SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS

By Arthur Schoenl.

What was the biggest thrill in the past football season for Medford high school? Someone asked us that question the other day, and it took a few minutes concentrated thinking to recall the moments in Medford high's eight home games that quickened the old pumper.

There was the fake spinner play Grants Pass pulled on Medford's goal line. Four linemen and backs, running wide, deceived the whole Medford defense to one side and Prady, the Caveman quarter, stepped over the goal through a yawning hole. No one touched him and his touchdown made the score 7-6. Another big thrill came a moment later when the big Medford line crushed Frederick's try for goal, winning the game for Medford.

Some declared they got their biggest thrill out of the 70-yard punt returned by Little Gillsby in the Eugene game, which Medford won 19-0. He took the kick on his own 30-yard line, near the east sidelines, pranced down the chalk mark for 10 yards, cut across the field, eluded or tore away from four Eugene tacklers, sidestepped the safety, who was blocked by Lindley, and went over for the touchdown. This usually are connected with hard-fought games, and none of Medford's this fall were close, aside from the Grants Pass game.

For concentrated thrills, give us the Southern Oregon Normal game against Monmouth Normal, with its trick plays, towering punts, long passes, and stubborn defense. The biggest one of the day was Frank Sapp's sensational catch of a 50-yard forward pass from Claude Hines over his own 47-yard line and rifled the pylon downhill to his end, who leaped high in the air and caught it in his fingertips, over his shoulder, on a dead run. Normal's gallant recovery after a stunning three-touchdown rout in the first period is worthy of praise in any man's newspaper.

Chief Bender, famous Indian pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics years ago, credits Glenn Scobey (Pop) Warner with teaching him how to throw a fadeaway. . . . Harry Newman, Michigan's all-American quarterback, was a flop last year because he got swell-headed over his showing in his sophomore year. . . . He sat on the bench most of the time. . . . Medford football fans who remember Eugene high's fleet halfback, Hugh Mercer, will be interested to note he made 21 points playing forward against Oakridge the other night. . . . Next to having a name like Frankenstein, who is a tackle on a southern California junior college team, we'd hate to have one like Heller of Pittsburgh. . . . Probably opposing teams will say it was appropriate. . . . That all-American halfback announced his engagement the other day. . . . Wonder what his girl thinks of becoming a Heller?

Numerous Upsets Set The numerous upsets of the track and field campaigning of the Olympic year and other unexpected developments of the international games drew 33 votes while the many startling happenings of the 1932 baseball season were mentioned 18 times. Other votes were rather scattering although golf as a general subject cropped up frequently.

Second to the Pitt triumph came Bill Carr with his three victories over "Blazin' Ben" Eastman on the track. Although he took the edge off the surprise of his 440-yard victory in the intercollegiate by repeating the feat, Carr got 20 votes out of the 142.

An alias citation and order was issued out of the circuit court yesterday directing Gordon L. Schermerhorn to answer the petition of Ralph G. Jennings for a recount of the votes cast in this county at the last election for sheriff. Schermerhorn was directed to appear in not less than three days, or more than seven days. An affidavit was filed by Attorney Frank J. VanDyke setting forth that Coroner H. W. Conger was unable to serve the original summons upon Schermerhorn. Schermerhorn is reported to have been in northern California for the past month. He is expected to return here some time the coming week. Schermerhorn by the official count, won the sheriff race by 123 votes and was issued a certificate of election. Jennings claims that 381 "write-in" votes cast for him, were thrown out and that he was elected by a majority of "not less than 97 votes."

CONNIE MACK, 70 SCOFFS AT IDEA OF RETIREMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Connie Mack thinks the experience has gained in the first 70 years of his life ought to help him develop more pennant winners in the future.

Seventy years old today, in baseball for 50 years; a manager for 39 and pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics for 31, the tall, lean leader scoffs at the idea of retirement.

"Where work is entirely the exercise of judgment," Mack said, "each year adds new experience and makes a man better fitted for the next one. I'll have more experience on which to base decisions next year than I had this year."

The boys on the bench, Connie said, will decide when he is to retire.

"When you handle a team of 25 young men," he declared, "you can't fool them. When my players begin to whisper among themselves that Mack is not what he used to be, I'm going to hear those whispers. Then I'll know that it's time for me to consider getting into the back-ground."

It was in 1892 that Cornelius McGillicuddy beat Santa Claus to East Brookfield, Mass., by two days. He planned to spend his birthday anniversary quietly, making his customary daily trip to the office in Shibe park tower, where he read through a mountainous pile of birthday and Christmas greeting cards, telegrams and letters.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Football stars whose fame has been blazoned on far-flung gridirons will set their cleats on Pacific coast turf today in their first practices for the eighteenth annual east-west Shrine charity contest here January 2.
