SCHERMERHORN IS DUE FOR SECOND CITATION TUESDAY

Gordon L. Schermerhorn, to whom a certificate of election was issued for sheriff of Jackson county, on the face of the official count, giving him a majority of 123 over Ralph Jennings, incumbent and "write-in" candidate, will be served with another citation Tuesday, requiring his appearance to answer the petition for a recount; of the official ballots.

Schermerhorn is expected to return Monday, after six weeks' absence in northern California, and formally assume the office Tuesday morning. Monday is a legal holiday, and a "non-judicial" day in Oregon and any official business transacted Monday is invalid.

The latest citation will be served upon Schermerhorn by Constable H. W. Conger, who has made daily trips to the Schermerhorn home for the past six weeks to serve the summons. Schermerhorn departed from local haunts Saturday following Thanksgiving. Friends say he has been visiting friends and relatives at Yreka, Calif., and Montague, Calif.

Once service is obtained upon Schermerhorn, the action will come to a head within 12 days. His counsel, reported to be Kelly and Kelly and Frank DeSura, are expected to file a motion to quash the petition for a recount. If this is granted the matter ends there. If denied, the recount will be started within seven days, plus time granted for preparation of the defense case, if sought.

Sheriff Jennings, in the petition, declares that "not less than 341" votes cast for him were discarded erroneously on technicalities, and that he was duly elected by a majority of "not less than 97 votes." In intent of the voter, the sheriff's petition recites, is clearly shown, in many "write-in" ballots that were not counted.

The loser in the recount contest, foots the bill, under the section of Oregon law, in which the action is brought.

GLAYZER'S TRIAL FIRST ON DOCKET

William R. Glayzer, former resident of the Trail district and transient laborer, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, will go on trial first when the petit jury is called Monday, January 16.

Glayzer is alleged to have attacked his estranged wife last August with a butcher knife, following an effort at a reconciliation, wounding her severely. Glayzer, after the attack, is said to have attempted suicide.

The second case on the calendar is that of Reinhold A. Roit of Central Point indicted for involuntary manslaughter for the accidental killing of his hunting companion, Joseph St. Germain, last October in the Butte Falls district. Roit mistook St. Germain for a bear.

Other cases to be heard are: B. F. Mills, alleged to have procured a spurious check to the Hotel Medford; Robert Rose, Long Mountain rancher, and Jack Rice, charged with setting a parole for Leslie (Buck) Wilson, on parole from state prison, charged with receiving goods stolen from the J. C. Penny store at Ashland, and James (Blacky) Marr, indicted for an assault with a knife upon Phil Daltry, following an argument in a local cafe.

A number of civil cases will also be heard by the jury.

SOCIETY and Clubs

Student Artists Please Audience Of Local People

By Jeunesse Butler. Betty Evanson and Beulah Gore, students of the School of Music, University of Oregon, assisted by Rose and Dorothy Gore, pupils of the Mrs. E. E. Gore studios, and Mrs. George A. E. Gore, accompanist, in complimentary recital Friday evening, Dec. 30, at the Baldwin Piano Shoppe.

Appearing before an audience of friends and relatives, the group of young students, was heard with much interest. This interest might be said to be three-fold, from the standpoint of relative talent and ability, the question of private or conservatory training, and the pleasure of "personal contact" between performers and listener.

Public appreciation are excellent tributes for students at all stages of advancement. Unquestionably, such experiences mean the loss of timidity, self-consciousness and that form of selfishness which withholds, and the gain of poise, courage and a certain quality of generosity, a quality which would seem to give individuality to interpretation, color to phrasing and facility to technique.

Asking pardon for the thousand-fold observation that no one can expect more than what is in him, nevertheless devotion to the art is not altogether of this world, and this reviewer for one, does not entirely agree with the idea that interpretation depends wholly upon what the singer or player has experienced. Conceding that point however, then the privilege of hearing a young student sing or play, could be as enlightening and beautiful as watching the opening of a flower and should be regarded with the same tenderness and lack of criticism, and frequent flashes of feeling valued together with the hours of study and practice which have preceded and produced the performance.

Chopin, that poet laureate of the piano, has been the chosen one, season after season, for the great pianists of the world, yet that is no reason why the great lyric composer, called by Robert Schumann "the boldest and proudest spirit of the age," should not appear on the programs of earnest young students. His delicate romanticism may affect the unfolding thought something similar to the Coort mist, an April violet or a young May moon.

The entire program, played without notes and given on two Baldwin grand pianos of the latest and most improved construction, was certainly an engaging event of the holiday season.

The program was as follows: Waltz Caprice (two pianos)..... Beulah Gore, first piano Dorothy Gore, second piano

Chopin: No. 10..... Godard Elegie..... Manacott Charming Oiseau..... David

Fourth Barcarolle..... Godard Nocturne in F Minor, Op. 9, No. 1..... Miss Evanson

Prelude Polshinello, Op. 3, No. 4..... Miss Gore..... Chopin
