

BUTTER MARKET MANIPULATIONS UNSSETTLE TRADE

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Faced weakness and recent price reduction in butter have combined to unsettle the entire trade here and along the Pacific Slope generally. No further price change was suggested in the open market trade for either cube or print offerings.

There was no doubt of the increased mvs in the local territory. In spots a very liberal increase in Portland churning was reported while out-of-state receipts have been reflecting a rather good gain recently.

While buttermilk quotations here were weak, they were not showing the excessive cut reported at first by some interests.

Market for eggs continues under pressure here with no change in open values named by the Pacific co-ops. More or less underselling is reported. Receipts continue to increase.

Daily cleanup of live chicken supplies here is reported by leading handlers, although some pressure against spring ducks is reported with the latest sale around 17c lb.

Prices in the market for country killed meats are well held, although late receipts of veal have shown a very considerable increase. No price change is shown for the day with lamb mostly 10-11c lb.

Two New Sizes Of Noodles Out

Two new sizes of Gold Medal Fresh Egg and Milk Noodles will be introduced as demonstrations in both Economy Groceries stores Saturday according to William Gates, who is an enthusiastic booster for this new local product. Angel's Hair, a new fine cut noodle for soup and broth, and Tagliatini, a new wide cut noodle will be featured as well as featured as well as the regular medium size.

Mr. Fischer, owner of the Gold Medal company says the fine cut size is harder to manufacture than any other noodle made. Six recipes for preparing Gold Medal Fresh Egg and Milk Noodles will be distributed at the demonstrations.

BARNES BEAMS AS HOMESTEAD BILL DROPS IN HOPPER

It started away back in 1908 when "Pat" McArthur first ran for the legislature. Joe met him, liked him, and took the stump in his behalf, with nary a thought, he says, to political ambitions. In fact, at that time Joe thought a sergeant at arms was some kind of a soldier.

But "Pat" was elected, not only as a member but as speaker the same year (they did it that way in 1909, Joe says) and immediately suggested Joe's name as door-keeper. The latter graduated next term to sergeant at arms and has held the same position ever since, in spite of it being an elective office.

"Pat" McArthur went to congress then, the year they created the second congressman for Oregon. Joe thought he'd like to take a look in there too. He served as doorkeeper in the United States senate for six seasons, these falling intermittently with the legislative sessions. During that time he became so well acquainted with the leading political lights that he still refers to many of them by first name.

And Joe, who regards his 24 years of legislative service with pleasure, ended his reminiscence with a New Year's wish: that he might be found at his present post 24 years hence.

Under the heading of "legislative pests," Clayton V. Bernhard, A. P. political writer, assisted by other veteran observers at the state capitol, lists the following:

The legislator who aspires to average a bill a day.

The one who feels compelled to orate on every bill.

"Shake down gals," who begin with parties and end up with blackmail.

Perennial job-seekers who hound house members in the hope of obtaining committee clerkships.

Advice peddlers who specialize in giving helpful "lifts" to new legislators.

The chronic "anti" in the house or senate.

The legislator who whispers confidences in the reporter's ear concerning a bill he has "up his sleeve" and promises, unsolicited, to keep the writer posted.

The publicity seeker, who if necessary, will introduce a bill merely to get his name in the papers. This one ultimately falls in for the "newspaperman's taboo."

Comes now the well-circulated suspicion that the present three-day adjournment was inspired by wary legislators who wished to skip Friday, the 13th, as a possible law making day.

When it comes to being Irish, Governor Meier gets no nearer than his ink bottle. His signature, it is said, invariably carries the emerald hue.

The "Medford situation" is considered "hot news" here these days, especially the much publicized "march on the court house." Scraps of conversation on the controversies in southern Oregon are heard in the halls and lounging rooms throughout the capitol every recess. Some of the comments, however, are anything but flattering.

JUNIOR PROM IS DATED THURSDAY

(By John Snider.)

