FOREIGN POLICY KEPT VEILED BY F. R. COMPLAINT

... on that subject in his handbag.
The administration had its fingers crossed when it approved the Macdonald disarmament program.
There was no enthusiasm here for the British idea. For that reason it will not be seriously considered except as a bargaining plan. The decision in it lies in the fact that it is arithmetical and not political. Incidentally there is some bad arithmetic in it as far as we are concerned. We have the strongest air force in the world (about 3000 fighting planes) and could hardly consent to slaughtering it down to 800 planes.
But that is not why the administration is lukewarm on the proposition. Mr. Roosevelt has some personal ideas for disarmament and peace which go far beyond arithmetic.

The anguish shown by individual congressmen at handling the veterans' economy problem over to Mr. Roosevelt was not as real as it appeared.
There was some public weeping. That was done to show the voters back home that the congressmen did not like this business of letting the president cut. Down deep inside there were many sighs of relief. It took a big load off their shoulders. During last session many members walked the floor nights trying to figure out how best to vote on each individual economy—particularly veterans' and wage cuts.
The economy bill handed it all over to Mr. Roosevelt in one bundle. Congress was relieved of tons of dynamite for 1934.

The truth is that congress did not even draft the legislation. It was written entirely by Mr. Roosevelt's two economy advisers, Swagart Sherry and Budget Director Douglas. Neither are in congress. They had the bill printed in final form before they entrusted it to congressmen to be formally introduced.
All congress did was to act as a rubber stamp.
That was the only efficient way to do the job. If the bill had ever been opened for amendments you would have been waiting for economies from now until doomsday.

There are so many veterans' laws on the statute books that no one has been able to find them all. Director Douglas spent 16 months searching through them and gave it up. That is why you saw the blanket provision in the economy bill repealing ALL veterans' laws. They did not want any to escape the pruning knife.

The social racket has calmed down since the Democrats came in. There are plenty of jorgnettes among the newcomers. But there are more who do not know what it means to turn down the corner of a calling card, and do not care.

That is the condition of two members of the cabinet, Postmaster General Farley and Interior Secretary Ickes. They were talking it over at lunch the other day. Observed Farley: "You sure get a lot of calling cards in this business."
Responded Ickes: "Yes, my mail box was full of them last night. What does it mean when the corners are turned down?"
Farley: "Darned if I know, but I guess it's nothing important."
Ickes: "Yeah, they must be for you or they wouldn't leave a card."
Farley: "Yeah, it must mean they want a job."

Mr. Roosevelt appears to be as keen as ever to keep down speculation.
Investigators for the senate stock market investigating committee are now working on J. P. Morgan, Dillon, Reed & Kahn, Loeb & Co. with his approval. The hearing may start shortly but there are indications some of the smaller fry will be named before they get to Morgan.

Williams Creek

WILLIAMS CREEK, March 24.—(Spl.)—Moving picture show at the hall sponsored by the ladies' club Thursday evening was fairly well attended. Scenes from Yosemite park and Havana, Cuba, also a mining picture of early gold dinnings, were on the screen. The money taken at the door goes to help keep the county demonstration agent, Mrs. Werra.

A family from California named Miller has homesteaded the 40 acre south of the Charles Kincaid ranch. They are preparing to build.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Payne Roberts, Fred Kincaid and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Peckham were business visitors at Grants Pass Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. House and family were Sunday visitors of Mrs. Selby and her mother, Mrs. Linkhart, of Grants Pass. In the afternoon they drove to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williams' on Jones creek.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lewman included Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stephens and family, Yvonne Bailey, Geneva Boyce and Clark Emery, all of Grants Pass.

Tom Swearingen has purchased the ranch known as the old Caldwell place and has moved his family there. Mr. and Mrs. George Cockman, who have been living there for the last two years, have moved into the small house on Mrs. Addie Price's ranch on Powell's creek.

Walter House is spending this week at the mine on Briggs creek.
Ralph Coughle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coughle of Williams, was married last week to Miss Edyth Snowball of Medford.

Mrs. Bert Harris, who has been confined to her bed for several weeks, is improving slowly and is able to sit up in bed for a short time each day.
Roy Lawrence, who worked for the Gibson and Shultz sawmill several weeks last spring, was recently married to a young lady of Roseburg. He is building a four-room bungalow in Grants Pass.

Mrs. J. W. Turvey is moving from the Mollie Hall place, where she has had her furniture stored for the last year.
Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Edwards entertained the Williams Bridge club Saturday evening.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy March 10. Mrs. Geo. Lovelace is nurse. Mr. and Mrs. Roy recently came here from California and purchased the old Sargent place on the east fork of Williams creek.
Eugene Morrison spent several days last week plowing and sowing oats for Cleve Wilson.

Mrs. A. L. Blodgett, who was operated on two months ago, was able to be brought home Friday. She can walk around some.
Mr. and Mrs. M. L. House and family and Jim Shields spent Friday evening at the Bill Lemmon home.
Mrs. Tom Choate visited Tuesday at the M. L. House home.
C. R. Hill and son, Lester, and Mr. Wood of Provolet are mining on Beasley gulch. Last Friday they picked up a $17 nugget, the largest of two weeks' good paying work.

Mrs. George McClain of Phoenix is spending this week end with her cousin, Mrs. C. W. Roberts.
Friends are sorry to learn that Beasley House is on the sick list.
Mrs. Drusy Mansfield spent the week end with her daughter, Mrs. Bill Lemmon, and family.
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Watkins and daughter, Evelyn Jane, of Medford and George McClain of Phoenix were Sunday afternoon visitors at the C. W. Roberts home.

Provolet Community club met for its special evening March 17 with a "hard times" party. Mrs. Oscar Johnson was voted the prize for the most tacky dressed woman; Mr. Williams of the central office, the men; and his little girl, the children. There were 14 present with birthdays in March and they were guests of honor. Three birthday cakes, trimmed with St. Patrick's green, together with sandwiches and coffee, were served. There was a delightful impromptu program of music and speaking to a full house and an enjoyable evening.

Applegate club had a St. Patrick's day party with Mrs. E. P. Smith and Mrs. Frank Knutzen, whose birthdays are in March, as guests of honor. The club presented them each with a beautiful set of vegetable bowls.
