

Local and Personal

Returns to Camp—Charles G. Good returned the middle of the week to government camp in Crater Lake national park.

Medford Visitor—Kay Losey, one of the prominent cattle men of Klamath county, was among the Medford visitors Saturday.

Mrs. Prescott Better—Mrs. George J. Prescott, who has been ill at her home for the past week, was reported yesterday as being much improved in health.

Married Here—Judge W. R. Coleman performed a marriage ceremony today, uniting in wedlock George Marshall and Marguerite Logan of Grants Pass.

Bicycle Stolen—Delmar Wright of 40 North Crane street reported at the city police station late Friday evening that his bicycle was stolen from his home.

Notson Goes North—Robert G. Notson of the Portland Oregonian, who has been spending the past week in Medford, left by train Friday evening for the north.

Attend Ashland Meet—J. C. Boyle and H. L. Bromley were among those in attendance at last Thursday's meeting of the Ashland Rotary club held at the Lathia Springs hotel.

Loose Bicycle—Verne Canon of 1103 West Fourth street, Janitor at the city hall, reported to the police that his bicycle was stolen from the side of the building Saturday noon.

From Klamath Falls—Wm. Bates, of the Smith-Bates Printing company of Klamath Falls, accompanied by Mrs. Bates, were in Medford Saturday on their way home from Roseburg.

Judge Steele Improved—Friends of Judge Wm. G. Steele were glad to see him able to be about town again yesterday after an illness, which kept him confined to the hospital for several days.

To State Metropolis—F. V. Horton, assistant regional forester in charge of lands, with headquarters in Portland, left last evening for Portland by train, having spent the past few days here on business.

Visitors Here—Glen Terrill, deputy in the tax department at Klamath Falls, was in Medford Saturday, accompanied by his father, C. E. Terrill, of Lake Creek. Both were deeply interested in the county affairs here.

Minister in Salem—Rev. J. T. LaRose, pastor of the Nazarene church here, who has been holding evangelistic meetings for the past two weeks in the Salem Nazarene church, reports fine success, according to word from the other yesterday.

Announce Court—Boy Scout court of honor for local youths, will be held Monday evening, March 13 at eight o'clock in the Elks temple. It was announced Saturday by Oscar E. Hoover, Boy Scout executive. Don R. Newbury will preside.

Mears to Salem—Fred W. Mears, former city attorney of Medford, who has been a resident of Los Angeles for several years, has located in Salem, Ore., for the practice of law. Mr. Mears was active in political, religious and civic circles for many years in his city and his friends wish him success in relocating in Oregon.

From Portland—Registered at hotels here from the city of Portland were the following: J. Meyer, J. H. Gell, C. V. Weser, C. S. Meyer, E. B. Connell, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. LoPresti, Ben. Griesback, John S. Bathrick, N. Bowman, S. Peters, O. J. Hill, Ned Barringer, W. C. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Thomas, Mrs. E. D. Nudelman and J. J. Wilson.

Californians—Joanna Hishop of Santa Monica, who registered at a local hotel was among those from the southern state stopping here. Others were A. E. Fossell of Chico, J. H. Peters of Sacramento, G. M. Leiser of Los Angeles, Walt Breyer of Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Chaim of San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Finn, C. E. Stead and Hal A. Webster of Oakland.

From State Points—Included among those registered at hotels here from points in the state outside of Portland are Ted Meech of Salem, James R. Fleming and D. V. Harlan of Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. B. Henderson of Hillsboro, T. O. Lindo of Astoria, B. Weber and Mrs. Weasing of Grants Pass, W. L. Colt, C. C. Archibald and Fred Carr of Roseburg, and Howard Scheffel and C. W. Loosley of Klamath Falls.

Copco Forum Meets—Members of the Copco Forum, the employees' organization of the California Oregon Power company, enjoyed an interesting program at their regular Thursday noon meeting through the courtesy of the forest service. Messrs. Griffith and Fuller presented the program which consisted of a talk on forest fire prevention illustrated by a reel of moving pictures. Over 30 Copco employes and guests were present.

