Secret Work Wanted. The resolution was not adopted. It was proposed by the Rev. Malcolm, who asked that an intelligence committee be appointed by the president to work in secret council to devise ways and means to force the officials to resign and that the good government congress take over Jackson county and force them out of office.

Mrs. Ariel B. Pomeroy introduced a motion, asking that no secrecy not be used until a reasonable time has been allowed to receive word from the United States government. When asked what she considered a reasonable time, she stated "next Monday."

Banks, following the talk by the men in the back of the hall, arose and said "we want nothing like that, and we must go slow." He said, in response to a query why something "was not done for the unemployed," that "we have a program—a big program—but nothing can be done, until we wash our hands of the filth and blood upon them, and Judge Norton and District Attorney Coddling are forced to resign, and law and order is established in Jackson county."

Banks also informed the organization that he had defended his home behind a rifle and that he had put men in the Daily News with guns Thursday and Friday. When he spoke of going before Judge Norton, a voice in the room inquired "Will you take the tops with you?"

Banks further assured the organization that Sheriff Gordon L. Schermerhorn tried to get his newspaper back for him, when it was attached by Officer Prescott.

Breechen and F. R. Pais, T. L. Breechen of Ashland spoke, in a general way, and also mildly cautioned calmness. A woman in the audience asked Breechen questions. "You say you have a personal friendship of 25 years' standing with President Roosevelt, then why don't you send him a telegram, urging him to take action," Breechen was also urged to send a message to Justice Brandeis of the United States supreme court, with whom he also reported a long friendship.

Observers noted that about one-third of the audience applauded the sensational charges and statements. Many of the unemployed, who attended, expressed disapproval of the tactics, and thought that more effort should be expended in providing gainful jobs instead of denunciation of county officials.

County Judge Pehl addressed a letter to the meeting, assuring permission to use the auditorium.

SALES TAX ONLY RELIEF IN SIGHT MEIER DECLARES

PORTLAND, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Governor Julius L. Meier took a definite stand on the question of a state sales tax in a radio address here Sunday, declaring the tax was imperative if the state deficit is to be retired in a businesslike manner, relief furnished counties facing bankruptcy and confiscation of homes and farms avoided. The Oregon executive indicated that he was opposed to the issuance of bonds for the retirement of the present deficit as they would later have to be amortized, necessitating the imposition of an additional tax. In the special session the legislature rejected a sales tax bill which Governor Meier said was designed not only to raise sufficient funds to offset the state property tax, but also to offset a portion of the property tax in the various counties and to afford relief for the unemployed.

1 cup diced onion. 1 cup diced carrots. 1 cup fresh or canned peas. 4 tablespoons butter or other fat. 1/2 teaspoon salt. 1/4 teaspoon curry powder. Wash the rice and cook in two quarts of boiling salted water. Drain in a colander, pour cold water through and let steam until the grains swell and become separate. Cook the vegetables in a small quantity of water and just before removing from the stove add the canned peas, or if fresh peas are available, cook them with the other vegetables. Use the liquid from the vegetables and add the fat, salt, curry and sauce. On a hot platter make a ring of the cooked rice, pile the vegetables in the center, pour over them the liquid mixture, and serve very hot. Ham With Sweet Potatoes. 1 slice ham. 4 large sweet potatoes. 4 tablespoons sugar. 1 cup hot water. Brown the ham lightly on both sides and place in a baking dish. Spread the sliced sweet potatoes over the ham and sprinkle with the sugar. Add the hot water and the drippings, pour over the ham and sweet potatoes cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the ham is tender. Baste occasionally with the gravy. Toward the last remove the lid and let the top brown.

Carrots Provide a Winter Source of Vitamin A.B.C.

By the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Carrots are, or should be, a winter standby for the economical housekeeper, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They are among the cheapest of vegetables, and for vitamin content they rank at the head of the list of edible roots. For texture, flavor and color they are desirable in the family bill of fare. This vegetable can be used in a variety of ways. The yellow of the carrot lends a cheerful tone to the table. The carrot yellow is due primarily to a pigment known as carotene. Scientists have found a definite relation between vitamin A and carotene. Where this pigment occurs, either vitamin A is present or the carotene is changed in the body to vitamin A. Other yellow vegetables such as sweet potatoes, pumpkin, yellow corn, or yellow turnips are also better sources of vitamin A than are white potatoes, white corn or white turnips. Carrots, as it happens, are a rich source of vitamin B and vitamin C, as well as of vitamin A. The necessity of assuring an adequate supply of vitamin A, however, makes the cheaper vegetable sources of this vitamin especially useful in the low-cost diet. Therefore use plenty of carrots, says the bureau, for they are an important and cheap protective food.

Like cabbage and turnips, carrots are often eaten raw, and in that form give their fullest food values. Hence the Bureau of Home Economics suggests the frequent use of raw carrot sticks, chopped or grated carrots in salads, alone or combined with raw cabbage, with raw turnips, with cooked vegetables, or in gelatin. Scientific cookery methods are necessary in the cooking of carrots, as of all other vegetables, if the mineral and vitamin values are to be preserved. To prevent such losses as far as possible, carrots may be steamed whole or baked in the pan with a roast, or simmered in the smallest possible quantity of water, just long enough to become tender. To shorten cooking time, the carrots may be diced or sliced while raw, but in this case any cooking water that remains should be served with the carrots, because it contains any soluble nutrients not destroyed by heat. Carrots in parsley butter, with lemon juice, are an especially attractive dish to serve with fish. Plain buttered carrots, creamed carrots, mashed carrots, buttered or creamed carrots and peas, scalloped carrots and apples, are inexpensive, and carrots add food as well as good flavor and texture to any vegetable stew, a New England boiled dinner, or a pot roast with vegetables. Carrot custard is another possibility, if eggs are available. Dr. R. W. Clancy has resumed practice in Medford, Room 203 Medford Bldg. Phone—Office 77; Res. 118.
