Beery Star of Craterian Hit

Wallace Beery, Karen Morley and Ricardo Cortez in "Flesh".

"Flesh," with Wallace Beery as star, opens today at the Craterian theater. Beery has a powerful role, comedy and pathos giving him pensive opportunity to display his versatile talents, in this story of the wrestling ring.

It will be recalled that Beery scored the biggest hit of his career in another drama of the sport world, "The Champ." In recognition of the popularity of this type of role, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer selected "Flesh" as his new vehicle.

Big Cast in Rialto Picture

Fifteen stars, all in one picture! They're all in the cast of "If I Had a Million," at the Rialto theater today and Monday.

GEORGE TREICHLER JOINS MR. MERRICK IN REALTY BUSINESS
George L. Treichler, one of the Rogue River valley's most prominent known residents formerly engaged in the automobile business here, has entered the real estate business in this city, he announced yesterday and is associated with Mrs. Stella Merrick in the Southern Oregon Realty company on North Riverside.

Mr. Treichler, who has lived in this section for 22 years, has always been allied with projects of a progressive nature and is well informed regarding city and country property. He knows real estate values, having owned land in both city and country. He constructed four homes on South Oakdale and has owned and operated farm and orchard land since his arrival in southern Oregon. He is now living on an orchard in the Central Point district.

"Although times are apparently hard," he explained yesterday, "with the advantages the Rogue River valley offers over other areas of the country, it should be rapid in its recovery from depression." Having absolute faith in that contention, he further stated, he feels that he is entering the real estate business here at the opportune time. With the Southern Oregon Realty company he expects to operate a real estate and insurance business which will be reliable and concerned with the accomplishment of the best future for the Rogue River valley. He obtained his broker's license last week.

PRINTING PEDDLERS 'NICK' MERCHANTS
(Contributed)
Sometimes ago a traveling man sold spaces on menu covers for two local cafes at fabulous prices, collected most of the money and never printed either of the menus. A traveling advertising man has just pulled the same stunt at Ashland.

Why business men patronize out-of-town salesmen, pretending to represent local firms and pay them exorbitant prices in advance when they can get the same work done cheaper by local printers and would not even think of paying them in advance and why hotel and cafe owners or operators will allow peddlers to put out their work, is a mystery to the local printers who maintain a large payroll in Medford.

PAY FOR PATTON RUMOR SCOTCHED BY COUNTY COURT

The county court Saturday took steps to facilitate the distribution of relief supplies in the Rogue River district and issued a statement to squelch a "rumor" circulated, the county court heard, about Hamilton Patton, acting director of relief.

The statement of the county court was as follows:
"Let the record show that Mr. Patton came before the court on his own volition, telling the court that he is being paid a commission for the handling of the county commissary, and it appearing to the court that no such arrangements have heretofore been made or are now in existence, and that Mr. Patton is a voluntary servant of the people of Jackson county, Oregon, working in connection with the county court, and receiving no remuneration from Jackson county, or from any person from whom the necessary supplies are being purchased, and that all supplies so far purchased have been purchased with the full knowledge of the county court and in accordance with our instructions to Mr. Patton."

"Now, therefore, the court hereby instructs the county clerk to prepare a copy of this entry in the journal and submit same to each of the newspapers in Jackson county for publication."
The county court instructed Mrs. Robert Burkhardt of Rogue River to issue supplies to A. B. Sacre. By this means the trip to this city would be eliminated. Sacre is said to be well acquainted with conditions in the Rogue River district, particularly in regard to children.
The county court Saturday approved and ordered paid a number of bills that have been accumulating.