Plan for Monday—In the public relations program being put on in Jackson county by the state and federal forest services, moving and lecture will be presented tomorrow noon at the Kiwanis club luncheon. In the evening, the pictures and lectures will be given at the Lake Creek Grange. Saturday evening they were presented to the Eagle Point Grange. The programs are being given by George E. Griffith of the federal office and W. V. Fuller of the state office.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

FOR SALE—150-acre farm; 9 A. alfalfa, 40 A. woodland and pasture, balance farm land; new dairy barn, modern 3-room house; paid-up water right under Table Rock ditch. Call O. J. Harman, 418 G. or see L. R. Hardman at Table Rock.

NOW is the time to have your spraying done. All work guaranteed. Phone 256-W.

In Sacred Heart—Miss Dorothy Dammill of Murphy is a patient at the Sacred Heart hospital here.

Mrs. Garrison Ill—Mrs. P. I. Garrison of Copper, Ore., is receiving medical treatment at the Sacred Heart hospital here.

Sams Valley Wins—Both the high school and town team from Sams Valley defeated the Eagle Point high school and town team Friday night.

Mr. Marsh in Hospital—Friends of H. E. Marsh, well-known local grocer, are sorry to learn that he is seriously ill with pneumonia at the Sacred Heart hospital. He was taken to the hospital yesterday morning.

Mrs. Henson Ill—Friends in this city of Mrs. Riley D. Henson of Klamath Falls are sorry to learn that she received serious injuries in a recent fall on the icy streets in the neighboring city, and has now developed complications. According to report received Friday she is now suffering with pneumonia. Mrs. Henson formerly lived in Medford, where she played a prominent part in activities of the Methodist Episcopal church, and has many friends in the Rogue River valley.

Assurance of Act Quickly

It was not a time for words, he said, but a few hours before in his capital address, but "we must act and act quickly."

The framework was all ready, for days past the word had been that he was prepared when the responsibility was his.

Tonight it was, and unless signs fail, developments were in the making which will write today's spectacular and color-filled events into reminiscence much sooner than was true of past inaugurations.

Aims Revealed

While reserving details in the main for his message to the special session and thereafter, he plainly showed his mind. In snaphot form, he set his aims to include:

Stricter supervision of banking, credits and investments, ending speculation "with other people's money";

Assurance of "an adequate but sound currency";

Balancing the federal budget; drastic reduction in governmental expenditures, national, state and local;

International economic readjustment;

Unification of relief activities; National planning for aid and supervision of transportation and communication and other public utilities;

Projects to make the most of natural resources; and

Adjustment of population between industrial and rural sections.

On lifting his eyes, he looked out upon more than a hundred thousand Americans who hung on to his every expression, cheering for an instant now and again but more often in a mood of restraint—or perhaps quiet hopefulness.

Capital in Background

Behind him rose the majestic capitol, with flags fluttering in cool breezes on its ramparts, and with hundreds more watching him from stands on its peaks.

He had just come from there, from the ceremony in which John N. Garner of Texas had succeeded Charles Curtis of Kansas as vice president and fifteen members of his party had been sworn as new senators.

On his right side, in the amber robe of his station, sat Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, who a moment before had administered to him the oath of office.

On his left, his lips taut, sat Herbert Hoover, a private citizen, ready to leave soon for New York.

Fifteen times from their ranks and those of the private citizenry who banded every inch of space within sight, fleeting spasms of applause hailed the president. The first was when he declared material relief—that "the money changers have fled from their high seats in the temple of our civilization."

Climax is Reached

The climax, brief but pronounced, broke as he said he would ask congress for emergency powers, should the need arise, to do what needs be done as though "we were in fact invaded by a foreign foe."

The first to congratulate him when he completed his address was Mr. Hoover, who rose, took of his high silk hat and proffered a hand.

