Former President Enjoys Excursion As Private Citizen —First Opportunity in Four Years Sans Fanfare

NEW YORK, Mar. 8.—(AP)—Declaring himself more rested than for weeks past, Herbert Hoover today returned to something like his old routine—a busy round of conferences prefaced by an hour of brisk exercise early this morning.

Beginning his third day as a private citizen without particular portfolio, Mr. Hoover arose shortly after daybreak and left his hotel apartment while much of the city was still asleep.

For nearly an hour he walked briskly on a self-conducted sight-seeing tour. He took a look from a distance at the new Radio City development. Along Fifth avenue he stopped frequently to "window shop."

Walking as far uptown as Central park, he finally turned back to his hotel at 8 a. m.

Few See Him. Comparatively few people were on the streets at that hour. Some recognized him, however, and there were nods and friendly calls of "Good morning, Mr. Hoover." He nodded in return.

Several people on top of the early morning buses also recognized the former President and turned to look after him. Mr. Hoover was accompanied only by Lawrence Richey, his secretary for many years.

"It was the first time we had a chance to see the town in four years," Richey said. "On every other trip here we have been attended by crowds and have just come in and gone out with hardly a stop."

Keeps in Touch. Throughout the day the former President kept himself in touch with developments in the banking and business field, and followed the actions taken by the new administration in Washington. Scores of telephone calls came through the special switchboard attached to his suite.

A first-hand account of what has been going on was brought to Mr. Hoover also by Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war, who arrived here this morning from the national capital.

Among the other callers were Edgar Rickard, an old friend; George Barr Baker and Nathan Miller, former governor of New York state.

PYTHIANS ENJOY EVENING IN G. P.

A large delegation from Talisman Lodge, Knights of Pythias and their wives left Medford last evening to attend a dinner and dance at Grange Hall, given by the Pythian Sisters of Thermoplea Temple. A very enjoyable dinner was served, followed by a short program.

Music was furnished by John Bennett's "bunch" as they were called. They furnished very peppy music and entertainment throughout the dance, which was enjoyed by all who attended.

It is understood that the entertainment committee from Talisman Lodge at Medford were present and were so pleased with the idea that they are planning on having a dinner and dance at the K. of P. hall Wednesday night, March 29, which will cost but a small sum for both features.

Evans Valley Club Benefit Dance, Plan For Wimer Tonight

EVANS VALLEY, March 8.—(Sp.)—Evans Valley extension club is giving a hard times dance tonight at the Wimer Grange hall. The dance was planned last month, but postponed. Those not appearing in hard times apparel, will be fined 10 cents. Prizes are offered for the best costumes and dancing is to begin at 9 o'clock.

Proceeds of the dance will be used by the club to help carry on the relief program, which the ladies have been carrying on since the first of the year. Their relief fund has become almost exhausted and it is hoped that the proceeds will add materially to help carry on their relief program.

During the evening pie and coffee will be served, counter style. Wimer is well known for its congenial good time and those who attend are promised a real treat.

Lenten Services At St. Peters On Each Wednesday

A series of Lenten services are being conducted in St. Peter's Lutheran church on Portland avenue every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock. This evening will be the second service of the series. The local pastor, H. H. Young, will preach for his theme: "Our Redeemer Indicted by the Church." He will show how Christ was indicted on three counts, viz: being a seditioner, a tax shirker, and a rival of Caesar. The public is cordially invited to spend an hour of prayer and Lenten meditation in the Lutheran church on Portland avenue each Wednesday evening. Christ says: "What, could ye not watch with me one hour?"

Notice. I will not be responsible for any debts contracted in the name of the "Lenten Service" other than those authorized by myself.

DEATH OF LEACH, FORMER PASTOR, CAUSES SORROW

The many people in Medford who hold a pleasant memory of Rev. Frederick Robinson Leach, former pastor of the First Baptist church here, will read with interest an account of his life's work, given in the Bremerton Daily News Searchlight, following his recent death in the Washington city.

For those who do not have access to the northern press, the following passages from the article are published:

"Coming here June 1, 1929, with his family, his leadership built the church steadily in membership and other respects. Believing that God's house should be a matter of personal pride, Reverend Leach effected improvement of a permanent nature both inside and out.

"The church is now a flourishing one in the community. The deceased pastor was a thoughtful and convincing leader, a man of studious nature, a builder with positive views concerning truth and life. He taught all this with strong conviction.

