

SACRAMENTO AND MEDFORD HOOKED BY AIR LINE NOW

Direct air mail-passenger-express connections between Medford and Sacramento became effective today when the California city took its place on the Pacific coast route of United Air Lines. An eleven-passenger, multi-motored transport of United, leaving Medford at 12:30 p. m., inaugurated the new service.

Addition of Sacramento to the 1928-mile airway now brings the total Pacific seaboard cities on the route to nine. Other stops are Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Oakland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego.

The new schedule calls for planes leaving Medford at 12:30 p. m. and reaching Sacramento at 2:40 p. m., and for northbound planes leaving Sacramento at 1 p. m., to arrive here at 3:10 p. m.

Letters from the mayors of various Pacific coast cities to Mayor C. H. S. Bidwell of Sacramento, congratulating him upon his city's addition to the route, were carried on today's first flight.

Mayor Wilson, and W. S. Bolger, president of the Medford chamber of commerce sent the following greetings:

"Hon. C. H. S. Bidwell, Mayor, Sacramento, California.
"My Dear Mayor:
"I extend Medford's greeting to you and your people on this first direct Medford-Sacramento service.
"We mutually rejoice in our coast air transportation development and extend appreciation to the United Air Lines for this new service afforded.
"Cordially yours,
C. M. WILSON, Mayor."
"President, Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, Sacramento, California.
"Dear Sir:
"Greetings from Medford, Ore.:
"We are extremely happy that the new air-mail service to be inaugurated Monday will bring the citizens in California's capital city and the citizens of Medford closer together.
"This letter is the first to be sent by air from Medford to Sacramento, and it expresses the hope that you will extend to your entire membership greetings from the Medford Chamber of Commerce.
"With kindest regards,
"MEDFORD CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
"W. S. Bolger, President."

BANWELL SPEAKS OF C. OF C. WORK AT CLUB MEETING

A. H. Banwell, newly appointed secretary of the Medford chamber of commerce, was chief speaker today at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Hotel Medford. The tentative program outlined for the year, emphasizing as main objectives agricultural progress and tourist travel promotion, was presented by Secretary Banwell.

"The business of a chamber of commerce is constructive action," he declared. "It is organized for service and for accomplishment and the character of its business and its value to the membership and to the community is determined not merely by the fact that it is doing something, but by what it is doing and how it is doing it."

"Obviously, what the chamber of commerce shall do in a community depends, for one thing, upon what needs to be done. Therefore any suggestions that you may have in mind will provide food for thought in formulating a plan of work," Mr. Banwell further stated.

"Right I say first of all, that unless the organization is free from debt and is placed on a 'cash and carry' basis, its effectiveness is greatly hampered.
"The chamber of commerce is made up of business leaders who have become leaders through practical efficiency. Efficiency naturally governs all activities, especially financial, and successful organizations can always point to good business management and a bank balance."
"Turning to the financial angle, Mr. Banwell stated: "The predominant motives which prompt financial support to a chamber of commerce call for definite and tangible results, therefore any plan of work must be 'sold' and the members who purchase it must have sufficient faith in the organization to put up their money first."

"Membership is important in any organization set-up. It is extremely difficult to function unless the finances are in good shape and a national survey made last year shows that 85 per cent of the organizations which went out of business was entirely due to poor financial conditions," Mr. Banwell emphasized in closing.

E. H. Hedrick, superintendent of schools, was program chairman today and introduced the speaker.

HO'Y WE APPEAR IN EYES OF OUTSIDERS

GOOD MEDICINE FROM BAD.
Good medicine is sometimes very bad to the taste. It may be the destruction of Jackson county ballot boxes will turn out to be the evil taste of good medicine for that county's ailing condition. We do not mean to insinuate that the patient would not recover without this particular prescription. Jackson county has too many level-headed and public-spirited citizens to permit such a condition to become chronic. But the ballot-burning may speed the cure.

It was unthinkable that Sheriff Schermerhorn should make the investigation for he is the one who wins by the destruction of the ballots. His election was contested by former Sheriff Jennings, write-in candidate, at the November election. Election returns gave the post to Schermerhorn by 123 votes, but Jennings claimed to have been elected by not less than 97 votes and demanded a recount. The recount was to have been started Tuesday, but Tuesday morning ballot boxes containing about 10,000 votes were missing from the courthouse vault. Recount could not be made when the ballots were gone, so the action was dismissed. Later in the day, charred remains of the box frames and ballots were found in the courthouse furnace. But the vault had apparently been entered by breaking an "unbreakable" glass window and the vault doors had not been tampered with. There would seem to be a curious inconsistency in these circumstances.

Schermerhorn is reputed to belong to the Banks-County Judge Fehi clique and the ballot theft is a symptom of the ailment from which Jackson county has been suffering for the past two years.

