MEDFORD YOUNG SET RECORD FOR SCHOOL CENSUS

ing such institutions of higher education, 35 are away at universities or colleges, 44 are going to normal schools, and 31 are attending technical schools and business colleges. All pupils must attend school until they have graduated from the eighth grade or until they reach the recognized age for dropping out. In Medford, of the 147 per cent who are not in school, over 8 per cent are graduates of the eighth grade, and approximately 4 per cent more have graduated from the high school. Only 2 per cent have not graduated from the eighth grade at least, and are out of school, and only a third of these are under the age limit, most of them being transients living in camp grounds.

There are more married young people than last year. In 1931-32 there were 65 married people on the census rolls. This year there are 71. Over half, 40, are 19 years of age; 47 are 16 years old and 14 are 17 years of age. Of this married group, approximately 17 per cent are high school graduates. Of those married, only five are boys.

FROZEN APPLES BEST UNMOVED

Local residents who had apples stored on their back porches or in other rather exposed areas last night are urged to use caution today in buying for them, and the best treatment, according to a local fruitman, is "leave them alone if they are frozen."

By testing one of the apples it is easy to discover whether or not the low mercury proved detrimental to the fruit. If the apple is hard and minus its natural flexibility to the touch, it is frozen and should not be handled or moved. Apples, if handled and moved while frozen, will turn black and rot, it was stated. They should be left in the same location until they thaw out with a change of weather.

The Australian Rugby league makes no distinction between amateurs and professionals, the paid and unpaid tearing around together in perfect amity. "Our motto," an official explained, "is more football and less hypocrisy."

Lou Little, Columbia coach, suggests only one more change in the football rules. He would like to see them permit passes anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

Strangler Lewis, robust hero of some 2000 mat engagements, marveled at the six-day bike riders. "Boy," he exclaimed, "I wouldn't take that kind of punishment for all the money in the remaining banks."

Frank Higgins, the A's recruit infielder, is trying to figure some way to get in a little more baseball. After playing every training game last spring, then 200 league games with Portland, he went down to Texas and polished off the season with the semi-pros.

NEWS ATTORNEYS ENTER DEMURRER IN RECEIVERSHIP

Notice of a demurrer to a separate and further reply to the plea for the abatement in the receivership suit of the News Publishing company against L. A. Banks and the Medford News Publishing company, has been filed in circuit court by Attorneys M. O. Wilkins and John Irwin of Klamath Falls, counsel for the defendants.

The defense claims there are no grounds for denying the plea in abatement, and that the paying of the corporation tax after the filing of the receivership suit does not restore the plaintiffs' corporate being. The plaintiff held that the failure to pay the corporation tax is a legal infirmity that is removed by tax payments.

Judge Lewelling of the Linn county circuit court, named Thursday by the state supreme court to hear the case, when the defense filed affidavits of prejudice against Judge James T. Brand of Coos county, and Judge H. D. Norton, is now expected to arrive to hear the case at the opening of court Monday. No definite time for the case has been set.

Settlement of the second receivership move, in the same manner as the first one, was reported as broached by the defense. A defense attorney informed county officials and friends that $5000 was in a safety deposit box for payment on the approximate $11,000 sought, with promissory notes for the balance. No official public action to this end has yet been instituted.