Then Mrs. Roosevelt, smiling broadly, left the side of Vice-president and declared—as though in defiance—that "the money changers have fled from their high seats in the temple of our civilization."

With Mrs. Hoover in the group, they stood together for a short space, the new president waving to the crowd. Those who had been seated now were standing to applaud, and were stomping feet for haps dramatic, decisions impending appeared to permeate all ranks. Legislators and diplomats, jurists and business executives, unemployed and vendors on the streets—through them all, and the crowds in the parade too, a sort of common sentiment of thoughtfulness seemed evident.

NEW PRESIDENT IN SWIFT MOVE TO HALT SLUMP

(Continued from Page One)

It was in that atmosphere, while the tremendous crowds of parade watchers were breaking up at twilight, that the new cabinet held its first meeting with Mr. Roosevelt as president.

Must Act Quickly

It was not a time for words, he said, but a few hours before in his capital address, but "we must act and act quickly."

The framework was all ready, for days past the word had been that he was prepared when the responsibility was his.

Tonight it was, and unless signs fail, developments were in the making which will write today's spectacular and color-filled events into reminiscence much sooner than was true of past inaugurations.

Aims Revealed

While reserving details in the main for his message to the special session and thereafter, he plainly showed his mind. In snaphot form, he set his aims to include:

Stricter supervision of banking, credits and investments, ending speculation "with other people's money";

Assurance of "an adequate but sound currency";

Balancing the federal budget; drastic reduction in governmental expenditures, national, state and local;

International economic readjustment;

Unification of relief activities; National planning for aid and supervision of transportation and communication and other public utilities;

Projects to make the most of natural resources; and

Adjustment of population between industrial and rural sections.

On lifting his eyes, he looked out upon more than a hundred thousand Americans who hung on to his every expression, cheering for an instant now and again but more often in a mood of restraint—or perhaps quiet hopefulness.

Capital in Background

Behind him rose the majestic capitol, with flags fluttering in cool breezes on its ramparts, and with hundreds more watching him from stands on its peaks.

He had just come from there, from the ceremony in which John N. Garner of Texas had succeeded Charles Curtis of Kansas as vice president and fifteen members of his party had been sworn as new senators.

On his right side, in the amber robe of his station, sat Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, who a moment before had administered to him the oath of office.

On his left, his lips taut, sat Herbert Hoover, a private citizen, ready to leave soon for New York.

Fifteen times from their ranks and those of the private citizenry who banded every inch of space within sight, fleeting spasms of applause hailed the president. The first was when he declared material relief—that "the money changers have fled from their high seats in the temple of our civilization."

Climax is Reached

The climax, brief but pronounced, broke as he said he would ask congress for emergency powers, should the need arise, to do what needs be done as though "we were in fact invaded by a foreign foe."

The first to congratulate him when he completed his address was Mr. Hoover, who rose, took of his high silk hat and proffered a hand.

Then Mrs. Roosevelt, smiling broadly, left the side of Vice-president and declared—as though in defiance—that "the money changers have fled from their high seats in the temple of our civilization."

With Mrs. Hoover in the group, they stood together for a short space, the new president waving to the crowd. Those who had been seated now were standing to applaud, and were stomping feet for warmth after the more than an hour in the chill of the overcast afternoon.

Cheered by Throgs

Before long, the new chief executive and first lady were riding down the broad avenue named for Pennsylvania, and hallowed in history by the inaugural parades of so many generations past. Their car was open, and from the outset until they passed the White House gates, each waved repeatedly in response to the cheers and applause of those in the jammed throgs.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover and their sons by this time were on the train. The estimates of officials that 250,000 persons would be on hand appeared more than borne out, for it was almost impossible to make headway on the pavements from one end of the avenue to the other, so closely packed were the watchers.

The first had been on hand since dawn, to get curb seats next to the parade route itself.

In addition, all the stands erected were overflowing; people even finding seats on the steel skeletons of the several governmental structures going up.

