Death Overtakes 'J'VILLE MAN AT CABINS ENTRY WAY

Richard N. Perkins, 50, was found dead outside his cabin door, in the Jacksonville district, early this morning. Death was due to either heart or stomach trouble, say state police and coroner who investigated. There were no signs of violence. An autopsy will be held this afternoon, to determine the exact cause of death.

Perkins was a newcomer in this county, having arrived a week ago Sunday, with his two sons and a brother-in-law, Harry G. Brinks, from the Illinois River section, near Kerby, in Josephine county. He was occupied a cabin near the Old Jacksonville road, one mile from that city and was preparing to engage in mining.

According to the testimony of a 15-year-old son Perkins spent a restless night, suffering from illness about two o'clock, he arose from his bed. The son also arose and built a fire. He returned to bed, leaving his father seated in the cabin.

Harry G. Brinks, 28, a brother-in-law of the dead man, arose this morning. Upon opening the cabin door he found Perkins lying nearby. He was doubled up as if he had suffered from convulsions, or had been suddenly stricken.

It is believed that Perkins left the cabin on some mission early this morning and was stricken while returning.

Perkins is survived by his wife and five children. Two sons came to the Jacksonville area with him. His wife and remaining children are living near Kerby.

The state police and coroner questioned the brother-in-law and two sons this morning.

HAVANA, March 6.—(AP)—All Cuban banks remained closed today under a holiday ordered by President Machado to last until Thursday morning. All exchanges were closed.

OREGON BANKERS PLAN SCRIP FOR IMMEDIATE USE

Policy to Conform With National Proclamation Is Formulated at Portland Meet—Change Is Allowed

PORTLAND, March 6.—(AP)—Members of the Portland clearing house association were meeting here today to formulate a plan of action coinciding with the national bank policy proclaimed by the president.

A means of providing a medium of circulation for transacting vital business was imperative, it was said. Some form of scrip was expected to be agreed upon.

It was indicated here that an issuance of scrip would be made available to banks throughout Oregon and that banks in other cities of the state would adopt the same system used by members of the Portland clearing house association.

Details Not Divulged. Some plan similar to that used in 1907 when clearing house certificates in small denominations were placed in circulation, were considered, today, but details were not divulged.

The clearing house in Portland opened a change-making depot during the day through the co-operation of the federal treasury and the federal reserve system. Only silver and currency were handled. No gold was to be given out in change transactions.

Each Portland bank in the clearing house association to send a teller to the change depot. The service was to continue throughout the bank holiday period.

No Checks Cash. No checks were to be cashed. No currency of higher denomination than $20 was to be handed out.

John C. Ainsworth, chairman of the board of directors of the United States National bank here, said he believed the limited withdrawal allowed last Thursday and Friday gave business a needed impetus here. "More than $3,000,000 was withdrawn from the clearing house banks in those two days," he said. "This money has placed most of the depositors in a position to meet their day-by-day expenses for at least a week longer."

R. T. Patis, attorney for the United States National bank, said today it is perfectly permissible to pay bills by check and that checks so issued will be honored at the expiration of the bank holiday period as of that day.

Foreign Bankers Remain Calm as U. S. Shuts Down

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald told parliament today that the British government contemplates no action for the present in connection with the banking situation in the United States.

PARIS, March 6.—(AP)—The dollar was still unquoted today, but trading on other foreign exchanges continued, with considerable offers of Dutch guilders, German marks and Swiss francs. Bankers said this apparently was being done by interests needing French francs and unable to convert dollar credits.

BERLIN, March 6.—(AP)—Next to the German election results, the American bank holiday was the main topic in Boerse (exchange) circles today where satisfaction was expressed that the gold standard in America apparently is safe.

TOKYO, March 6.—(AP)—Japanese banks suspended foreign exchange operations today for at least two days. Leaders believe the suspension will continue for the duration of the American banking holiday.

Glory of Rome On Craterian Screen

Spectacle upon spectacle, magnificent outdoing itself—Cecil B. De Mille's "The Sign of the Cross" opened its local engagement yesterday at the Craterian theater, and treated a large audience to a vivid picture of pagan Rome in all its glory. Many believed, and steadfastly contended, that the day of the film spectacle passed with the advent of talking pictures. It remained for the master of the spectacle in the silent days to prove that sound had only served to increase the scope and effectiveness of this type of entertainment.

Here is unfolded the whole pageant of Rome in the time of Nero—at once the most dissolute and the most colorful period in Roman history. Here is the dramatic contrast between the palace of the patrician Romans and the humble, hidden abodes of the early Christians—on the one hand the wicked Empress Poppaea in her luxurious bath of asses milk; on the other, the Christian girl, Merca, ministering to the tortured and hunted among the people of her faith.

SCRIP—WHAT IT IS AND HOW USED AS EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—(AP)—What is scrip, how does one get it, and how does one use it?

The answers to those questions were being learned by millions today as sales of the freshly-printed emergency currency were prepared for distribution.

Clearing house scrip, being prepared by the New York Clearing House association, consists of paper certificates based on bank deposits. They are issued by a group of banks, rather than by one banking institution.

Although details of the certificate plan announced yesterday by Mortimer Buckner, head of the clearing house association, have not yet been made public, it was believed the new medium of exchange would be paid out by the banks in lieu of the old. A depositor appearing at a bank to cash a check would be given the certificates to the full amount of the check.

It would also be the money in which pay checks were cashed, and it would be accepted by merchants, landlords, railroads and others instead of the old currency. Bankers said that since the scrip would be accepted for deposit at parity by all clearing house members, it would serve as a satisfactory medium of exchange.

