Oregon Weather Generally cloudy tonight and Friday; local snow over mountains; showers over west portion; normal temperature; moderate northwest wind offshore.

Calendar salesmen from out of town companies are canvassing the town now for 1934 calendars. Why buy now a year ahead of time, and from outside people who do not do anything to maintain home payrolls, when you can buy as nice calendars cheaper from home printers who will call on you later in the year. Resolve to patronize home industry during 1933, and start by helping maintain one of the largest payrolls in Medford—the printing.

NEWS RECEIVER HEARING SLATED FOR JANUARY 7

Judge Lowell of the Linn county circuit court, appointed by the state supreme court, to hear the receivership petition of the News Publishing Co., L. B. Tuttle, president, against L. A. Banks, president, has advised the county clerk that he will hear the motion for a continuance of the case, January 7. The defense asked until February 1 to prepare an audit and other details. Judge Lowell was named to hear the case when Banks, through his attorney, M. O. Wilkins, filed an affidavit of prejudice against Circuit Judge H. D. Norton, and previously filed one against Judge James T. Brand in the same action. The latest move will be a step towards bringing the case at issue.

The News Publishing Co. bases its receivership plea upon the claim that approximately $11,000 is due on the original purchase by Banks, and seeks a receivership for collection, and "conserving of the resources." The receivership petition is separate from a "strict foreclosure" suit filed against Banks last Saturday by T. E. Pottenger, for approximately $15,000 for the building on West Main street, occupied by the News, and suit instituted for the Medford National bank for the collection of two promissory notes, approximately $10,000, filed within the past ten days.

GIVE ROOSEVELT POWER TO SLICE EXPENSE, IS URGE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Where good plans end and the objectionable begins brought forth a discussion at the convention of the National Association of Teachers of Speech today and laid bare the pet peeves of a number of delegates. The specialists in how to speak properly disclosed that among words which they "just can't stand," were "Oh, gee," "thanks," "nerve," "Oh, gee," "snack," and "Hot diggity damn."

Dean Ray K. Immel, of the school of speech at the University of Southern California, says "vittle" makes "me see red." "I'll tell you another one I don't like, too," he added. "That is 'snack'."

Dr. W. Arthur Cable of the University of Arizona, heaped criticism on "flappers of both sexes," who say, "Oh, gee." Also, it seems to me, that the word "thanks" is a lazy and offensive contraction of the neat phrase, "thank you."

"Hot diggity damn," and "Oh, boy, oh, boy, oh, boy," exasperates Dr. A. G. M. Drummond of Cornell university. Alberta Beeson of the University of Southern California said she "simply can't stand the word 'nerve.' At least a person could say 'nuts,' she exclaimed with disgust.

G. O. P. CONTROL FIGHT SEEN

With reported discord between the Hoover administration and some republicans of congress apparently assuming larger proportions, a fight for control of the party machinery seems in prospect. Frank Hitchcock (upper left) of Arizona and Senator Moses (upper right) of New Hampshire have been linked with the Hoover forces as possible new heads of the party organization. The name of Senator Watson (lower left) of Indiana was heard among the old guard as a choice for national chairman. The "young guard" republicans of the senate are reputedly looking to Col. Frank Knox (lower right), Chicago publisher, as a leader. (Associated Press Photos)

BUCK WILSON TO STAND TRIAL ON ASHLAND CHARGE

Leslie (Buck) Wilson, indicted by the grand jury for the alleged receiving of goods stolen in the robbery of the J. C. Penney Co. store at Ashland last July, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned in circuit court yesterday afternoon. Wilson will be tried at the petit jury term of court, scheduled to start Monday, January 16.

Rmalee (Bobby) Mansfield, 22, Luther (Toots) Crosby (Dodo) Burnett, have all entered pleas of guilty to the burglary and according to the district attorney's office, will be used as witnesses against Wilson.

Crosby and Wilson, the authorities say, are on parole from the state prison at Salem. They were sentenced for the robbery of Miller's "Togery" in Ashland two years ago. Wilson claims he is the victim of circumstances, and that he had nothing to do with the Penney robbery. The authorities allege that at the time of his arrest he was wearing clothing stolen from the store.