Reviews Long Parade

After a hasty lunch with his family, President Roosevelt went directly to review the parade which by then was marching up the avenue.

Again cheers greeted him, from those privileged few guests in the court of honor with him and on either side; and from the crowded stands fronting Lafayette park across the street.

For over two hours he sat in the glass enclosed space that jutted forth in the middle of the court of honor, waving "hello" to those in the lines which passed by.

Cavalry and infantry, men of the line in which he served as assistant secretary during war times, Democratic clubs, high school cadets, civic organizations and a unit of governors from upwards of thirty states, formed the main body of the parade line.

MARIE DRESSLER IN 'EMMA' AT ROXY

Marie Dressler, who alternates successfully between comedy and striking character portrayals, has brought a blend of both to the screen in "Emma," which opens at the Roxy theater today.

The story revolves about the marriage against the opposition of his children, of a millionaire to his devoted housekeeper. When he subsequently dies, leaving all his money to this servant, she becomes the center of a cataclysm of dramatic events.

In Air Film

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., who plays the role of a young dare-devil of the air lanes in the Riatio theatre's feature picture for today and Monday, "The Parachute Jumper,"

Frank McHugh has the role of Fairbanks' buddy, and Bette Davis and Sheila Terry furnish the romance.

As a special added attraction, the Riatio has a twenty minute short subject featuring the one and only Jack Dempsey in "The World's Champ." A cartoon and news reel complete the program.

HOME OWNED PHONE 231

ROXY-10
CHILDREN 5¢ FIRST 8 ROWS

TODAY and Monday
Continuous 1:30-11

LAUGH
and forget your troubles with

Marie Dressler in 'EMMA'

Also—Victory Plays—News
Slim Summerlitt, "Sea Soldier's Sweetie"

When in the Pacific Northwest
Stop at either of the HEATHMAN HOTELS

Portland's natural beauty and its two splendid hotels are equally appreciated by experienced travelers in the hub of the shopping and theatrical district—with every comfort at low cost. Garage across the street.

RATES
Single $2.00 and up
Double $3.50 and up
with bath...
HARRY E. HEATHMAN MANAGER

THE NEW HEATHMAN BEACHWAY AT SALMON THE HEATHMAN BEACH AT SALMON

DR. E. D. COE
104 Medford Center Bldg.
Phone 340

CHALLENGE ISSUED GOOD GOVERNMENT OUTFIT BY BURTON

A challenge to certain members of the Good Government congress to come out in the open and lay their cards on the table was made yesterday by R. H. Burton, who proudly declared he had been "organized" on the activities of that spraying, and believed such activities, if not checked, would lead to serious harm.

"I was stopped by three men at Sixth and Grape Friday," said Burton, "and one of them claimed I was a spy for George Coddling and staying around the court house."

"I said I was staying around the court house and that I saw members of the congress going through the files in the county court house. And I also heard them charge George Coddling with protecting a horse thief, and I asked them to name the thief and take the evidence before the district attorney. But they refused, and for a good reason, because it is all a lie. Just like the other lies. So I advise any person hearing one of these rumors to go to headquarters and find the truth."

"And I want to say another thing to the people of this county, to those who are law abiding and send their children to school. That school house was built by the taxpayers' money; it educates your children; it gives them warmth during cold and bad weather. The law protects them, protects your home, protects your children as they go to and from school."

"So stop and think—what is this coming to? How can intelligent people be led astray by the remarks of a fanatic that is appealing to every district 'even if it's going to shake Jackson county to its foundations.' He is going to make every home tremble and take the bread out of the mouths of your women and children."

"I say stop and think people. Before coming to Medford in a body to protest against enforcing the laws on the statute books—look around home, to see if there isn't a fence to fix, a gate to mend, some repairs to the house to be made. If you can't find any of these things, look at your wife and children and see if they won't miss you if you things continue this way. If you have a grievance, take it to the proper authorities, if you want a change, circulate a petition and get signers to it. But don't follow these fanatics, who just want to use you to gain their destructive and selfish ends."

