Mrs. Honeyman Makes Interesting Announcement

An announcement of interest to persons who wish to take an active part in the campaign for roadside beautification in this state, was made recently by Mrs. Honeyman in the Morning Oregonian. It reads: "Character membership in the Oregon Council for the Protection of Roadside Beauty will be open until March 31, according to an announcement made by Mrs. Jesse M. Honeyman of Eugene, president. The organization is sponsored by the Oregon Federation of Garden Clubs.

"There are few states more abundantly blessed with natural resources than ours. The general public is aware of this and many organizations and individuals have been interested in protecting these advantages; but until the Oregon Council for Protection of Roadside Beauty was organized there was no concerted movement for their conservation." Mrs. Honeyman has stated in a letter to prospective members.

National Guard Bulletin Board

The Medford Army now houses one of the best indoor rifle ranges in the state. The range is located in the basement. The local chapter of the National Rifle Association is responsible for the installation of the range, being used jointly by the N. R. A. and the National Guard.

Medford is favored with three majors in the National Guard, besides the regular complement of officers in the two local units. They are Major Ralph P. Cowgill, commanding the Third Battalion, 188th Infantry; Major J. W. H. Ellenburg, commanding the Fourth Battalion, 188th Infantry; and Major Walter W. Abbey, commanding Coast Artillery units in southern Oregon.

Private Phillip F. Bryant has been transferred from the National Guard to active duty with company A, on orders recently issued from Salem.

The clubroom in the Army has recently been undergoing a number of changes and is now in fine shape, and it is expected that it will be used quite extensively by the members of both of the companies stationed here. With little or no equipment for the boys, it would seem that no better place could be found to pass the time away. The boys are hoping that a quantity of good books and magazines will be donated.

The numerous new recruits in company A are progressing remarkably well under the instruction of Sergeant Ord Reed, and with a little more training they should be able to stand federal inspection like old veterans. A list of the new men who have enlisted in company A since last November is as follows:

PROPAGANDA USED TO SWAY VOTERS FOR SELFISH AIM

out are sincere in their belief that a breakdown of law and order exists and that something should be done about it. But they have not studied Banks' activities in the valley, and his gradual decline into a morass of legal proceedings, and fail to see the obvious "nigger in the woodpile"—the selfish purpose of their overlord and dictator.

Case Is Cited.
For example:
Banks printed a story told to him by F. A. Bates, aged miner of Poos creek, in which he charged several persons with robbing sluice boxes, and conspiracies. He printed it because the story, as Bates told it, condemned the county law enforcement officers, which was directly in line with Banks' editorial policy. He was sued for libel because of the story, and as a defense he has set about to prove by insinuation that the officers were responsible for the acts of Bates, and DENYING THE RIGHT OF THE COURTS to settle the question as to whether Bates' story was true, or not true.

Intimidation Aim.
Having failed in the election to place his own men in office, with the exception of Earl Fehl, it is now generally conceded that he seeks to do so by intimidation the thing he couldn't do at the polls. Control of the offices of district attorney and circuit judge, to say nothing of the sheriff's office, would enable Banks to successfully combat any effort to bring him to justice or an accounting.

The people comprising the "Good Government" Congress represent varied elements in the county, but while many are sincere, nearly all are UNINFORMED. Some are there because they want costs of government reduced, and blame the county officials for all their troubles. Some feel that law enforcement has failed to gain just and proper ends, and some are seeking relief from unemployment. Still others—a very small group—merely want to raise trouble and enjoy a thrill.

Banks, in an address to the Congress last Monday night, openly declared that "nothing could be done for the unemployed or the tax-ridden until the county had removed the bloodstains from its hands." By that simple statement, he rallied the unemployed and the tax-ridden to his support to justify himself in his charges against persons in the Bates case, and Earl Fehl's charges against the officers in the Dahack case.

Truth Not All Told.
Chief among the charges laid at the doorstep of county officers, and upon which the libel suit against himself and Fehl are based, are the Dahack case and the F. A. Bates case. In both cases Banks charges a "miscarriage of justice," and "breakdown of law and order." He has never told all the truth of either case.

The Dahack case, where Everett Dahack was killed by officers who were riding a still on Reese creek, has been investigated by three grand juries, including one grand jury headed by a special investigator appointed by the governor. These investigations brought out the fact that Everett Dahack was killed by a bullet fired at Raleigh Mathews, who ran towards a rifle when told to halt. These investigations also proved that those who were present at the killing, besides the officers, were present at the coroner's inquest, but refused to testify. These facts are in direct contradiction to charges made by Banks and Fehl that they were kept in jail at the time of the inquest. Banks and Fehl now clamor for another special prosecutor, after REFUSING TO ACCEPT THE FINDINGS OF THE FIRST SPECIAL PROSECUTOR.

Thread Makes Blanket.
The F. A. Bates case is another case of Banks picking up a thread of truth and weaving a blanket of false propaganda out of it.

F. A. Bates was ordered to leave Jackson county by the authorities, but IT WAS UPON THE REQUEST OF HIS OWN WIFE AND DAUGHTER, who did not want to see him imprisoned. Letters are in the possession of authorities and interested parties that PROVE HE WAS GUILTY OF THREATENING TO COMMIT A FELONY. Banks has seen the letters, but contends they are forgeries.

Banks' contention is in direct contradiction to Bates' admission that he wrote the letters. Banks, in his editorials about the Bates case, has failed to mention these letters, preferring to contend that he was "banished by the officers."

MRS. WHITLOCK, 94 DIES AT HOME OF SON IN COUNTRY

Mrs. M. E. Whitlock passed away at the home of her son, Allen Whitlock, Medford, Route 2, Thursday, evening at the advanced age of nearly 94.

She was born in Johnson county, Indiana, July 26, 1839. When a small child she moved with her parents to Iowa, where she grew to womanhood and while on a visit to Illinois she met Rev. Allen Whitlock, whom she later married and to which union were born seven children, two of whom survive, Allen of Medford and Charles I. of Newberg, Ore.; also 12 grandchildren, 15 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

For more than forty years they resided on a farm in Illinois, where the children were reared. She knew the hardships connected with the life of ministers of that early day and never complained nor shirked her responsibility.

Mrs. Whitlock was a former member of the Presbyterian church, of which her husband was pastor. In later years, however, she united with the Friends church at Newberg, Ore., where she resided before coming to Medford eight years ago.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. Howell, will be held at the Conger chapel at 2:30 Sunday with interment in the Medford I. O. O. F. cemetery.
