

'CRUCIFY ME IF I DON'T SUCCEED' SHOUTS HITLER

Need Four Years to Put Germany Back On Feet, Says New Chancellor — Declares His Nerves Strong

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, four days chancellor of Germany, challenged his countrymen today to "crucify me or do anything else to me if at the end of four years we have not succeeded."

"The other side had things all their own way for 14 years," he told newspapermen in his first press conference as chancellor. "Look at the result!"

"Give us four years—that's the legal period of reichstag—and then let the country sit in judgment."

He snapped out his words with characteristic enthusiasm, speaking faster and with greater emphasis as he proceeded.

Made No Promise.

One of his audience interrupted with a request for an explanation of the four-year plan he mentioned last night in an appeal to the people.

"I'm glad you asked me that," said Hitler, "if I had wanted to make a campaign speech last night, I could have promised that by the middle of March unemployment would have been wiped out and by May the farmer would have been back on his feet."

"But you didn't hear me do that. I'm more honest than most of my opponents. I wouldn't make such promises."

"It is impossible to head a ship on the right course in a moment. It takes time. All I ask is four years."

His tense face relaxed into a smile that was almost boyish.

His Nerves Strong.

"Remember," he warned, "I'm tenacious. My nerves are strong. If I weren't determined I shouldn't be standing here before you."

A foreign office official introduced each of the American and English correspondents and Hitler shook hands with all.

He began speaking quietly. "I hope the people of the world realize what's going on in Germany," he said.

"There can be no middle course here. Either the red flag of bolshevism will be hoisted soon or Germany will find herself again."

"I want to appeal to the press of the world not to form premature judgments on the events that are taking place now."

"Please judge Germany's new government by its deeds, and take its deeds as a whole, not as isolated instances."

WHITE KING SOAP BECOMES LEADER

Americans use more soap than any other nation—they are more critical of the soap they buy—they want good soap, regardless of the price. The American standard for soap is one which cleans quickly and without injury to the most delicate fabric—must suds freely in cold or hot, hard or soft water—must be capable of dissolving grease and grime with practically no physical effort and in the shortest time—still it must rinse out freely and quickly.

That's some standard; a standard which the White King Soap company constantly keep before them in making their White King granulated soap.

Starting soon, the White King Soap company will have advertising in this paper telling why White King is now the leader.

If you would like to know how White King soap is made, write the White King Soap company, asking for their booklet, "The Romance of Soap."

SAFETY SCHOOL AMONG BEST OF TYPE HELD HERE

What is unanimously said to have been the most successful cooking school ever conducted locally by the Safeway organization came to an end this afternoon when Mrs. Marian Spencer and Miss Helen Brown of the Safeway Stores Homemakers' Bureau told an enthusiastic crowd of housewives gathered at the Fox Ri-alto the newest developments in meat cookery and revealed a further variety of recipes of universal interest among local homemakers.

Outstanding among the features of the afternoon's demonstrations was the roasting of a fowl, be it chicken, turkey, duck or what have you, without basting. This was accomplished through the creation of a blanket artfully contrived from flour and water and draping the sides of the bird to retain moisture, and a maximum of flavor, during the roasting process.

Of probably equal interest was the roasting of standing beef ribs in an open roaster without the addition of water, as a partner to the roast beef, the preparation of a Yorkshire pudding which gave every evidence of proving a tasteful addition to anybody's roast beef dinner.

Mrs. Spencer and Miss Brown served informal notice on local husbands that there need now be no excuse for the absence of dumplings when dumplings should be the order of the day, by demonstrating a favorite old dumpling recipe which is claimed to end failures in that favorite masculine fodder at once and for all time.

Still another recipe of considerable consequence to women who have grown weary of old-fashioned stuffing for fowl was that of a sausage stuffing made with seasoned sausage meat and bread crumbs, the final result being a novel tastiness for both the bird and its interior furnishing.

One would hardly suspect the possibility of developing anything new out of commonplace ham-and-cheese sandwich but Mrs. Spencer and Miss Brown showed that even this is possible by demonstrating what they termed a Golden West sandwich made of the customary ingredients plus a solitary egg and a few tablespoons of milk and handling the entire group of ingredients in a new and happily astonishing manner.

How to utilize the popular complexion value of carrots in a novel and tasty salad especially welcomed by the younger generation was a recipe which drew approval from the fascinated audience, and the glorification of rice with the aid of banana, pineapple, whipped cream and powdered sugar was another conception which was received with enthusiasm.

One of the most difficult of all dishes, the omelet, was given a new interpretation by the Homemakers' Bureau demonstrators, with the re-ult that omelet lovers will be welcoming something different in their favorite egg dish at the first opportunity.

Carrots were featured again in a souffle of no little interest, and interesting suggestions on vegetable cookery were demonstrated, while still another novelty on the afternoon's program was an entree made with shredded wheat, tuna fish and pilonchio.

Exceptional interest was manifested in a chocolate maple sauce, while another future favorite for the sweet toothed was Paradise Punch made with orange juice, grated pineapple and pineapple juice, lemon juice and ginger ale.

In drawing the course in "kitchening" to a close, Mrs. Spencer and Miss Brown expressed their pleasure in the splendid attendance that has featured all three days of the gathering. "The Safeway Stores Homemakers' Bureau," she said, "is already beginning work under the direction of Julia Lee Wright on next year's cooking school. We hope that we can make it even more complete and more interesting than we have sincerely tried to make this one."

PORTLAND PHONE BOYCOTT URGED

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 3.—(P)—A boycott of the telephone company that would reach into every section of Portland was advocated by the majority report of the committee of 15 recently appointed by City Commissioner J. E. Bennett to assist him in trying to obtain lower rates from the Pacific Telephone company.

The report described the action as "withholding use of telephone service." It was proposed that the action be in charge of Bennett and that a committee of householders be named to agree at stipulated time on an organized basis to institute the boycott.

A postcard campaign to obtain agreements was suggested, and the committee recommended a study be made of a municipal telephone system.

Bennett said he was in "hearty accord" with the conclusions of his committee.

BUCK JONES FILM AT ROXY SATURDAY

Buck Jones plays the role of an Indian Pony Express rider in "White Eagle," which comes to the Roxy theater tomorrow. Action, romance, fast riding, quick shooting, intrigue and gorgeous mountain scenery, are combined to make this an unusually good western. One of the highlights of the picture is a hand-to-hand fight with a treacherous mountain lion.

"The Blonde Captive" is showing at the Roxy tonight.

PINEAPPLE FOR HEALTH...

FOR SHEER PLEASURE OF EATING

New food research now shows Canned Pineapple to have amazing dietetic values. It contributes to health in so many different ways that authorities advise: "Eat two slices or a cup of crushed daily!"

And what a delight it is to eat it daily... if the pineapple is Libby's! In Libby's Sliced Hawaiian Pineapple, every slice is a center slice. And the center slices are most perfect in form, most exquisite in flavor, evenest in texture.

While Libby's Crushed Hawaiian Pineapple is all full-ripe, delicate fruit... the choicest of its kind.

Yet these wonderful Libby values cost you no more than ordinary brands! So it is well worth while to ask specifically for Libby's. Libby, McNeill & Libby, Honolulu, Hawaii.
