With the arrival of Frank Hayward in Medford yesterday to conduct rehearsals for the big musical comedy "The Medford Follies," scores of local young people signed up to become members of the cast of this colorful revue that will be presented at the Craterian theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, March 1 and 2.

The follies is to be a big musical comedy extravaganza of the ultra-modern type, and will utilize the services of about 200 local young people in the cast and ensemble numbers. Special music, costumes, scenery, and lighting effects are to be brought here to enhance the production, according to Jim Carey, manager of the Craterian.

In addition to the large cast of local folk who will be seen in the follies, Mr. Hayward is bringing a number of professional entertainers here for the show.

Rehearsals for this big attraction will now be conducted daily at the theatre, and anyone interested in joining the cast or choruses of the production, may do so by making application at the box office.
