NON-MEMBERS OF CONGRESS URGED TO STAY AWAY

A concerted movement urging non-members of the Good Government Congress not to attend the mass meeting of that organization to be held here tomorrow, was launched today.

Several prominent citizens, sensing the serious situation confronting the community, called on individuals they knew who planned to attend the meeting, and take part in its proceedings, to stay away.

The refusal of the Good Government Congress to allow Attorney E. E. Kelly to address the meeting, was taken as clear evidence that the leaders of the organization will tolerate no outspoken criticism, or brook any opposition, to the carrying out of a program that has already been prepared.

The statement published that Attorney Kelly asked to appear to defend Judge Norton and District Attorney Codding was incorrect, according to Mr. Kelly.

"I only asked for a hearing," said Mr. Kelly today, "and I intended to represent no one but myself. I wanted to speak particularly as a member of the Bar association and explain that when Mr. Banks claimed he could secure no attorney to defend him, he was in error. It was Mr. Banks who dismissed his attorneys, not his attorney who deserted Mr. Banks. I wanted to read Mr. Banks' letter showing this to be true."

"But the leader of the congress refuses to give me a hearing. I will let the people draw their own conclusions as to why. I had no intention of delivering an incendiary speech or even a critical speech. I merely wanted to give the other side of the story, show the members the errors in the way, and hoped the members of the congress would be fair enough to give me that chance."

Under such circumstances there is a strong feeling in this city that the more mass meetings of the congress are confined to bona-fide members of that organization, the better for all concerned.

GRIDIRON RULES WILL BE TALKED

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 17.—(AP)—A special meeting of the national football league to discuss proposed changes in the rules has been called for February 26 and 28 at Pittsburgh by Joe F. Carr, president of the organization.

At this meeting it will be decided if the goal posts are to be moved back on the goal line, whether the huddle and point after touchdown should be eliminated and some plan devised to cut down on the number of tie games.

EX-NEWS OWNERS REPLY TO BANKS

A reply was filed today in circuit court, by the News Publishing company, L. B. Tuttle, president, to the answer of L. A. Banks, and the Medford News Publishing company, in the receivership proceedings instituted by Tuttle, for possession and collection of approximately $10,000 assertedly due on unpaid promissory notes.

ROXY ANN GRANGERS POSTPONE MEETING

The meeting of the Roxy Ann Grangers will be postponed this evening on account that so many of the grangers are laid up with the flu.

At Craterian

"Hell's Highway" is the title of an epic of the sorrows and laughter of road camp convicts, opening today at the Fox Craterian theater, with Richard Dix heading an unusually powerful cast.

As the tough, large-hearted, realistic convict, Duke Ellis, Dix is said to strike a tremendously appealing note.

While the picture is powerfully dramatic and not a pretentious, prison conditions it reveals, according to advance reports, are calculated to stir humane people to deep consideration of prison mismanagement.

'THE BIG STAMPEDE' AT STUDIO TONIGHT

A lot of action and thrills is promised to lovers of Western pictures when "The Big Stampede" opens tonight at the Studio theater.
