

CENTRAL PT. BANK TO LIQUIDATE AND CEASE OPERATION

The doors of the Central Point State bank were closed to business this morning as a result of the meeting last night of the board of directors, at which it was decided to discontinue business and turn the affairs of the bank over to the state superintendent of banks for liquidation.

The decision followed the annual meeting, at which T. P. Tolson was re-elected president and all other officers re-elected to carry on. A complete survey of the bank's business brought realization of the necessity to discontinue.

In the statement issued by the board of directors to the depositors, it was explained that Central Point is situated so close to Medford and the means of transportation between the two are so convenient, the volume of business transacted by the bank has constantly decreased and has reached the point where the income of the bank is not sufficient to pay the costs of operation.

The board of directors further stated that the bank is in sound financial condition, but it is impossible to collect a great bulk of its loans at the present time, even though the large portion of such loans are well secured by mortgages on real property and other securities.

"The directors considered that it would be to the best interests of the depositors to let the bank be liquidated by the superintendent of banks, and thereby insure that each depositor receive his proportional part of his money at the earliest possible time. In all probability, as soon as the assets of the bank can be disposed of, the depositors will receive all, or practically all, of their money," the state-

SCHERMERHORN'S MOVE TO QUASH DENIED BY JUDGE

The directors of the bank are all very well known property owners of the Central Point region: Wm. Bohner, Elmer Hull, W. C. Leever and W. J. Freeman.

Each year, it was pointed out today in explanation of the need to discontinue business of the bank, Medford has become the business center, patronized by a larger number of farmers and other residents of the northern portion of the county. Construction of the Midway road a short time ago brought Medford still nearer to the agricultural area, neighboring Central Point, and brought a greater number of people here to do their banking.

Producers have also been unable to obtain sufficient funds from their farm products to pay loans obtained from the bank, which was dependent for its support upon the agricultural population.

Lucy A. Bingham, 81, passed away at her home, 16 Mistletoe, Thursday evening from infirmities due to old age. She was born at Amsterdam, March 20, 1851, and was united in marriage to James Bingham, December 11, 1871, at New York, and the following children were born to this union: One daughter and two sons—Lizzie Reynolds of Medford; Willard C. Bingham of Nampa, Idaho; and Edgar F. Bingham of Medford, Ore.

She was the daughter of George and Emily Van Horison, old time pioneers of Nebraska, settling there in 1873.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Peril Funeral Home, Sunday at 2:30, Rev. Carver officiating. Interment will be made in the Mountain View cemetery.

Aurora—Postoffice recently moved to new location in Bank building.

SCHERMERHORN'S MOVE TO QUASH DENIED BY JUDGE

The provisions of the Corrupt Practice Act, which permitted bringing Sheriff Schermernhorn within "the jurisdiction of the court," by issuance of alias citations, Attorney Neff contended that the law intended there should be a recount, but that the general election laws were weak, and allowed evasion of service, which the Corrupt Practice Act corrected.

Judge Skipworth rendered his ruling shortly before noon, an hour after the arguments closed. Besides the motion to quash, a demurrer to the proceedings was quashed.

Law Not So Bad The Corrupt Practice Act, under which the recount is sought, is not as bad as it sounds. It is the title of a law, and does not mean that anybody or official is "corrupt," as busy rumor hath it. The Corrupt Practice Act also prohibits distributing handbills, or looting around a polling place on election day.

It is anticipated that there will be several legal bridges to cross, before the actual counting of the official ballots starts. One point to be aired, in all probability, will be the validity of Jennings' "write-in" candidacy, on the grounds he was a primary defeated candidate, and therefore not a legal candidate. The right of a voter to "write-in" any name he chooses, the "marking of an X" and the intent of the voter will also be advanced.

Sheriff Schermernhorn on the face of the official count was elected by 123 votes, and was issued a certificate of election. Jennings claims that 381 "write-in" votes for himself were erroneously discarded by the election

C. P. SUPERINTENDENT INJURED AT BONFIRE

H. P. Jewett, superintendent of schools at Central Point, was confined to his home yesterday with a badly skinned nose and forehead by a fall at the Central Point high school freshman bonfire.

Superintendent Jewett was taking part in the annual festivities and tripped on a board, causing him to fall headlong into a pile of wood and old boxes. His injuries, although not believed serious, were painful and will keep him confined to his home for several days, it was reported.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO EMIL MOHR TODAY

Medford paid its final loving tribute this afternoon to memory of Emil Mohr, one of its most widely known and beloved citizens, who passed away suddenly in his Hotel Medford apartments last Monday night of heart failure.

Out of respect to his memory, the grand jury adjourned at noon, until tomorrow morning. Many of the grand jurors were intimate friends of the departed.

The sudden passing of the genial citizen, identified for a score of years with civic enterprises of this city, spread sorrow outside the limits of this city and county. Emil Mohr enjoyed a wide acquaintance throughout the state.

In the presence of a large circle of friends and sorrowing family, the final rites were held this afternoon at the Peril Funeral Home.

WOMAN CHECK ARTIST ESCAPES

Mrs. Linnie Pray Gould, who the state police allege passed forged checks on many Ashland, Grants Pass and Medford merchants within the past six weeks, escaped from the Benton county jail at Corvallis last night, according to information received today by local authorities.

The highways were being watched for the escape, as she was reported headed south in a large car. The woman was held in Benton county on a bad check charge. She is described as good looking, 30 years of age, five feet six inches tall, weight 140 pounds, a neat dresser and a charming talker.

Among local residents upon which the woman is alleged to have passed spurious paper was one for $30 on the Ginderella shop. Most of the checks were for sums ranging from $10 to $25.

The state police believe Mrs. Gould had an accomplice to aid her in breaking jail.

Pratts to Portland—Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pratt left last evening for Portland, where they will spend the week-end. Mr. Pratt is with the Shell Oil company here.