Junior class of Medford high school will hold its annual prom Thursday evening, January 19. It is the usual custom to have it in the spring, but due to change of plans, it is being held during the first semester.

This affair has been held for many years in the past history of the school. It is for upperclassmen and alumni only. Underclassmen will not be permitted to attend.

Holders of student body tickets will be given an admission ticket free of charge. Those without student tickets, and alumni, must pay. Tickets, available at the Medford high school from Lucien Clement, business manager, must be obtained Monday or Tuesday.

The affair is to be semi-formal, with music furnished by a well-known dance orchestra.

Joe Pierce, class president, has done much work to make the prom a success and has been aided much by Harold Grove.

The time is set for 8:30.

SOME RETOUCHING NEEDED, HOWEVER, SAYS G. O. P. HEAD

conomic recovery the country could make would be through increasing the purchasing power of agriculture.

McNary said he personally did not think further hearings on the senate side would be necessary, but this was a question for the committee to determine.

By a vote of 203 to 151, the measure was passed by the house late yesterday—the rumored friendliness of President-elect Roosevelt being a big factor in entering his strength.

But despite the reported desire of Mr. Roosevelt to see such legislation enacted, the ranking democrat on the senate agriculture committee—Smith of South Carolina—already has indicated his opposition.

Senator Borah of Idaho, without committing himself, also has expressed doubts about it.

Nevertheless, prompt committee consideration of the house bill would pay a bounty to producers of seven commodities—wheat, cotton, tobacco, hogs, rice, dairy products and peanuts—was assured. It was after the last three commodities had been added to the original bill that 139 house Democrats, 63 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite united against 101 Republicans and 50 Democrats to secure its passage.

One hopeful sign cited by senate advocates was last year's action by that body in passing a bill—though it later was recalled—containing a form of the domestic allotment plan.

TO LECTURE HERE ON TECHNOCRACY

Wilford Rasmussen of San Francisco, who is here with Mrs. Rasmussen, visiting friends, will give an address on technocracy at Hotel Medford, Sunday evening at 8:15 o'clock, in the small dining room. Mr. Rasmussen is a lecturer of wide reputation and a metaphysician, and his address Sunday evening promises to be very enlightening. The public is in vited to attend and no admission will be charged.

Mr. Rasmussen will later give three private lectures on "New Era," on which subject he has been lecturing for some time. His talks will deal with the coming changes in the social and economic system and will show that communism is not the solution and that the present form of government will stand with the advance of civilization.

TRIO MURDERERS PAY AT SING SING

OSHING, N. Y., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Three more murderers—youths whose ages totaled only 59—have paid. Swagging and curing, Peter Harris of Olean went to the electric chair last night. Only 21 years old, he fought a gun battle with policemen, killing a bystander.

As soon as Harris was dead, Thomas Carpenter and Charles Bates, negro youths each 19 years old, were electrocuted for slaying a man in a Bronx holdup. They wept and had to be half carried through the green doors to the death chamber.

The triple execution required only 15 minutes. Harris was the only one to say anything. As he walked to the chair, he looked at a spectator, mistook a grimace of horror for a grin and snarled:

"What are you laughing at? This is no laughing matter."

No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it FRESH ALWAYS!

One secret of preparing good food and of roasting coffee is even application of heat.

Drink Hills Bros. Coffee and you will know the importance of even roasting. For Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted a little at a time . . . as the blend flows evenly, continuously through the roasters. This process—Controlled Roasting—is exclusive to Hills Bros. The heat is kept at a steady temperature, and every berry is "done" exactly alike. Each pound has the same matchless flavor—uniform goodness no other coffee has.

The ordinary method of roasting coffee is in large batches. In spite of close attention to this operation, it is impossible to roast each batch the same. As a result, disappointing variations in flavor often occur.

There's a thrill and constant satisfaction in Hills Bros. Coffee! Every cup has the same fragrant aroma and appetizing goodness. Order some today, by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.
