Teacher Named Mayor—Word has been received here through the Capital News, a Salem paper, that Mrs. Edna Allen has been sworn in as mayor of Jefferson. She was elected last spring and was sworn into office January 12. Mrs. Allen was a former teacher of the Eagle Point schools. Five years ago she left Eagle Point where she had been teaching in the high school for the two previous years. One year before she taught in the high school she taught in the grades. After leaving here she obtained a position as teacher in Shed, a town a short distance from her home town. She is now principal of that school.—Eagle's Quill, Eagle Point High School.

HOW TO INFLATE DOLLAR IS MAIN FLY IN OINTMENT

It was agreed (although no publicity was given the decision) that some sort of relief legislation will be pushed through.

The word was passed along quietly to those interested and proposals began to pour in. Commissioner Eastman of the I. C. C. is privately working on one. It probably will be championed in congress shortly by Senator Couzens. The intent of it is to allow the railroads to cut down their indebtedness without going through the formality of receiverships. The bankers will not care for that.

Congressman LaGuardia is also trying to sell his bill to the Democratic leadership. It would give the I. C. C. instead of the federal courts jurisdiction over receiverships. The I. C. C. could act on application of 20 per cent of the stockholders.

LaGuardia believes his bill will pass the House within 20 days.

A third idea is to give the R. F. C. authority to lend money to the roads without collateral. That idea will be proposed but will not be adopted. The only excuse for it is that it will lead to government ownership eventually.

The best sources here are convinced government ownership is coming but not that way and not that soon.

That day Mr. Hoover sent the arms embargo message to the Senate, State Secretary Stimson told a friend:

"If this were the middle of my term instead of the end of it, I would resign."

His idea of a domestic embargo on arms to warring nations as an example for all the world was specifically repudiated in the president's message, although the president did not mention Stimson's name.

The Senate did not even take the trouble to yawn at the president's proposal. Senators generally learned privately of the scrap between Mr. Hoover and his secretary of state over the issue. They thought Mr. Hoover only sent the message down because he had to say something about it to someone. It will build a fire under the Foreign Relations committee which has bottled up the international arms convention for years.

SENTIMENT FOR FARM RELIEF ON BROADER SCALE

owners of mortgaged property sufficient money to pay their taxes the next two years.

Farm Bureau For Bill

The full support of the American Farm Bureau federation was given the bill by its legislative representative, Chester Gray.

Senator Harrison, describing the farm mortgage situation as most acute, told the banking committee he enactment of such a measure at the present session is imperative.

Most of the farm relief discussion, however, swirled around the lengthy "domestic allotment" bill. Traditionally more conservative than the house, the senate hesitated to translate into law a plan which many of its members considered of doubtful practicability.

Torn between this feeling and a strong desire to do something definite in the way of farm relief before the present session ends, many of the senate's agricultural leaders of both parties showed a disposition to make some changes in it.

Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, planned to get the measure re-written and out on the senate floor as quickly as possible.

The Oregon senator, whose ideas usually prevail in his committee, is strongly against holding hearings on the measure, although several committee members have expressed a desire for more testimony.

EXCHANGE SHOP NEEDS CLOTHES FOR FAMILIES

The Welfare Exchange shop is just as bare as "Old Mother Hubbard's" cupboard, and so of clothes, the needy will have none—unless Jackson county folk bring out more garments. A tour of all closets is urged by Miss Helen Carlton, chairman of the exchange, in the hope that "wearables" for all members of the family may be located.

There is also an urgent need for cash donations to keep the sewing room running, Miss CVariton announced, stressing the necessity for enabling women to come to the sewing room to work for their needs and to keep the family's clothing in order. The Welfare exchange is anxious to keep a sewing machine always available to mothers, who have no place else to sew and are trying to arrange a plan, whereby a sewing machine can be sent into the different homes, where needed. It will be necessary for the women to make engagements in advance in order to sew in the work room.

Women's dresses, stockings, men's and children's top clothes, under clothing, shoes, stockings are desperately needed by many families, calling at the welfare exchange, and with cold winter weather still here and many weeks of it due in the future, it is imperative that clothing be provided these families.

In many closets there are clothes, which are not worn, and which would bring happiness into the lives of many Jackson county people if they were transferred from closet to welfare exchange.

The shelves are bare, the drawers are empty and the demand is greater than ever before. That's the situation being faced this week by the women, who are volunteering their time to the Welfare Exchange in hope of bringing warmth and comfort to the unemployed and their families, who are willing and anxious to work for food and clothing.

Craterian Star

Ann Harding is starred with Leslie Howard at the Fox Craterian theatre today in "Animal Kingdom," drama of modern marriage.

Jack Holt at Rialto In Battle of Sexes

"Man Against Woman," a forceful drama of the eternal battle of the sexes, brings Jack Holt to the screen of the Rialto theatre today and Monday.

A strong colorful character in a story that affords him one of his most important roles in recent months, Holt finds himself matching wits with an altogether too beautiful lady of the night clubs. Laid against the thrill-charged, gay, brightlighted night life of a big city, with colorful picturesque scenes in Bermuda, "Man Against Woman" is a picture filled with entertainment for everyone.