Wins Football Letter—Interesting news of Bob Law, formerly of this city and brother of Mrs. Rena Collie, is found in "The Megaphone," publication of the 694 Coast Artillery at Ft. MacArthur, Calif. Of Law it states: "For Robert B. Law, Btry, 'B', is the third (and probably the last) for quite some time) to win the major letter 'A' football sweater for services on the West Coast Army football team. The other two 'Big A' men are Sgt. Erwin A. Siskinger and Sgt. Louis T. Silva. Observation reveals that Law has those athletic traits which ex-champ Jack Dempsey talked of in a recent radio interview—he can take 'em, dish 'em out and has a fighting heart, to which also may be added—just a little horse sense." Continued praise of Law's characteristics fills another paragraph in the newspaper, the editor of which apparently thinks Law is a "real guy." He is remembered here as a former student of Central Point high school.

WHEREAAS, our courts constitute the very bulwark of our constitution and liberties; and

WHEREAAS, good citizenship and the welfare of the public demands and requires that we should at all times stand ready and willing to protect our courts, judges and law enforcement officers from false, libelous, iniquitous and anarchistic attacks; and

WHEREAAS, designing politicians and organizations created and fostered by them to accomplish their purpose have been and are now making false, libelous and anarchistic attacks upon our courts, judges and law enforcement officers; and

WHEREAAS, the ultimate tendency of such attacks upon our courts and officers will supplant our constitutional rights, law and order by mob rule;

NOW, therefore, be it resolved by the Dixie club that we denounce and emphatically condemn as false, libelous and anarchistic the attacks now being made upon our courts, judges and law enforcement officers and express our absolute confidence in our undivided and whole-hearted support to them in the upholding of our constitution and laws.

Dated at Medford, Oregon, this 4th day of March, 1933.

MARIE N. D'ALBINI, president.
ROSE G. SCHIEFFELIN,
JOSEPHINE MURRAY,
ANNIE KELIEHOR,
ETHELYN SITTON,
FLORENCE W. CAMPBELL,
VIVIAN MCGUISTON,
HARVEY AMOSS MOORE,
EDITH BOWEN MOORE,
MRS. JOHN E. PETER,
MRS. MAX GEBAUER,
BLANCHE N. CANODE,
GERTRAUDE N. WARNOCK,
MRS. A. DOPF.

WHEREAAS, the Dixie club, of Medford, Oregon, stands first, last and always in support of the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and seeks always to inculcate the principles and ideals of true Americanism; and

WHEREAAS, the Dixie club, of Medford, Oregon, stands first, last and always in support of the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and seeks always to inculcate the principles and ideals of true Americanism; and

WHEREAAS, our courts constitute the very bulwark of our constitution and liberties; and

WHEREAAS, good citizenship and the welfare of the public demands and requires that we should at all times stand ready and willing to protect our courts, judges and law enforcement officers from false, libelous, iniquitous and anarchistic attacks; and

WHEREAAS, designing politicians and organizations created and fostered by them to accomplish their purpose have been and are now making false, libelous and anarchistic attacks upon our courts, judges and law enforcement officers; and

NOW, therefore, be it resolved by the Dixie club that we denounce and emphatically condemn as false, libelous and anarchistic the attacks now being made upon our courts, judges and law enforcement officers and express our absolute confidence in our undivided and whole-hearted support to them in the upholding of our constitution and laws.

Dated at Medford, Oregon, this 4th day of March, 1933.

MARIE N. D'ALBINI, president.
ROSE G. SCHIEFFELIN,
JOSEPHINE MURRAY,
ANNIE KELIEHOR,
ETHELYN SITTON,
FLORENCE W. CAMPBELL,
VIVIAN MCGUISTON,
HARVEY AMOSS MOORE,
EDITH BOWEN MOORE,
MRS. JOHN E. PETER,
MRS. MAX GEBAUER,
BLANCHE N. CANODE,
GERTRAUDE N. WARNOCK,
MRS. A. DOPF.