Crosby has asked authorities that he be extended further leniency, so he can move to Idaho, and start life anew on a ranch. January term of the petit jury will also see the calling of a number of other criminal cases that have been pending since late last summer. William F. Glayzer, former resident of the Trail district and transient laborer, charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon his estranged wife, Golda, in their home last August, following an effort at a reconciliation, will be heard. The court will be asked to appoint an attorney for Glayzer. Glayzer cut his wife with a butcher knife. Robert Rose, Long Mountain district rancher, and Jack Rice, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of setting forest fires last summer, and Reinhard A. Rolf of Central Point, indicted for involuntary manslaughter, for the accidental killing of his hunting companion last October will also be tried at the coming term.

OREGON SCHOOLS DISTRICT SYSTEM IS EXTRAVAGANT

Portland, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Reorganization of Oregon's 2200 school districts into approximately one hundred larger units, and the proposal of a state school fund to be derived from some source other than a real property tax, was approved here late Wednesday at the session of the Oregon State teachers' association in its 33d annual meeting.

The greatest single extravagance of Oregon's educational organization is said to be the district system. J. G. Hamer, superintendent of schools in Grants Pass, in his committee report, declared that "the 2200 separate almost independent school districts in the state, with overlapping duplicating functions and staffs, mass managements and purchasing agencies, all mean unnecessarily high costs with no corresponding educational returns."

Larger Units Solution

It is said the only solution for this problem is larger units of administration and greater state support. The proposal for reorganization and a school fund to finance and reduce education costs throughout the state, will be presented to the legislature.

Jane Barnett, principal of Grants Pass schools, was unanimously elected president of the association by the 226 voting delegates of a representative council. She was president of the association last year. Charles H. Boyd, principal of Ashland school, Portland, was elected vice president of the board of trustees. J. Percy Wells, superintendent of Klamath Falls schools, of the southern Oregon district; Martin Landreth, superintendent of Medford, for the eastern Oregon district; and H. R. Gould, Eugene superintendent, for Clackamas, Linn and Lane counties.

Hedrick Continues

Other trustees continuing in office for the second year of their two-year terms are Dean M. Elwood Smith, Oregon state college, for coast districts; Charles A. Rice, Portland superintendent, for the Portland district; and E. H. Hedrick of Medford, trustee of the state at large.

The opening day of the convention brought only the representative council of the association. Today between 300 and 5000 teachers were to be present.

The responsibility of the state in support of public elementary and secondary schools was stressed by the council in the resolution adopted. That, in effect, the state provide a fund from some source other than real property to finance and reduce educational costs in Oregon.

CHARGE TWO WITH JAVILLE BURGLARY

Complaints were filed today by the district attorney's office against Mark Wikison and Robert Langenbacher, residents of the Jacksonville district, charging them with the robbery of the Pharmacy in Jacksonville, shortly before Christmas. Entrance was made through a transom and $100 made stolen.

The loot was recovered, but was badly damaged by rain. State police allege it was cached near the Langenbacher quarters. It is claimed the men endeavored to sell some of the loot, and to give some away. Langenbacher denies participation in the robbery, but is said to admit he knew the hiding place of the loot.

The stolen goods were chiefly toilet articles, tobacco and candy. State police say the pair have been under surveillance for several weeks, and are suspected of robbing the same store early last fall.

They have been living in the hills near Jacksonville for several months.

JORDAN HEARING SET FOR FRIDAY

Preliminary hearing for Albert E. Jordan, Ashland merchant, held on a manslaughter charge under $3000 bonds for the death Christmas Day of Walter F. Long, Dunsmuir, Calif., will be held Friday at 2:00 p. m. in Ashland before Justice of the Peace A. A. Roberts. Long died when in the course of a quarrel in the Jordan home. He is said to have fallen to the floor, the jagged neck of a broken bottle cutting his jugular vein. The man was clenching at the time. Jordan will enter a plea of self-defense. Funeral services for Long were held Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Pearl Mackrodt of Portland, former Ashland phone girl, Mrs. Jordan, John Enders, a near neighbor, physicians and officers of the law will be called as witnesses.
