of Arkansas, "ratifies the orders and proclamations heretofore issued by the president and secretary of the treasury, penalizes hoarding, requires member banks to pay to the federal reserve bank gold bullion or gold certificates owned by such member banks and to receive therefor coin or currency, and attaches heavy penalties for non-compliance."

Expansion Provision

"Among other provisions for the measure authorizes reorganizations under careful safeguards and for a period of segregation of new deposits in banks of a certain class, the new deposits so segregated to be subject to withdrawals as the comptroller may permit.

"There is provision for reasonable and controlled expansion of the currency, based on government bonds and assets and the issuance of federal reserve bank notes."

In its provision extending the president's power, the bill provides that in time of war or other national emergency declared by the president, he may regulate transactions in foreign exchange, transfers of credit between banking institutions, export, hoarding, melting or remarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency.

He would also be authorized to require any person engaged in any such transactions to furnish under oath complete information relative to the transaction and books or contracts.

Penalty Provided
A penalty of $10,000 fine or 10 years imprisonment is provided for violations.
The emergency bill would permit banks to get circulating notes from the federal reserve system in return for United States obligations, notes, drafts, bills of exchange and bankers acceptances.

Notes would be given the banks to the full value of the United States obligations and 90 per cent of the sound value of the notes, drafts, bills of exchange and bankers acceptances.

Notes would be receivable at par in all parts of the United States "and for the same purposes as are national bank notes" and would be redeemable in lawful money. They would be subject to the same tax as is provided by law for circulating notes of national banks secured by two per cent bonds.

May Advance on Notes
The bill provides that in "exceptional circumstances" when member banks have no further eligible assets, the reserve bank may make advances to them on time or demand notes secured to the satisfaction of the reserve bank.

An appropriation of $2,000,000 is carried in the bill to be expended by the president in carrying out its provisions.

decided to leave him near the Sixtyyou auto checking station.

Highways Watched.
State police from Josephine, Jackson and Klamath counties and the peace officers of northern California, all heavily armed, were keeping a watch for the two men this afternoon.

The customs officer told the state police that at one time last night he was threatened with death, and that he was offered a $2000 bribe "to forget it." The alternative "was a 45 pill where it will do good."

The customs officer, handcuffed to a small tree with his own iron, sighted his rescuer, near his barn, and raised a cry for help. Oiler had to cut down the tree to release him.

The customs officer then picked the handcuff lock with an old-fashioned button hook. State police brought him to this city.

The customs officer told the authorities that his captors were known narcotic runners, heavily armed and desperate. He further declared that from their conversation they were anxious to reach San Francisco. Both were declared to be drug users.

Before leaving the customs officer bound to the tree one of the captors placed a bottle of milk nearby.

Reports indicate that the two men turned around before reaching the checking station and headed back into southern Oregon.

The customs officer sustained three severe blows on the head, evidently with the butt of a pistol, and one eye was highly discolored. Two stops were made for gasoline and one for sandwiches.

The name of the assaulted officer was withheld because of the nature of his work, and the danger of vengeance.

The two fugitives are known drug runners and users, and have been

Janet Gaynor Has Role Rialto Film

"Tess of the Storm Country" with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell starred in their last picture together, is at the Rialto theater today and tomorrow. This film version of the Grace Miller White story has a wealth of exciting action and suspense along with its hectic love affair. And with the "stern and cockbound coast of Maine," supplying the setting for most of the story's action and several scenes aboard a big three-masted schooner as added color, the picture is genuine entertainment to its very end.

A Vitaphone act and Movietone News is also on the same program.