WHEREAAS, the Dixie club, of Medford, Oregon, stands first, last and always in support of the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and seeks always to inculcate the principles and ideals of true Americanism; and

WHEREAAS, the Dixie club, of Medford, Oregon, stands first, last and always in support of the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and seeks always to inculcate the principles and ideals of true Americanism; and

WHEREAAS, our courts constitute the very bulwark of our constitution and liberties; and

WHEREAAS, good citizenship and the welfare of the public demands and requires that we should at all times stand ready and willing to protect our courts, judges and law enforcement officers from false, libelous, iniquitous and anarchistic attacks; and

NOW, therefore, be it resolved by the Dixie club that we denounce and emphatically condemn as false, libelous and anarchistic the attacks now being made upon our courts, judges and law enforcement officers and express our absolute confidence in our undivided and whole-hearted support to them in the upholding of our constitution and laws.

Dated at Medford, Oregon, this 4th day of March, 1933.

MARIE N. D'ALBINI, president.
ROSE G. SCHIEFFELIN,
JOSEPHINE MURRAY,
ANNIE KELIEHOR,
ETHELYN SITTON,
FLORENCE W. CAMPBELL,
VIVIAN MCGUISTON,
HARVEY AMOSS MOORE,
EDITH BOWEN MOORE,
MRS. JOHN E. PETER,
MRS. MAX GEBAUER,
BLANCHE N. CANODE,
GERTRAUDE N. WARNOCK,
MRS. A. DOPF.

DIXIE CLUB BACKS CONSTITUTED LAW; DENOUNCES FOES

The following resolution was unanimously passed by the Dixie club at their meeting Saturday, with the members desiring to "stand up and be counted," by publication of their names:

WHEREAAS, the Dixie club, of Medford, Oregon, stands first, last and always in support of the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and seeks always to inculcate the principles and ideals of true Americanism; and

WHEREAAS, the Dixie club, of Medford, Oregon, stands first, last and always in support of the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and seeks always to inculcate the principles and ideals of true Americanism; and

WHEREAAS, our courts constitute the very bulwark of our constitution and liberties; and

WHEREAAS, good citizenship and the welfare of the public demands and requires that we should at all times stand ready and willing to protect our courts, judges and law enforcement officers from false, libelous, iniquitous and anarchistic attacks; and

WHEREAAS, designing politicians and organizations created and fostered by them to accomplish their purpose have been and are now making false, libelous and anarchistic attacks upon our courts, judges and law enforcement officers; and

NOW, therefore, be it resolved by the Dixie club that we denounce and emphatically condemn as false, libelous and anarchistic the attacks now being made upon our courts, judges and law enforcement officers and express our absolute confidence in our undivided and whole-hearted support to them in the upholding of our constitution and laws.

Dated at Medford, Oregon, this 4th day of March, 1933.

MARIE N. D'ALBINI, president.
ROSE G. SCHIEFFELIN,
JOSEPHINE MURRAY,
ANNIE KELIEHOR,
ETHELYN SITTON,
FLORENCE W. CAMPBELL,
VIVIAN MCGUISTON,
HARVEY AMOSS MOORE,
EDITH BOWEN MOORE,
MRS. JOHN E. PETER,
MRS. MAX GEBAUER,
BLANCHE N. CANODE,
GERTRAUDE N. WARNOCK,
MRS. A. DOPF.

WHEREAAS, the Dixie club, of Medford, Oregon, stands first, last and always in support of the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and seeks always to inculcate the principles and ideals of true Americanism; and

WHEREAAS, the Dixie club, of Medford, Oregon, stands first, last and always in support of the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Oregon, and seeks always to inculcate the principles and ideals of true Americanism; and

WHEREAAS, our courts constitute the very bulwark of our constitution and liberties; and

WHEREAAS