certainly beats the German system of a score or more of parties, none of which has either complete control or complete responsibility.

"OREGON people want lower automobile license fees." We are reading that statement every day or so in the papers, and it is undoubtedly true.

But what Oregon people must remember is that with lower license fees there will be less money to spend on the highways, and so we must get along with FEWER NEW ROADS.

If we will keep that fact clearly in mind, we will probably be able to get along nicely with license fees at least a half lower.

The trouble will come if we try to have lower license fees and MORE ROADS.

THAT, as a matter of fact, is the whole problem of tax reduction. If we pay less, we must be content to get along with FEWER SERVICES from the government. It is increasing the services rendered by government that has brought taxes to their present high level.

FRED G. CLARK, commander of the Crusaders, a militant organization of vets, makes this statement following the wet victories at the recent election:

"When the Volstead act is modified, or even when the 18th amendment is repealed, that's not the end of the fight—that's only the beginning."

He is speaking a great truth—which will become increasingly apparent in the next few years.

THE coming of prohibition brought its problems, and the END of prohibition—which is clearly indicated by the recent election—will bring ITS problems.

The liquor business will have to be controlled, for the American people will never again permit it to run wild. And the job of controlling it isn't going to be an easy one.

It never has been an easy job, and it never will be.

BEN GARNETT AND WIFE NEAR DEATH, EUGENE HOSPITAL

Woman's Skull Fractured, Both Jaws Broken—Garnett's Hip Fractured—Head-On Collision Cause

EUGENE, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Four persons suffered serious injuries and one was badly bruised and cut when two cars crashed head-on on the Pacific highway nine miles north of Eugene late yesterday afternoon.

The injured, Mrs. Roxie Hunt, Eugene, severe scalp wounds, concussion of the brain, broken right arm and wrist, multiple cuts and bruises; her daughter, Bernice Trip, 15, multiple cuts and bruises and possible internal injuries; R. Keenan, driver, bruises and cuts; Mrs. Ben Garnett, Medford, fractured skull, broken upper and lower jaws, broken ribs; Ben Garnett, fractured hip and bruises.

All were rushed to Eugene hospitals.

The accident occurred when the Garnett car, going north, turned out to pass a car parked alongside the road. As it turned out, the parked car suddenly pulled out into the highway, forcing the Garnett car in the path of the south-bound Keenan car. The two machines came together head-on. Both cars were badly damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnett were en route to Portland when the accident occurred, it was learned here. Their son, Cliff Garnett, who is employed in Kenneth Parrett's service station here, left about 6:30 last evening with Parrett for Eugene.

Mr. Garnett drives truck for the Associated Oil company here. The Garnetts also have a son in Salem.

JAPAN AND CHINA AIR DIFFERENCES BEFORE LEAGUE

Nipponese Spokesman Defends Actions in Manchuria—Dr. Koo Voices Indignation Over Jap Argument

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Japan and China, meeting again at the bar of the League of Nations, resumed their contest over Manchuria today.

Yonuke Matsuo defended Japan's course and rejected the findings of the Lytton commission, which investigated the Manchurian situation for the league and recommended creation of a special international regime in Manchuria until the issue between Japan and China is settled.

Dr. Koo Hsi Arguments.

Dr. Wellington Koo, replying for China, asserted that if Japan's interpretation of the Kellogg pact is correct the peoples of the world might wonder what is the use of upholding it.

"If the Japanese version is to be believed," he said, "their country is a meek lamb in the teeth of a ferocious China."

Dr. Koo listened placidly while Japanese spokesman denied his government had violated any international
