COOKERY EXPERT HERE FOR START SAFEWAY SCHOOL

"It took me only a few hours to fall in love with Medford," Marion Rogers Spencer, diminutive and charming cookery expert made this statement today after she had had a glimpse of this city. "I'm going to thoroughly enjoy my week in Medford during the Homemakers' Bureau cooking school and certainly want to come back later this year and visit Crater lake," Mrs. Spencer added.

Marion Spencer, with Miss Helen Brown another member of the Homemakers' Bureau staff, will preside over a delightful series of "kitcheneering" sessions beginning Wednesday at the Fox Rialto theatre. These sessions, which begin at 2:00 o'clock each day and last for three days, will feature these two widely known cookery experts who come to Medford direct from the office of Julia Lee Wright, head of the famous Homemakers' Bureau. The Safeway stores of this city are sponsoring the three-day school and J. F. Mashburn, district manager, has extended a cordial invitation to all southern Oregon housewives to attend each day as guests of Safeway Stores.

Many surprises are in store for those who attend the Safeway school at the Fox Rialto starting Wednesday. Menu booklets, audio programs and interesting literature will also be presented to all who attend. The three-day "kitcheneering" sessions are entirely free. Mr. Mashburn stressed today, Medford is the only city outside Portland to enjoy the distinction of having two regular members of the Homemakers' staff in charge of a Safeway school. These two capable staff members are considered authorities in matters pertaining to food preparation and they will have some valuable and interesting tips on tasty dishes for those who attend.

GRASS VALLEY FACES PROBLEM AS SEWAGE SYSTEM IS FROZEN UP

Telling of severe storm conditions at Grass Valley, Neil Hamilton telephoned here yesterday from the California town, where he is operating a restaurant.

Snow there is now five feet deep, he stated, the water system is frozen up, and has ceased operation and sewage conditions threaten to become serious. Residents of the town are drinking water, hauled in from neighboring wells, and melted snow. Two power systems are out of commission and the one now operating, Mr. Franklin stated, is apt to go out most any time. If the storm continues, leaving the town in darkness. The telephone system is also in a precarious condition as the result of the heavy and wet snow.

The restaurant business is especially difficult, he stated, and work plentiful with all the snow crew to be fed.

DETROIT, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Ten noisy demonstrators, seven men and three women, among the striking Briggs Manufacturing company employees at the Highland Park plant were arrested this morning when they insisted on addressing the crowds. Their names were withheld, and police indicated they would be released later. Meanwhile company officials said "between 300 and 400" former employees had returned to their benches.

"About two hundred," also were reported to have returned to work at the Briggs company's east side plant. All those returning this morning are former employees of the Briggs company, and in their decision to return company officials professed to see a gradual breaking up of the walk out, which involved 6,000 workers.

Scoring Hit at the Craterian

Probably no motion picture studio ever had more distinguished or authoritative technical advice in connection with a production than First National in making "20,000 Years in Sing Sing," a picture featuring Spencer Tracy, which is scoring a smashing hit at the Craterian.

Throughout the course of the production, the studio was in almost daily communication with Warden Lewis E. Lawes, upon whose celebrated Saturday night to report that the Jackson woman had sat down in the snow and refused to go farther with him.

Dr. George H. Adler, county coroner, conducted an autopsy and reported evidence of severe abdominal injuries which he said would have caused the woman's death if she had not frozen to death in the snow.

George O'Brien, most popular of all western heroes, is the delight of Rialto fans with the screen version of Zane Grey's "Robbers' Roost." Maureen O'Sullivan plays the leading feminine role.

Also on the Rialto program tonight is an Andy Clyde comedy, a Universal brevity and Fox News.

Montana, which went through the last Pacific Coast conference schedule without winning or losing a game, will not change football coaches, but will continue under Coach Bunny Oakes.

KIWANIS MEETING HEARS INSPIRING TALK ON CRATER

Congratulations for bringing to local attention the Kiwanis club again this week. At the noon luncheon today at the Hotel Medford D. S. Libbey of the Crater Lake park service carried the minds of his audience far from all things small and petty to view the world in its grandeur and to accord a lasting contribution to civilization as "the most important thing."

And that contribution, he described, as the goal and ambition of the park service, which is now aspiring to educate the people of the land to interpret the beauty of the esthetic charm of Crater lake, that it may give them an inspiration to carry with them in their activities as American citizens, enabling them to make their adjustments.

The park service, which first based its philosophy upon preservation, conservation and recreation has now added to its program the use of scenic areas for adult and adolescent education and inspiration. Its problem is now to cultivate appreciation of natural beauty to give America something "distinctive, unique" to leave a permanent contribution to civilization.

When the history of America is finally written, Mr. Libbey explained, that will be her contribution to world civilization.

Several students of the Junior High school, with their music director, Miss Margaret Arnold, appeared before the club and entertained with several numbers from the school operetta to be given in the near future. Participating were Lois Herman, Rebecca Cheney, Jan Denison and Billy Holloway.

The program today was in charge of E. H. Hedrick, superintendent of schools, who introduced the school folk and Mr. Libbey.

Sebastian Apollo, local musician, who has been named an honorary member of the club, was introduced and accompanied the club in a song.

Guests at the luncheon were Frank Glover of Portland and Commissioners R. E. Nealon and Ralph Billings.

A ninety-nine per cent attendance was reported.

Old Paper Carries Long Discourse on Letter "A"

An interesting facsimile of the front page of the Pennsylvania Gazette, predecessor of the Saturday Evening Post, published December 24, 1728, is treasured by Mayor E. M. Wilson of this city. Unlike the colorful publication of today it flaunts no ravishing mise en gay clothing and no football heroes, but a very dignified heading, "The Universal Instructor in All Arts and Sciences and Pennsylvania Gazette." The resemblance to the present day newspaper is in the manner of the day and the front page article opens with a long discourse on the origin and use of the letter "A."

It reads in part, a tour with a microscope over the page reveals: "The grammarians will needs have 'A' to be the first letter in all languages and some of them assign a natural reason for it. That it is most simple and easiest to be pronounced of all articulate sounds. To confirm this Julius Scaliger, a famous author, observes that 'A' is the first sound nature puts forth at the crying and smiling of infants and it being no other motion to form it than the bare opening of the lips.

"Romans had a mighty stress on their 'A' and distinguished exactly both in writing and speaking when long and when short. To denote it long they first wrote it double, 'Aa', for 'Aa', which not being enough, inserted an 'B' between them, making it 'Ababa'.

And on and on the discourse goes into each language's treatment of the letter "A" and the justification for granting it prominence in the first issue of the journal. The outstanding reason given by the author is that, after all, to build the publication, even as to build a house, the meanest materials must be used and considered, and first comes the letter "A."

DO YOU KNOW Candy. That candy alone costs the average American family $1.70 for every dollar spent for electricity. Even ice cream costs $1.60 for each electrical dollar. There are a great many people who do not use tobacco and yet the average is more than three times electricity, or $3.33 for tobacco while $1.00 is being spent for electricity. Do you know that your radio can be operated 2 to 5 hours for one cent? The average electric iron 25 to 50 minutes? A fan 4 to 8 hours? Your electric washer 1 to 2 and one-half hours? Vacuum cleaner 3 to 6 hours? Refrigerator 3 to 6 hours? In comparison with other necessities, electricity is cheap... so cheap that no family can afford to do without its clean efficiency.
