PROSPECT SCHOOL BOARD BARS BANKS IN SPEECH PLANS

Detention by the state police of John G. Brock, resident of this city, for questioning in connection with the recent and audacious theft of ballots from a courthouse vault on the eve of the sheriff race recount.

Release on $1500 bonds, furnished by Ernest Daback, Eagle Point, and Alfred Poston, Pinehurst, of C. H. Brown, secretary of the "Good Government congress," and father of Henrietta B. Martin, president of the organization, following his arrest in the midst of "congressmen," on a tour of the courthouse.

Bank Slander Charged - Brown is charged with "slandering a bank" by reason of an article appearing in the last issue of the Pacific Record-Herald, alleging the provisions of the bank moratorium had been violated. Brown was arrested by Constable George J. Prescott. He had been sought since Saturday afternoon.

Authorities continue search for missing men, wanted on warrants for quizzing in the ballot theft case.

Unmistakable indications that "Banks" revolt talk coupled with the courthouse raid had alienated C. E. L. A. Banks were taken: "The speech of Banks, as taken by W. J. Looker, was as follows: Mr. Banks: 'You were told a few months ago that if you would close the Daily News that you would have peace in Jackson county. Do you remember that?'

(Voice from audience: Yes.) 'You were told that Lewellyn A. Banks was a disturber of the peace. (Voice from audience: A riotous man.)'

'Yes, a riotous man. Now my friends, the Medford Daily News was stolen in this courthouse, deliberately stolen and delivered into the hands of thieves. How long ago? A week - last Saturday, a week ago on Saturday. What has happened in the way of peace since then? Consider the kind of peace you have. (Voice from audience: We are getting pieces.)'

'I will show you the peace that crowd of criminals - the gang... (Voices from crowd) the kind of peace. They commenced to arrest your citizens and put them into jail incommunicado, - as they did in Cuba, - picked up our boys, - as innocent as lambs, and threw them in among the fleas and lice and held them there incommunicado under five thousand dollars bonds when they did get out, while Joe Cave - the man indicted for murder was out on $1500 bond, wearing a gun, - in a uniform, - and I want to say to you, friends, that Joe Cave - the man who was indicted up here, was the man who questioned our boys as to their innocence or guilt.'

Business Firms of City Join in Printing Money

No deposits will be accepted. No drafts will be issued. Access to safety deposit boxes will be permitted, and change will be made. No gold certificates or gold will be paid out in making change or cashing necessary checks.

Sees Relief Thursday. In explaining failure to permit deposits, Mr. Harder brought to the Medford audience one of the most optimistic predictions of the day. "When President Roosevelt appears before congress Thursday," he declared "it is my belief that his plan will provide for acceptance of deposits in the way of trust funds and that new deposits will be guaranteed by the federal government. Such action would immediately restore confidence in business and bring forth money in hiding, the wheels of industry would start turning. I am not saying that this will happen," Mr. Harder added, "but it is my belief that it is the logical thing to do and that it will probably be done."

Urging the continuance of buying on the part of the public and the extension of credit by merchants, Mr. Harder declared, "I would rather have a man's credit than the goods on my shelf. Credit is the life blood of this country. It is still the corner stone of commerce."

Not Enough Currency. Answering the question: "Why is this country in this position?" Mr. Harder stated, "It is because of our system of doing business. We pay by check. In the United States there are deposits in the banks amounting to sixty billion dollars. In circulation there is only seven billion dollars in currency. If all want their money at once, there is naturally not enough to go around."

He then turned to the situation which arose in New York where eight hundred million dollars was withdrawn during three days and converted into gold, necessitating the banking holiday. As a result, Mr. Harder stated, "we are temporarily off the gold standard. No gold or gold certificates are to be paid out in making change."

Full faith in the presentation of a workable plan by President Roosevelt when congress meets Thursday was expressed by Mr. Harder. He advised his listeners, however, not to expect the problem to unwind Friday as it is a national and a world issue. "Europe," he said in closing, "is waiting to see what the United States will do."