"In his quiet and impressive manner, each Sunday he brought Christ to the people a living, loving Christ, and he had no opportunity of being and inviting others to accept Jesus Christ as their personal saviour.

"He had a deep interest in the lives and welfare of his people and spent a part of each day calling and visiting with the sick and needy. He was always ready to give aid and comfort. Of a happy kindly nature, to know him was to love him and he leaves many close friends in the churches of the city and community. During his pastorate 435 new members were received into the church."

While pastor of Medford, the congregation Reverend Leach also built a church. He left here to go to Bremerton.

Reverend Leach was born in Hamburg, N. Y., February 14, 1864. He attended Hamburg academy in 1884 and was graduated from Hamilton in 1888. After attending Hamilton Theological seminary, he was ordained August 4, 1891.

His first pastorate was at St. Paul, Minn., where he married Mary C. Gaylord of Lake City, Minn., who died in 1906. Three sons, Gaylord P., who was killed in action in the world war; Harold B. of Chicago, and Donald, Flint, Mich., were born.

Pastorates at Glenwood, Iowa, Anoka, Minn., Park Rapids, Minn., Watertown, S. D., Grace church at Milwaukee, Manistique, Mich., Medford and Bremerton followed.

In 1908 he married Helen Maynard Hallowell of Minneapolis. A daughter, Helen Laura, now Mrs. Phillip E. Renshaw of Seattle, was born.

W. C. T. U. Notes

By Mrs. Wm. H. Hill.

Mar. 15.—Shortly after the Civil war we began our machine power era and it was the realization by industry and commerce that liquor was an obstacle to their expansion. The moral welfare forces of our nation at that period were supported by legislative enactments in bringing scientific knowledge to the doorsteps of the people to enable them to meet the situation of an emergency of a mechanized regime; to protect them against the vast concentrations of machinery and wealth rising on every side and converting the once independent masses into tenants and employees. The liquor trade had itself been made the subject of mass production and it was the scientific instruction in our public schools throughout the entire nation, which trained a body of voters to vote for a constitutional amendment to outlaw a traffic whose sole purpose then and today is, greed and avarice at the expense of public morals. From that time the crown of fire came ideas that have remained in human statutes through the centuries despite the continuous and wholesale violations. Most of them are prohibitions including "Thou shalt not murder and thou shalt not kill," and yet the 18th amendment repeats those objectives in another form when it says in effect "Thou shalt not give men drink that makes them murder and induces them to steal."

women of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will continue to throw all the weight of their 600,000 membership to the cause of Scientific Instruction of our youth. And today we have thousands of our young people lined up in defense of a cause which is their only safeguard and protection against the forces which would destroy them. When Christ was here 830 was the price of a man. What is it today, friends? Joy Elmer Morgan, president of the National Education association, said in a recent address to fellow educators: "The American people want bread, not beer. They want leadership, not surrender. They want to go forward, not backward. They want constructive not destructive policies. They want higher standards, not lower."

On account of other "dry" articles running in this paper, we will discontinue our column until after Easter, when we hope to continue our discussion of the purpose of the W. C. T. U. and its great humanitarian service to true patriotism.

on manufacturers, publishers and wholesalers, and eliminates the personal property tax. The senate, in the special session, had defeated a similar bill after it was approved by the house.

The state grant, organized labor leaders and other opponents against the sales tax were not strong enough in their protests to prevent passage of the measure, but they did have enough power to have the referendum clause attached to it and passed with this amendment. The house was expected to concur.

The measure now will be voted on by the people June 6 if the senate bill, introduced yesterday calling for a special election on that day, is passed by both houses. Other referended bills and the election of delegates to a state convention to vote on the repeal of the 18th amendment will be considered at the special election also.

How They Voted

The vote on the bill in the senate was as follows:

For—Allen, Booth, Bynon, Corbett, Duncan, Dunn, Dunne, Fisher, Franciscovich, Goss, Jones, Mann, McFadden, Staples, Upton, Wheeler, Williamson, Woodward and Kiddle.

Against—Brown, Burke, Chinnock, Dickson, Hazlett, Hess, Lee, Spaulding, Strayer, Yates and Zimmerman.

Creation of a state power commission for the development of power and the improvement of the Willamette river between Oregon City and Eugene "without cost to the taxpayers" was approved by the house of representatives by a vote of 39 to 18. If there is no election prior to August 1, 1933, the commission will be named by the governor to serve until there is an election.