The certificates, which represent 70-130 lbs. good-choice $2.50-3.50. SHEEP and LAMBS, 600; steady. Lambs 90 lbs. down good-choice $3.25 to 3.65; common-medium $3.50-3.55; yearling wethers 90-110 lbs. good-choice $3.00-4.10; medium $2.00-3.00; ewes 20-120 lbs. good-choice $2.25-2.75; 120-150 lbs. $2.00-2.50; all weights common-medium $1.00-2.00.

VALUE OF FORESTS TOLD KIWANIS BY GEORGE GRIFFITHS

The value of Oregon forests from recreational and industrial standpoints was stressed by George S. Griffiths, forest service representative of Portland and member of the Pacific Advertising club, at today's noon luncheon of the Kiwanis club.

The necessity to protect forest resources of the state against the ravages of fire was brought out by the speaker, who stated the industrial value of timber in 1929 represented 43 per cent of the entire Oregon industrial resources.

Forest resources that year provided 83 per cent of the entire employment. Aside from this, however, the value of the great expanses of trees, which he termed as "green gold," is unlimited from a recreational standpoint, luring thousands of visitors to the hills, mountains and lake regions of the state.

CONGER FUNERAL PARLOR

West Main at Newtown Sympathetic, Friendly Service

H. E. MARSH, LONG IN BUSINESS HERE, PASSES SUDDENLY

A quick succession of events without parallel in peace time brought forth two proclamations from the White House yesterday as Mr. Roosevelt grasped the war time dictatorial powers he pledged himself to seek if the situation called for such bold action.

Call Congress Thursday. First he met with his cabinet and then congressional leaders. A proclamation convening congress into special session at noon Thursday followed. Close to midnight came the second proclamation, declaring a banking holiday.

Secretary Woodin of the treasury, was emphatic in his assertion that the president's action in suspending banking business did not take the United States off the gold standard. Some financial authorities raised this question, but most agreed it was without merit inasmuch as the measure was decidedly temporary in effect.

Woodin indicated that the cash windows of the treasury would be closed through the holiday and with the federal reserve banks closed also, all redemption of currency in gold would be stopped completely.

Can Extend Holiday. The holiday was declared under the trading with the enemy act passed in 1917. It can be extended if necessary if congress has not put through the emergency legislation by Friday morning.

In the proclamation Mr. Roosevelt empowered Secretary Woodin to "direct, require or permit" the issuance of clearing house certificates. Officials were at the treasury until an early hour this morning to work out such a plan to keep the channels of exchange open and insure the orderly conduct of business.

"The proclamation cited 'heavy and widespread withdrawals of gold and currency from our banking institutions for the purpose of hoarding' and 'increasingly speculative activity abroad in foreign exchange' which has resulted in severe drains on the nation's stocks of gold."

In interest of all bank depositors, the document said, "that a period of respite be provided with a view to preventing further hoarding of coin, bullion or currency or speculation in foreign exchange and permitting the application of appropriate measures to protect the interests of our people."

Modifications placed upon the holiday would permit any bank that has the permission of the government to stay open and conduct its business as usual and accept new deposits to be placed in trust accounts subject to full withdrawal.

Persons close to President Roosevelt said that he realized days ago that he might have to act at once and that he already had familiarized himself with the 1917 war-time law before he proceeded.

Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury until Saturday, and his assistants worked hard in hand with Woodin to put the clearing house certificates into effect and give advice. Woodin said last night that the machinery for this purpose had not been perfected sufficiently to make it clear whether they would be uniform all over the country or vary from state to state or from district to district according to the federal reserve system.

Woodin termed Mr. Roosevelt's action a definite start from the bottom up, adding: "The people of the United States have courage. If they will have confidence now we will get out of our trouble rapidly."

H. E. MARSH, LONG IN BUSINESS HERE, PASSES SUDDENLY

It was not believed that the proclamation would effect new deposits in banks which have been accepting them free from restrictions since limiting withdrawal of funds tied up, but this point was expected to be cleared up in the regulations.

The president's proclamation was taken to affect all banks, requiring all to obey his closing order.

It was understood clearing house associations would set up depots in each city to provide change with which to carry on business.

Officials said if any banks wished to ask the secretary of the treasury for permission to stay open they should do so by telephone.

It was said the clearing houses would determine whether they would use clearing house certificates, but it was expected all of such organizations would cooperate.

The handling of trust funds was regarded as in the nature of banking business, but it was probable these would be opened promptly.

If a governor wishes modifications in the holiday order in his state he may ask the secretary of the treasury who would rule whether the case justified particular treatment.

Officials have not yet reached the point of preparing regulations governing the payment of income taxes on March 15. However, it seemed likely here that a great amount of the tax due then could be paid in cash.

It was believed that tied up in a taxpayer had his funds there up a of New Mexico, said last night Governor Bellman would apply to Woodin today for permission to open banks in that state. They were due to open today.

In answer to queries which poured in from every corner of the land, treasury officials gave tentative opinions where possible, but in many cases had to reserve their judgment. Some of the indications they gave follow:

The president's order probably will not tie up safety deposit boxes during the holiday.

bank he could certify to this effect and the internal revenue bureau would delay collection until he could secure the necessary cash. It was pointed out, however, that every income tax payer must make a return on March 15 and pay his tax if possible.

The question of whether the security or commodity markets should be opened was one with which the government could not now deal, but officials expressed the opinion they might open before the end of the holiday.

Officials said they could not yet prescribe any procedure for issuance and distribution of scrip. It was one of the points they were concentrating on.