GINGER ROGERS IN 'THIRTEENTH CHAIR'

Opening in an abandoned house where a mysterious death had taken place at a dinner party thirteen years before, the plot of "The Thirteenth Chair," at the Studio theater immediately plunges Ginger Rogers, the heroine, into the midst of one of the most unusual mysteries ever presented. The solution comes in a sensational climax engineered by Lyle Talbot, who plays the role of a debonair young private investigator.

NICK KAYL HELD AS JACKSONVILLE ARSON PLOTTER

awakened by the cough of Raymond, and rushed to his side. Instantly the parent saw the fire and smoke, and aroused her husband. They extinguished the fire, and called the authorities, before it was beyond control.

According to the state police, had the fire not been discovered the structure would have been a mass of flames in a few minutes, and the Bryant family trapped by the flames. It was fifteen minutes past twelve midnight, when the flames were discovered, the mother told officers.

A score of articles and material allegedly used by Kayl, are held by the state police. They include the augurs with which the holes were bored, bits of oil soaked yarns, candles, bottles containing oil, pitch wood chips, and chunks of dry pitch. Some of the evidence was charred.

Suspicion Aroused

Suspicion, the authorities say, was first directed to Kayl, when a copy of the "Humbolt Times," published in Eureka, Calif., with newspapers of this city, were found near the house. They had been the wrapping for the inflammable material. It was also reported that a Jacksonville resident had seen a man answering Kayl's description, lurking in the vicinity, a short time before.

State police checking Kayl's movements, found that he left by auto for Crescent City, shortly after the fire was discovered, and that he had purchased a new auto battery from a Pacific highway service station. Kayl's arrival at the Reedwood highway checking station tally with other incriminating evidence.

The augurs found in Kayl's possession, state police claim, hold wood of the same texture as the house, and that a jack-knife in Kayl's pockets, is pitch stained. Microscopic photographs brought out this evidence.

State police reported last night that feeling was high in Jacksonville against Kayl. The prisoner refused to make a statement, and denied all knowledge of the incendiary plot. He will be given a preliminary hearing Monday.

The Bryants are well-known in Jacksonville. The father has been unemployed for some time, and sickness recently came to add to the distress.

Kayl is fairly well known in this county, and has lived for many years at Crescent City, and other coast points.

MASS MEETING TO GIVE INSIDE DOPE COUNTY POLITICS

While not detailing their plans, spokesmen of the veterans revealed that complaints would be lodged with both federal and state authorities on the alleged communistic and revolutionary character of editorials carried in the Daily News, and other alleged false statements would also be presented to proper authorities.

To Give Facts

It was also declared that a campaign of education would be launched to "acquaint people of the county with the true state of political affairs and combat the propaganda spread by Banks and aides in his effort to obtain political control of the county." As a step in the campaign, it was announced that a monster mass meeting would be held this week at a place and date to be made known later.

The ex-service men were of the opinion that the local situation could be largely cleared up if the people were given the "inside" facts concerning recent political maneuvers.

No threats of violence were voiced and it was stressed that the proposed suppression of the turmoil, which has made Jackson county the laughing stock of the balance of the state for some time, would be brought about through entirely proper channels.

WALTER M. SCOTT PASSES AGED 81

Walter M. Scott, a resident of Sams Valley for the past 27 years passed away at his home early Saturday evening, at the age of 81 years. Before moving to Sams Valley the family had made their home in Medford since 1888.

Mr. Scott is survived by his wife, Nellie Scott, one daughter, Mabel Messenger of Sams Valley and one sister, Jennie Faris, of Fresno, Calif.

Funeral services will be held at the grave side in the Sams Valley cemetery, Monday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. D. E. Millard will have charge of the services. Conger funeral parlors are in charge of arrangements.

PROMISE HEARING RUTH JUDD'S PLEA

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned to die February 17 for the murder of Agnes Anne Lerol, appealed today to the Arizona board of pardons and paroles to save her from the gallows.

On grounds she killed Mrs. Lerol, for which she was convicted of murder in the first degree, and Hedvig Hamuelson, for whose death she has not been brought to trail, during a quarrel and in defense of her own life, and was prevented by her counsel and her own alleged state of "turmoil mentally" from relating the asserted facts from the witness stand at her trial, she asked the board to grant either:

A full pardon.

Commutation to life imprisonment.

Commutation to the lawful penalty for second degree murder (10 years to life).

Commutation to the lawful penalty for manslaughter (one to 10 years).

The board of pardons and paroles informed Mrs. Judd's counsel, who filed the application, a hearing would be granted, the time and place to be set later. It was indicated it would be next week.

Trees Grafted By Grants Pass Man Bear Many Fruits

GRANTS PASS, Ore., Jan. 14.—(AP)—F. E. Jorden needs only one tree to make an orchard.

And on that one tree he'll grow everything from an apple to a rose.

On one tree—a blight resisting pear tree—he has grafted 90 apple, 14 pear and four quince varieties. One of his peach trees is bearing peaches, plums, prunes, apricots, plumcots and nectarines.

Carl Seeking Taxes Debate

A. N. Carl, well known rancher of the Applegate was in town Saturday breathing defiance for those who he says, imagine themselves better equipped to solve the county's tax problems than those in charge. Mr. Carl is willing to debate, preferably A. B. Zimmerman, Central Pointer, or any one else, at any time or place, for money, marbles or chalk. And just to show his complete fairness in the matter, Mr. Carl says he will take either the affirmative or the negative of the question.