The hope for Jackson county's early recovery lies in the probability that the state police will get to the bottom of the ballot scandal. The situation undoubtedly needs a thorough X-raying followed by a few major operations. —(Eugene News).

Members of the so-called Good Government congress of Jackson county are suspected of having stolen the ballots in an election contest down there. That's why it has such a hi-flutin' name. We never knew a professional reformer yet who wasn't crooked and we have been watching their antics for a good many years.—(Corvallis Gazette Times).

Undergoes Operation—Mrs. D. W. Pence of this city underwent a major operation at the Community hospital Monday and was reported getting along nicely later in the day.

BANKS HATED FOR CODDING IS DATED FROM DEBT CLAIM

BUT WAS PURCHASED BY HIM AT A CERTAIN AMOUNT PER TON IN THIS COUNTY.
Because the apples had been seized by the United States authorities, Banks refused to pay the farmer, and tried to place the blame for the poor washing onto the PRUITTGROWER, WHO HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH THE WASHING AND PACKING.

In trying to avoid the payment of his honest debt, Banks made the following claim, which is quoted from his sworn statement filed in court: "That by reason of the lead arsenate spray in and upon said fruit, the same would not pass government inspection, and was unfavorable and caused the defendant to lose all the freight and being charges expended in shipping the same, and a sum greatly in excess of the value of said fruit in defending the same against the government libel."
This case is known as case No. 2139-L, and can be inspected in the office of our county clerk at any time by anyone.

Refused to Pay.
When the claim of this farmer was placed in my hands, I took it up with Banks and tried to get him to pay it without a lawsuit. HE REFUSED TO PAY, AND SAID IN EFFECT, "START COURT ACTION IF YOU WANT TO."
A court action was filed and tried in our circuit court, and Banks lost the case. He was still determined not to pay the bill, so he appealed the case to the supreme court. It is reported in volume 130, supreme court records, at page 612. Banks lost the case in supreme court after months of litigation. The farmer, of course, was put to a lot of expense for costs and attorney's fees, besides having to wait months for his money, and this particular farmer needed the money badly.

It will be remembered that Banks has bragged many times about paying for seized fruit, even when he was not obliged to, and he has posed as a great benefactor to the fruit industry in this valley. Maybe he is. In any event, here is one reason why Banks dislikes the district attorney, AND IT IS A MATTER OF PUBLIC RECORD IN COURT.

With Increasing Frequency
The family elects to make use of the facilities of our funeral home. This is no doubt due to the fact that those who have used our establishment tell others of its manifold advantages.

The tendency all over the country is toward the use of the funeral home, and away from the use of the private residence. It is becoming the accepted custom.

ORR PASSENGER WAR TRANSPORT

In connection with an article entitled "A Ticket to Bighly" in the March issue of the American Legion Monthly, a picture of the army transport Northern Pacific is shown, on which Albert E. Orr returned to the United States, following the World war.

The following note appears with the photograph of the large transport: "R. O. S. At 12:30 a. m., New Year's morning, 1919, the army transport Northern Pacific went aground off Fire Island Bar, Long Island, New York. Soldier passengers of whom 1800 were sick and wounded, were taken off under trying conditions."

LEONA F. ELSON CALLED TO REST

Leona Frances Elson passed away at a local hospital, Monday morning after a short illness, due to ruptured appendix. Mr. and Mrs. Elson have been residents of Medford for the past 10 years, and are very well known in this vicinity. She will also be known by her many friends, as she clerked in Whillock's Golden Rule store on Central avenue for four years and for the last six years has been in the employ of the J. C. Penney store.

Mrs. Elson was born December 2, 1884, in Urbans, Missouri, and spent her early life, and received her education in Missouri. In 1909 she was united in marriage to Charles H. Elson, at Springfield, Missouri. They lived on a farm in Missouri until 1922 at which time they came to southern Oregon. She was a woman of fine Christian character, and will be missed by a host of friends. She was a member of the Presbyterian church of Medford.

She leaves her husband, Charles H. Elson, also three children, one daughter, Olive Ellen Elson and sons, John and Robert, all at home. One daughter, Martha (deceased). Two sisters, Mrs. C. W. Whillock, Mrs. N. H. Franklin of Medford, one brother, A. J. Whillock of Medford. One sister of Springfield, Mo., Mrs. William Darby, one brother of Coole, North Dakota. William Whillock; brother, George Whillock of Stillwater, Okla.

Funeral arrangements, under direction of the Perl Funeral Home, will be announced later.

SCATTER GUNNERS BOTHERED BY WIND

Target busting was far from easy at the local grounds yesterday morning, fans announced today, due to the cold, blustering winds. Some fairly good scores, however, were announced today.

Shooting will be featured each Sunday morning for the next several weeks, next Sunday seeing the opening shoot in the Oregonian telegraphic tournament. A large attendance is anticipated and much interest is being displayed in forthcoming events.
