NORCROSS GIVEN VERDICT IN FRUIT NOTE COLLECTION

A circuit court jury, B. M. Bush, electrical dealer, this city, foreman, late yesterday returned a verdict in favor of W. H. Norcross, Central Point district orchardist, in his suit against Howard A. Hill, L. A. Banks, W. B. Barnum, O. E. Morrow, George Schumacher and wife, Leon D. Harris, and O. H. Taylor. The defendants assertedly endorsed a promissory note for $1000, collection of which was sought by Norcross.

The verdict reached after short deliberation, was for the full amount sought—$899.78, and $119.60 interest. Attorney fees of $100 were also granted. Testimony in the case showed that the defendants were directors in the "Peachgrowers Protective Association," and as such had signed a promissory note for $1000 in favor of Norcross. Norcross loaned the money to purchase equipment for spray residue tests under the direction of George Schumacher, chemist. The promissory note was made in June, 1930 and was payable November 1, 1930.

In August, 1931, at a meeting, the testimony showed, the defendants as directors, agreed that three-quarters of a cent should be withheld on boxes of pears shipped through Banks and the funds thus secured applied to the Norcross note. The plaintiff alleged that the three-quarter cent box levy was collected but not applied to the note payment. The defense contended that Banks acted as an agent of Norcross and that when the money was collected by Banks they were released from responsibility of the note.

All the principals in the suit are orchardists, and the case attracted much local interest. In connection with the case, L. A. Banks, addressed a letter to the court, explaining his reasons for not answering the subpoena issued, directing him to bring the records of the Sunset Orchard, Inc., into court. The letter, reads as follows, in part: "I am perfectly willing to be tried for embezzlement in an unprejudiced court before an unbiased jury composed of forty-two growers who are interested in the 1931 fruit account.

"But standing on my Constitutional rights, I must respectfully decline to recognize the authority of your court to subpoena me as a witness for the obvious purpose to give evidence in a case where I have been openly charged with a crime. "Therefore, I will not appear and I am further instructing my bookkeeper, Mr. A. J. Bischoff, not to appear.

"Very truly yours, "LEWELLYN A. BANKS." The letter was filed yesterday with the county clerk, as part of the county records. During the course of the trial yesterday, Attorney Porter J. Neff for the defense, declared that the "failure of the sheriff's office to properly serve the subpoena" had prevented the appearance of Banks and his bookkeeper, A. J. Bischoff. Banks in his letter takes the blame, and says the sheriff served the subpoena February 7.

Bids for tires to be used by Jackson county the coming year were presented to the county court this morning. The bids were referred to County Engineer Paul Rynning for checking. DECISION DELAYED ON HIGHWAY WORK OUT OF ASHLAND

No decision was reached yesterday at a public hearing between the state highway commission and the city of Ashland council and property owners, relative to early work on right of way of way costs, is the chief obstacle at present. The state highway commission gave all concerned a week in which to reach an agreement on the problem. To this end, a committee composed of Dr. B. G. Barkwell, Irving E. Vining, C. M. Green, Fred D. Wagner, F. S. Whittle, and R. E. Dietz, will meet with the landowners at Ashland tomorrow morning, in an effort to adjudicate the matter satisfactory to all concerned.

According to reports from Ashland, the property owners along the 1 1/2 miles of the route, ask approximately $50,000 for the land. The state highway commission holds that $15,000 or $20,000 is ample to pay. The county court attended the session yesterday. The county court is anxious that construction start as soon as possible so as to relieve the local unemployment situation. The work will cost about $80,000, which includes two bridges over Bear creek. Bids for the work were opened two weeks ago, but have not been awarded.
