

NOVEMBER SKIES MOSTLY DREARY' RAINS ABNORMAL

Meteorological notes for November, as compiled for the local area by W. J. Hutchinson, observer in charge of the Medford weather bureau, show overcast skies and rainy weather predominated during the month. Cloudiness or broken clouds prevailed each day, allowing only very short intervals of sunshine. There were no days characterized as clear; 19 were totally cloudy and the balance recorded as partly cloudy. Past records show that there has been but one November in 22 years with a similar frequency of cloudiness.

Precipitation was greatly in excess of the monthly normal. A total of 3.84 inches fell, exceeding the normal by 1.16 inches. However, rains were fairly well distributed through the month and daily amounts were not unusually large. Moisture was mostly absorbed as it fell, permitting only a minimum of run-off. Rains in varying amounts, including traces (amounts too small to measure) occurred on 22 days. A maximum 24-hour total rainfall of 1.04 inches fell on the 27th and 28th. Seasonal precipitation at the close of November totaled 4.34 inches, which is exactly equal to the normal for a like period.

Daily temperature means were slightly higher than normal as an average, although maximums compared favorably with previous years. Minimum temperatures, however, averaged several degrees higher than usual. Monthly extremes of temperature were particularly noticeable, due to an unusually high monthly minimum. The lowest temperature recorded was 28 degrees on the 23rd, and as compared with previous records, here has been but one November in the 22 years with a higher minimum temperature. A monthly maximum of 63 degrees occurred on the first.

Winds were mostly light, with a few short periods of higher velocities. During the heavier wind of the 27th a record velocity of 35 miles per hour was recorded from the southeast. Wind movement totaled 3,361 miles, at an average hourly speed of 4.7 miles.

Early morning fogs were of frequent occurrence throughout the month, but for the most part were not of long duration, and air travel suffered only a few delays in maintaining schedules at Medford.

RANCH RESIDENCE IS BURGLARIZED

The ranch house of E. A. Richmond, a cattle buyer, residing in the Foots Creek district, was burglarized some time the past week and furniture, beds and groceries stolen, according to the state police who investigated the case. The loss is estimated at $75.

Transient indigents, reported as numerous in the vicinity, are blamed by state police for the theft. Many wanderers camp and live in tents in the vicinity.

The burglary was not discovered until Friday when Richmond returned from a trip, after an absence of several days. He reported the loss to authorities who are now investigating.

Oriental Rugs On Display Here Soon

Leo L. Powell, representative of Cartesian Bros., Inc., Portland, Oregon, announced today that he will have a three-day display and sale of Oriental rugs at Weeks and Orr's, starting tomorrow. According to Mr. Powell, rugs have advanced in value from 10 to 20 per cent and the present prices offer savings that will never be offered again, in his opinion.

Mr. Powell will also have a selection of semi-antique rugs in scatter sizes, featured in his Weeks & Orr display.

It takes a Christmas Seal to make it Christmas mail.

CHRISTMAS LIGHT CONTEST PLANNED BY GARDEN CLUB

Citizens of Medford will welcome the good news that this community is to have another outdoor Christmas lighting contest again this year, under the direction of the Medford Garden Club. This beautiful Yuletide custom has been adopted by progressive cities throughout the entire nation until nearly every wide-awake community in America is sponsoring Christmas lighting programs of one type or another. No longer is the joy and good cheer of the glad Yuletide season confined behind closed doors and now everyone may share in the delightful atmosphere created by the beautiful Christmas lighting effects here, there and everywhere.

Christmas decoration, since its earliest beginning, has always centered around the fireside of the home, but the new weatherproof wiring devices and the inside colored lamps have extended the realm of the Christmas greetings to the exterior of the house and garden. Beautiful effects may be obtained even in the smallest of homes, by outlining eaves and gables with light to emphasize their contours, or by floodlighting conspicuous sections in pale green or blue to furnish a contrasting background for the lighted trees and shrubbery on the lawn. Usually a solidity of color is more artistic and impressive than haphazard mixtures.

Within the house, the brightly lighted Christmas tree can be made more attractive when supplemented with lighted festoons around the fireplace, doorways and windows, by illuminated wreaths and window candle sets. Wall brackets and porch lanterns may be relamped with colored lamps for the holiday season.

Full details of the local lighting contest may be secured from members of the Medford Garden Club.

Ashland Youth Crashes Window

Arthur Decker, 12, of Ashland, had four stitches taken in his left hand, and one in his car Saturday afternoon, when his bicycle crashed through the window at the Ashland post office. He was taken to the hospital by Vernie Carter for treatment.

Reports from that city stated that Decker had no brakes on his bicycle, and that he was unable to stop the wheel when coming down the boulevard.

"AAA" makes winter freeze test of STANDARD GASOLINE

OFFICIAL STARTING TIME 2.11 SECONDS AT 10° BELOW ZERO

Here is the American Automobile Association's Official Report:

This is to certify that a Freeze Starting Test on Standard Gasoline, purchased by us in the open market, resulted as follows:

The test was conducted in a stock Model A Ford Engine at the following temperatures:

- Combustion Chamber . . . . . 10° F Below Zero
- Atmospheric Temperature . . . . . 10° F " "
- Zerolene Motor Oil in Crankcase . . . . . 6° F " "
- Zerolene Gear Grease, Winter . . . . . 7° F " "
- Standard Gasoline . . . . . 7.5° F " "

The engine started and continued to run in 2.11 seconds after first pressure on starting button.

This test is officially sanctioned by the AAA and conforms in all respects to the regulations of that body; the engine and all products being of the grade and consistency regularly purchasable. Temperatures given are Fahrenheit.
