

SONS-MULTNOMAH SERIES WILL GIVE FANS HOOP TREAT

Howard Hobson's Southern Oregon Normal basketball team will again battle one of the best teams in the northwest this week. This is the third outstanding aggregation brought to Southern Oregon this year by the S. O. N. S.-University of Oregon, then Monmouth and now the strong Multnomah club seniors from Portland.

The club games will be hard fought since the S. O. N. S. took a beating in an early season game from Multnomah in Portland, 45-36. S. O. N. S. must win both games to take the series and will battle hard to do this. It is well to remember that Hobson's crew has not lost a series this year. They broke even with Monmouth and took series from Oregon, Chico and others. Multnomah and Willamette are one up, it is true, but there may be a reckoning before the season ends.

The game Friday will be at the Ashland Junior high, starting at 8:00 o'clock.

Saturday the scene of action will shift to the Medford armory. It will be the first major college basketball game here this year. The game will start at 9:00 o'clock to allow merchants to see the game. There will be good preliminaries both nights.

Multnomah club, always recognized as the best in the northwest outside of the large colleges, has a great team this year. Led by Billy Keenan, human dynamo, who is faster than greased lightning, they have won over 30 games this year. Keenan is the fastest and most colorful player southern Oregon fans will see for a long time. He used to star for University of Oregon. Then there is King Bailey—ex-Oregon State star, who is playing center. He is big and rugged—always a sure scorer under the basket. Eustes, one of Hec Edmonson's University of Washington stars, is playing at guard with Ray Smith, the grand old club veteran, who is playing his seventh year. George Soales, one of the greatest stars ever developed at Willamette, Harold Palmberg, ex-Stanford star, and Lawrence Kreinzer, late of Oregon State, are other stars with the club. Coach Ray Brooks, veteran mentor, says his team this year, when right, can compare with any of the coast conference teams.

LUECK ENTERED IN FT. KLAMATH SKI MARATHON

SKI CLUB HEADQUARTERS, Fort Klamath, Ore., Feb. 15.—(Sp.)—Of interest to Medford winter sports enthusiasts is the current announcement of the participation of Rudy Lueck, well-known in Medford, in the annual ski race classic of 32 miles to Crater lake and return, February 26. Lueck arrived a few days ago from Medford and has begun an intensive training program to assure perfect condition for the long grind, in which he placed third last year.

Long experienced in the skiing art, Lueck plans to give last year's champion, O. K. Puckett of Keno, a tough battle over the course, expected to be in perfect condition for the race. However, Lueck will also find keen competition in the presence of P. O. Hedberg, Modoc Point; Nels Skjersaa, Bend Skyliner and C. C. Barker and Victore Lorene, Lake of the Woods. Several more entrants are expected in a few days.

Also well known in Medford is Harry (Happy) Fuller, who has entered the 16-mile trail breakers' race from the rim of Crater lake to Fort Klamath. This race is expected to have at least 20 entrants. Fuller for the past two years has spent his time at Crater lake in connection with snow removal operations, and is well experienced with the use of skis. A Cherokee Indian entrant is expected to give him the closest competition.

Events Sunday, February 19, will include numerous short races, and Sooty Allan, well-known Alaskan musher, and his dogs, to take part in dog races. On the following Sunday he will make a dash to Crater lake with the Princess of the Snows whose election is now underway.

MEDFORD JUNIORS PLAY IN ASHLAND

On the Ashland Junior high school floor tonight against the Lithian basketball five of that school, the Medford Junior high team will play its final conference game this evening. Although Medford Juniors lost the state championship contest at Salem, they will attempt to take over the southern Oregon championship tonight by defeating the Lithians.

Medford's team defeated the Ashland Juniors in their previous game, and have also two wins this season over the Grants Pass junior team.

APPOINT LILLARD BOXING PROMOTER HERE DURING 1933

Announcement was made this afternoon that Mack H. Lillard, former Medford boxing promoter, has been reappointed to that position for the year 1933 by the Medford boxing commission. Lillard, who is in the city from Klamath Falls, stated this afternoon that his first show in Medford will be a wrestling match March 1.

Promoter Lillard, who presented outstanding cards to Medford wrestling and fight fans during 1932, plans to put on two performances a month here, he said, and will alternate with boxing and wrestling.

Announcement of the action taken by the boxing commission, of which Larry Schade is chairman, was greeted with much favor by sports followers, and it is expected that Lillard will bring some of the matmen to Medford, who have been attracting record crowds in Klamath Falls.

Lillard said that in addition to the five per cent commission collected on each show by the Medford boxing commission, he has agreed to pay five per cent to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The money turned over to the veterans is to be used for relief purposes, he stated.

Other members of the boxing commission, besides Chairman Schade, are E. C. Jerome, P. C. Bigham, Fred Erickson, Dr. A. F. Walter, Kresse and Thomas J. Enright, secretary.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A fighting band of Vandal basketballers from the University of Idaho scored an impressive 30 to 26 victory over the Oregon State varsity squad here last night and dropped the Orangemen into second place in the northern division, eight points

FARMER BURNS, 72, RETAIN SPRYNESS

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 15.—(AP)—"Farmer" Martin J. Burns, famous wrestler of years gone by, celebrated his 72nd birthday today with a short talk in lieu of breakfast.

Burns, who held the world heavyweight wrestling championship in the days when performers were not wired for sound, hadn't, he said, eaten a breakfast in 50 years. To his frugal diet and to his abstinence from tobacco, spiritous liquor, coffee and tea, he gave credit for his present spryness.

He competed in 6,000 professional matches and held the championship from 1895 to 1897. He still has the bull-neck that he once inserted in a hangman's noose to prove its strength. The neck showed no signs of injury after an eight-inch drop on the scaffold.
