

GOOD GOVERNMENT CONGRESS LEADER GAINS BY HOLIDAY

necessary continuance was made by Deputy District Attorney Nielson, the court administered a stern rebuke to a spectator, a miner, and reputed Good Government Congress advocate. The man told the court that he "was prepared to meet any frame-up" against him. Justice Coleman warmly retorted that this was "the second time" similar imputations had been made, and declared, "I want to hear nothing further of this nature."

C. H. McKittrick, said to be the leader of the "Green Springs Mountain Boys" and one of the "L. A. Banks bodyguards," held by the authorities, in connection with the ballot robbery, was ordered released on $1000 bonds, signed by E. Schollars and G. W. Mosher, residents of this city.

Told to Take Care of Family. The court admonished Attorney T. J. Enright, representing McKittrick "to tell him to stay home and take care of his family, and I would tell McKittrick the same thing if he was in court." Attorney Enright told the court that his client was a married man, residing on Laurel street, "and has a little girl."

Bondsmen Mosher and Schollars were questioned at considerable length, relative to their qualifications as bondsmen. The court read the oath to them, explained its features and expressed doubt that they were qualified. The court, however, approved the bond. Mosher was frank and explicit in his testimony, and told the court that the matter of bonds was gone into rather thoroughly, "as a matter of safeguarding public interest." The official expressed the belief that McKittrick would not leave the jurisdiction of the court. Attorney Enright also expressed the view that he would not. The deputy district attorney held that the "moral influence was at issue," and decried the "picking up of bondsmen on the street." Attorney Enright explained to the court that the bondsmen were not produced by himself.

No new arrests were scheduled for today in the ballot-theft matter, but the authorities continued their search for half a dozen men, wanted for questioning and on warrants, who have disappeared since last Sunday. Their whereabouts are unknown. Before the arrests started most of the lot were continuously on the streets of this city. The authorities also reported that exodus of "strangers," who have been conspicuous on the streets of this city, and around the courthouse since last January continued. Included in this group were a number, known to be commissary patrons.

The state and city police, and the district attorney's office were busy mobilizing the evidence that will be presented to the new grand jury, in the ballot theft and destruction charges. The inquisitorial body is scheduled to convene early next week. Theodore J. Bell, Jr., of the Talent district is foreman. The non-judicial days, as a result of the bank moratorium, will enable the authorities to assemble essential evidence, without the handicap of usual routine matters.

Evidence Guarded. The authorities refuse to reveal any information as to the number of witnesses, or the nature of their testimony, or the number of confessions that have been made.

A decided sentiment has been manifested throughout the county the past two days that the county judge and sheriff should "temporarily" withdraw from their offices until the charges against them are finally decided. The Ashland Tidings yesterday editorially favored this course. Citizens generally feel such a course would aid "harmony and peace."

TWO LUCKY GIRLS TO HEAR FORTUNE AT LEGION DANCE

Post number 18, according to Commander Lee Garlock. Earl Fey heard the committee for this special affair and the public has been invited to attend. There will be a moderate 50c admission charge for each couple with tickets for additional ladies for a dime. One hundred votes will be given with every ticket purchased up to 10:00 o'clock and a ballot box will be arranged at the Oriental Gardens for the convenience of those who wish to cast their ballots for their favorite. One ballot box will be stationed at the Chamber of Commerce building until closing time at 5:30 p. m. Saturday. The other official ballot box, at The Mail Tribune office, will be open until 10:00 o'clock sharp when the contest will officially close and final tabulations be made. All ballots have been carefully retained at The Tribune office, pending a recheck of standings. The announcement of the winners at the Legion popularity ball will be made subject to an accurate recount which will be made at the close of the contest. The winner of the contest has a delightful trip awaiting her this summer. She will leave Medford for Seattle where she will board a luxurious steamer for romantic Hawaii. For some long, pleasure-filled days, she will stay at Honolulu as a guest of the Medford merchants and The Mail Tribune. Her home will be the beautiful coral-pink Royal Hawaiian hotel; one of the world's most attractive hostels, overlooking famous Waikiki Beach. A glorious program of entertainment has been planned for "Miss Medford," while she is in Hawaii.

The second prize winner will have just as delightful a vacation awaiting her. She will take the train for Seattle, where the beautiful Olympic Hotel will be her home for a day. From Seattle she will go to Victoria, B. C., on a luxurious coast-wise steamer and from that famous city she will cruise down the coast to San Francisco. After a wonderful stop-over in the bay metropolis she will return by steamer to Seattle, thence to Medford.

A. H. Banwell, secretary of the Medford Chamber of Commerce, is right on the job with publicity and photographs for Seattle, Honolulu, Victoria and San Francisco newspapers and "Miss Medford" and the second prize winner will bring considerable publicity for this city.

LITTLE OLD LADY IS ANXIOUS FOR SIGHT G-G CONGRESS CHIEF

"I thought my husband was the only man left in town who owned a buggy whip—and so I came down to see"—a little old lady, well protected from the cold by several folds of her "fascinator," told a group this morning gathered outside Judge Coleman's office for the anticipated trial of Henrietta B. Martin. "I wondered," she added, unfurling the neck-piece wound under her hat, "if someone had taken the whip. But I guess there isn't going to be any fun today."

She shrugged her shoulders in a manner that would have set hearts a-flutter back in the old days, when the whip was reserved for Dobbin, and then continued: "Yes, I was just wanting to make sure that no one had taken my husband's whip."

Advised that she might need the same herself for "redress in Jackson county," the little woman vehemently denied such expectations.
