

IRON SALTS FOR PEAR TREES DUE NOW SAYS AGENT

The treatment of chlorotic or yellow leaved pear trees by the injection of soluble iron salts should take place at this time, according to L. P. Wilcox, county horticultural agent.

The yellow leaved or chlorotic condition of trees is due to an excessive lime content in the soil, which in time locks up all the available iron, resulting in the tree being starved for this necessary element.

Pear growers here and elsewhere have used the iron salt injection method of control for several seasons past and obtained excellent results in the form of increased vigor, indicated by dark green colored leaves.

The method consists of boring holes, 1/4 to 7/16 of an inch in diameter into the trunk of the sick tree, through the bark and into the sap wood to a depth of 1 1/2 to 3 inches, inserting the dry iron citrate powder (ferrous citrate) and then sealing the hole with a plug of wax.

For small trees, two or three inches in diameter, a single hole made with a one-fourth inch wood bit is sufficient, while in larger trees two or more injections should be made with holes spaced around the trunk at intervals of about three inches. The amount of iron citrate powder per hole should be approximately one-tenth of an ounce. The treatment is best made in the dormant period of the tree and before growth starts in the spring. One treatment is effective for a period of about three seasons.

Mrs. Hubbard Returns With House Guest

Mrs. Chester Hubbard returned Tuesday from visiting in Portland, and was accompanied by Mrs. A. C. Kiggins of Vancouver, Wash., who will be her house guest for two weeks. Considerable entertaining for Mrs. Kiggins will interest members of the young married set in the near future, although no definite affairs have been arranged for this week.

REDUCED OUTPUT HOLDING BUTTER PRICES ON LEVEL

PORTLAND, March 10.—(AP)—Further decrease in butter manufacture was reflected. This was perhaps the chief factor in saving current values. There was a lesser demand for offerings, but the cut in output practically makes supply and demand about equal.

There was no change in the price list on butter for the day. Both prints and cubes were stationary in value on the open market. There was no change in the price on butterfat. Market for eggs continues to reflect a mixture of prices. There were various rumors of secret price cuts, but these were unconfirmed.

There was a very acute shortage of chickens in the live poultry trade. The scarcity includes all sorts, but the chief loss is in light weight offerings. All prices were nominally firm.

Only a few handfuls of dressed turkeys were reaching the local trade with resulting strength in the price.

This was perhaps higher than early in the week. Quality was not quite so good.

There was a scarcity of country killed meat offerings with corresponding strength in values. Good calves were especially short, as were spring lambs.

Notes of wholesale trading: Lettuce market was higher south; probably rise here Saturday.

Bean prices were again advancing with prices on Idaho stock withdrawn at the source.

Texas spinach was down a dime a hamper at $1.50 top. Sacramento offering $2.50 for 45s.

President Roosevelt extends banking holiday indefinitely.

Hoarded gold flows back into federal reserve banks.

President completes plan to slash expenditures half a billion dollars by lopping off certain veterans' compensations and reducing salaries.

Federal proposal for half a billion dollar bond issue to put 500,000 men at work in reforestation, flood control, power development and in vast internal improvements is prepared for presentation to congress, probably tomorrow.

New bank law, swiftly passed by both houses and signed by President Roosevelt last night, provides among other things for reopening of "sound banks" upon their being approved by the treasury department.

Secretary Woodin of the treasury announces policy will be "to permit as rapidly as possible the opening of sound banks."

Senator Glass interprets extension of bank holiday as being designed to permit as many state banks as possible to "come to the shelter of the federal reserve."

No bank reopenings are to be authorized before Saturday, the treasury indicates, in order that all banks upon opening "will be placed in a position to meet all demands."

Food supplies continue plentiful reopening today to resume payment of New York stock exchange to remain closed until national holiday is lifted.

Banks in many parts of the country open, operating within the restrictions laid down by the treasury department.

Loans and payments on surrender value of life insurance policies in New York state is ordered halted for period of the emergency by the state superintendent of insurance.

New York savings banks announce reopening today to resume payment of limited sums to depositors.

New York clearing house begins clearing checks.

New currency, already being printed, to be available as rapidly as banks are authorized to reopen.

Oregon Weather

Rain in west portion and snow and rains in east portion tonight and Saturday; little change in temperature; strong southerly winds offshore.

TIGERS WILL PLAY LINCOLN ON FIRST DAY OF TOURNEY

The Medford high school basketball squad, which last night won the southern Oregon district title, by defeating Phoenix, county champions, 24 to 21, in a hard battle, will meet Lincoln high school of Portland, city champions in the second game of the opening day at the state tournament at Salem next Wednesday. The game will start at two o'clock.

Klamath Falls, by the drawing, will meet The Dalles at five o'clock the same day.

The Lincoln team is rated as one of the three strongest squads at the tourney. The others are Silverton and Astoria.

The Medford team will leave next Tuesday morning for the tourney. Seven players will make the trip.

Six El Paso, Tex., fliers went on the first picnic of the year by flying a distance into a warm region of New Mexico.
