BURGHER SEEKING TOUGH TILTS FOR TIGER SEASONING

Jacksonville or S. O. N. S. Would Give Locals Experience and Practice, View — Stars Graduate Soon

(By Moore Hamilton.)

With four wins out of five starts this year, the Medford high school basketball squad is looking for a couple of tough games for this week-end to give the squad some necessary experience, Coach Darwin K. Burgher said today.

Coach Burgher expressed a desire to play either the Jacksonville town team, coached by Dr. Harold Gillis, or the high-flying Ashland Normal squad. Definite announcement of the games will be made tomorrow at the latest, Coach Burgher said.

Need Experience.

Inexperience is apt to be the thorn in the side of the Burgherites this year, the coach said, as only two of last year's veterans are eligible for play all this season. Bill Knips and Alton Lindley, from last year's squad, will be graduated from high school this month, so cannot be used much. Lloyd Mammock won his letter last year, and is a good man, Coach Burgher said, but did not play regularly last year. The two veterans around whom Burgher is building his squad are Red Scheel and Tom White.

"I've got a lot of good boys this year," Coach Burgher said, "and they are fast, but they do need experience. They need to play other high school teams, because a few wins and they will develop the necessary confidence and polish.

"Yes," he said. "I feel the boys this year will do even better than they did last year. They know their fundamentals, and with a few more games under their belts, no telling what they can do."

Won 4; Lost 1.

So far, the Medford squad has won four and lost one. The Oregon Super-varsity won one and lost one to Medford, and Medford defeated Mt. Shasta, 44-14, Grants Pass, 33-17, and Weed, 19-5. The game dropped to the Oregon super-varsity was by the small margin of two points.

The squad is trimmed down to fighting form now, Burgher said, and the big fight is on between the players for first string places. Intensive drill on plays and fundamentals features each practice session, with enough scrimmage to keep the boys on edge.

SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS

By Moore Hamilton.

Red MacDonald, former Medford high school football and basketball star, is giving promise this year of being among the ranking basketball players on the coast, following a stellar performance in the second game of the Oregon State college quintet against the championship-bound Cougars of Washington State.

MacDonald, whom many sports writers feel was given a dirty deal by Paul Schissler, football coach of Oregon State, was given credit for being one of the mainstays in the Oregon State game against Washington State Saturday, when, subbing for Davis at guard, he dropped in three field goals and harried the Cougars blind by recovering the ball on Coungar offensive plays.

MacDonald is a big, hard fighter, and consistent, and the Morning Oregonian, in writing of the game with the Cougars, says in part:

"Red MacDonald, subbing for Davis at guard, put up a great battle for Oregon State in the second half. Time and time again he recovered the ball and gathered three field goals as well."

Oregon State plays the University of Idaho tonight and tomorrow night at Moscow, thus ending their first road trip. By breaking even with the Cougars, Oregon State is given a ranking position with the best Northwest basketball squads, and sports authorities have put on their glasses to take a better look at "Slats" Gill's boys. Basketball dopesters consider Idaho a "setup."

JACKSONVILLE AND TEXACOS ITCH FOR BASKETBALL FIGHT

Basketball fireworks threaten to explode in independent circles soon, with the two leading squads of the valley, the Texaco team, managed by Roy Shreve, and the Jacksonville town team, managed by Dr. Harold Gillis, looking for a chance to scalp each other.

Both teams have enviable records so far this season, having defeated opponents by large scores, and neither team will feel right about things until the score is settled. Both teams are made up largely of former Medford high school players, and basketball fans are watching the progress of the teams with interest.

"So Jacksonville wants to play us, do they?" was Roy Shreve's reply to the information that Manager Gillis had issued a challenge. "Well, we'll play them, and put them back in their places."

Manager Gillis of the Jacksonville team is equally confident of his charges, and declared he had been seeking a game with the Texaco outfit for several weeks, but hadn't been able to put them down on any date.

Rivalry is intense between the two teams, as Wilton White, formerly of the Texaco squad, switched to the Jacksonville team when two of the Jacksonville men, Jack Caldwell and Robert Forbes, registered at the Ashland Normal school and are now on that squad.

So far, the Jacksonville team has defeated Butte Falls, 70-57; Gold Hill, 66-19, and Sams Valley, 21-14. The Texaco team defeated Butte Falls, 58-25, and the Oregon super-varsity, 37-29, and lost to the Ashland Normal, 45-26. Jacksonville also lost to Phoenix, 33-17, but Coach Gillis said he played his second string against the Phoenix squad.

In defeating Sams Valley, Coach Gillis said he felt a relative strength between his team and the Texaco outfit was available, in that Sams Valley defeated Butte Falls by practically the same score that Texaco did, and also that Jacksonville ran up a larger score on Butte Falls than Texaco did. Jacksonville scored 70 points against Butte Falls, while Texaco was held to 58.

"We want to play the game here in Medford if we can," Manager Shreve said, "but we don't want to dig down in our pockets to pay for the hall. Whenever we feel we can pay expenses here, we're ready to play."

With the Medford Tigers wanting a game with either Jacksonville or the Southern Oregon Normal for this week-end, the Jacksonville-Texaco game may be delayed, but both teams are looking for a shot at each other, and no fooling.

The Texaco outfit is composed of Odd Hughes, George Harrington, Archie Laing and Ivan Harrington, forwards; Virgil Swanson, center, and Bob Dietrich, Herman Newland, Tule Williams and Roan Green, guards. Jacksonville's squad is made up of Ray Ward, Orville Wilson, Ray Hunsaker, George Smith, Bob Lewis, Dick Lewis, Wilton White, Dick Hartman and A. Babbs. The two Lewis boys and George Smith are from the championship St. Mary's team of last year, and we are showing better ball this year, according to the coach.
