

COOLIDGE'S WIDOW RETAINS COURAGE UNDER HARD BLOW

home which was the Coolidge home all through the days of his governorship up to the time he became vice-president, and to which they returned from the White House. Into this home, as in the White House, she put the charm and graceful dignity bred into her on the wind-swept shores of Lake Champlain in Vermont, where she grew into womanhood and where she spent her childhood.

A year after her marriage, Calvin Coolidge was elected to the Massachusetts legislature, and was started on the road to the presidency. Mayor of Northampton, senator, president of the senate, lieutenant-governor, governor, and vice-president. And ever by his side, making his home, bearing his children, and adding vivacity and warm social charm to the taciturn austerity of her husband was Grace Coolidge. Amid the worried days of the Boston police strike when her husband was chief executive of the commonwealth, or the overcrowded days in Washington as the president's wife, she was an affectionate "home-body," quiet and affectionate.

"We New England women cling to the old ways," she once said, "and being the president's wife isn't going to make me think less about the domestic things I've always loved."

Mrs. Coolidge had that rare quality of being able to be the wife of a great and illustrious man and yet maintain her own individuality.

The tragic business of making the necessary funeral arrangements was carried on with the same remarkable poise and courage.

Today, while all the world mourns with her, the same spirit which graced the White House for five years, delighting the great and charming the humble, was still sustaining her. Even as her partner in life would have had her.

POLICE ON DRIVE FOR HEADLIGHTS

In an intensive drive being carried on this week by state police against automobiles being driven with only one headlight, a total of 37 arrests were made in four days on the Pacific highway, according to a check made by district headquarters here.

A state-wide warning was issued several weeks ago against driving with one light, and the announcement at that time stated that arrests would be made without further warning.

Fines of $10 have been levied in court, the records show.

CITIZENSHIP CLASS SUNDAY, CITY HALL

A class in Americanism and citizenship will be held at the city hall Sunday, January 8, Mrs. G. Q. Dalbini announced yesterday and all persons interested in availing themselves of information regarding citizenship in this country are urged to attend.

The class will open at 1:30 o'clock. All material will be furnished and no charges will be made. The class will meet in a room, donated by the city, on the ground floor of the building.

JOHN T. STALLSWORTH, CENTRAL PT. RESIDENT FOR 25 YEARS, PASSES

John Taylor Stallsworth, aged 83 years, a resident of Central Point for the past 25 years, passed away at his home in that place early Thursday evening, suffering a short illness.

Mr. Stallsworth was married to Anna Belle Zimmerman in Harrison county, Missouri, in 1882. After making their home there for five years they moved west. Since 1906 their home has been in Central Point and near there.

Mr. Stallsworth is survived by his widow, Anna Belle Stallsworth, and eight children, Allen H. John H. Josie Taylor, Eva Painter of Central Point, Mattie Johnson of Klamath Falls, Mary Hazelwood of Dorris, Cal., Ethel Klinge and Mrs. Walter Smith of Medford.

The body is at the Conger funeral parlors where funeral services are being arranged. Notice of funeral later.

STATE INSPECTION R. RIVER MEAT CO.

Herbert Meusel of the Rogue River Meat company announced today that, starting Monday, that company would have state inspection of its slaughter houses daily, with Dr. G. A. Gibson of this city having been appointed to the position by Dr. W. H. Lytle, division chief of the animal industry offices of the Oregon state department of agriculture, who made a personal investigation here. The Rogue River Meat company is one of a very few places in the state having the daily state inspection to assure Medford people that local meats are safe for consumption.

The company has been working on this plan for eight or nine months and, in order to reach the standards set up by the state, the plant was improved in many ways, and at the present time is in A-1 condition, Mr. Meusel said.

He also stated today that the plant is open at all times for public inspection, and those interested in going through one of southern Oregon's most modern plants are invited to do so.

DR. EMMENS RESIGNS AS B. & L. OFFICIAL

The resignation of Dr. J. J. Emmens as vice-president and director of the Jackson County Building and Loan association, with which he had been affiliated for many years, was reported here yesterday.

Dr. Emmens, when interviewed today, said he had several connections with the organization because of the fact that his private practice and personal affairs would not permit his giving sufficient time to the Building and Loan association.

He added that he believed "the organization is perfectly sound financially" and expressed perfect confidence in the management and future of the organization.

Safety Store To Show New Noodles

A. G. Anderson, manager of the Safety store at Main and Holly, announced today that the Gold Medal Noodle Co. will hold a demonstration of Fischer's Gold Medal Fresh Egg and Milk Noodles in the store all day Saturday. Housewives will be shown many appetizing ways of preparing this new local product.

PAIR SENTENCED BY JUDGE NORTON

Papers were filed in the clerk's office yesterday, stating that Harold F. Myers had been sentenced to the state penitentiary for a period of not over 20 months, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. The sentence was passed by Circuit Judge H. D. Norton.

Emmie Mansfield of Ashland, who pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property, was sentenced to two years at the girls' state industrial school. She pleaded guilty in circuit court to receiving articles stolen from the J. C. Penny store in Ashland several months ago.
