

BOSTON BRAVES REVERSE USUAL EARLY SPLURGE

Team Looks Fine On Defense But Are Hitless Wonders Of Training Period To Date — Kids Look Good.

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
There was a time when the Boston Braves could count upon burning up the "grapefruit league" and coming north full of confidence and enthusiasm, only to crack up along about May or June and take a quick dive in the general direction of the National league cellar.

If there is anything in the theory of opposites or the law of reverse, the Braves should follow up their mediocre exhibition as far in Florida by going on the warpath as soon as the pennant hunt begins.

Hitless Wonders
Up to date they have been the "hitless wonders" of St. Petersburg, allowing even for the contrast and handicap of being tossed into action almost daily against the powerhouse of the world champion Yankees.

Defensively, Manager Bill McKechnie could ask for no more than his men have shown. It would not seem he needs to worry much about his pitching staff. If at all, judging from the sensational development of one or two newcomers, including d. Fellenstein, who wasn't considered important enough to be put on the club roster at first.

But "Wilkesburg Will," now facing the last year under his four-year contract to rebuild the club, is still looking for the batting punch the Braves must acquire to pull themselves out of the second division.

Many Trades Made
If it doesn't materialize, McKechnie cannot blame the Braves' popular president, Judge Emil E. Fuchs, who engineered a number of off-season deals at his manager's suggestion and gambled to the tune of $60,000 on the ability of a pair of rookie infielders, Dick Gyselman and Albert Wright, from San Francisco.

The judge, with some misgivings, bought burly Frank Hoger from the Giants to reinforce the catching and slugging departments. He has retained the temperamental Art Shires, largely on the belief that Art can step in with a timely wallop if Baxter Jordan doesn't fulfill expectations as a first base regular.

To afford a wider assortment of outfield talent with a punch, Fuchs obtained two good hitters from the Pacific coast league, Art Hume and Bob Holland, but neither has troubled the Florida fences so far.

Gyselman is "Find"
Gyselman, a rangy youngster, seems a real "find." He is a harder hitter than Wright, his 20-year-old teammate with the Missions, and looks to be the choice for third base over the veteran Fritz Knott. Since the club needs Marville's pepper, the "Rabbit," twice Wright's age, probably will start the season again at second base, meanwhile teaching his youthful understudy all the tricks of the trade. Under Bill Urbanek will play shortstop.

Wally Berger, a ballhawk in center, and Bob Worthington in left, should furnish most of the answers to the Braves' hitting problems. Both are good for 310 or better. Randy Moore, odd-job man, may get the third outfield post, unless Wes Schumacher suddenly solves the mysteries of curve-ball pitching or one of the recruits comes through to grab the job.

Veterans For Mound
Ed Brand, one of the best southpaws in the league, and Ben Cantwell, experienced right hander, can be relied upon to handle starting assignments. Tom Zachary, veteran southpaw, will do for "spot" jobs. For mopping up, McKechnie will have Fred Frankhouse, Harry Seibold and probably Leo Mangum, up from the International league.

Behind the bat the 250-pound Hogan will have the assistance of Al Spohrer and Bill Hargrave.

GOLF TOURNEY GOES OVER A SUNDAY FOR IMPROVED WEATHER

Owing to unsettled weather conditions the two-ball foursome tournament to be played at the Rogue Valley course Sunday was postponed until weather conditions are better. According to A. P. Johnson, manager of the tournament, next Sunday will be set as the day for the playoff.

This tournament is the first of its kind to be held in southern Oregon. Much interest has been taken in the promotion of golf at the local course this season. A record of 25 foursomes were signed up for the two-ball tournament.

If it is possible to sneak up on an ideal golfing day next Sunday, said Mr. Johnson, the tournament will begin at 11 o'clock a. m.

SOUTHERN GENT AND YAQUI JOE TO MEET AGAIN

By Roger Early
Yaqui Joe, the Sonora Indian, and Rex Mobley, the gentleman from Alabama, are to be featured in a return match in an hour and one-half main event grapple, according to Mack Lillard, wrestling and boxing promoter. The match will be staged at the Armory Wednesday night, Mar. 28.

These two grip and grout artists in their last bout in southern Oregon introduced to the fans the highest type of wrestling entertainment witnessed this season.

They have been booked to decide the draw decision of their last meeting. The men, who weigh in at 160 pounds, are both exponents of the cleaner exhibition of strength and skill. Both are fresh from victories in the northern part of the state and will give fans a real match.

In a semi-windup event, Roland Warren, Klamath Falls Copeco engineer, and Harry (Duke) Elliott, former wrestling instructor at the University of Oregon, are scheduled to tangle for 45 minutes or less. Elliott, who is the present referee for the Eugene and Portland matches, has been seen by southern Oregon fans in action here several times in the past. This will be Warren's initial appearance in Medford, but if he is half as good as Klamath fans rate him a fast bout is predicted.

Lillard announced that a new price schedule will be put into effect. This show which will be the peak of wrestling entertainment for fans of this region, can be seen for a very nominal sum.

Fans are urged to make early reservations. The card will begin promptly at 8:30 p. m.

PANNING CONTEST GAINING MEDFORD LOT OF PUBLICITY

"Definite results for Medford from a publicity viewpoint, are beginning to accrue from the women's contest of the gold panning exhibition held here recently" stated C. L. MacDonaid, publicity chairman of the chamber of commerce today.

A photograph of the two winners in the women's contest was used on the front cover of the Mining Review published at Salt Lake City, Utah, on March 21st. A story regarding the contest also was used.

The Oregonian used the same photograph Sunday, March 19, with an accompanying article.

Benefits of such publicity can be better appreciated by the following letter received at the chamber of commerce from W. G. Oves, secretary of the 14th annual sportmen's show scheduled for Spokane, May 16-21:

"I have before me a clipping taken from the Salt Lake City Mining Review telling about a ladies gold panning contest sponsored in your city by the Southern Oregon Mining Association.

"We are looking for particular attractions for our sportmen's show and it occurred to me that a contest of this kind might go well. I am wondering whether you would be good enough to drop me a line giving full information about this event—how it is staged and the rules and regulations governing same.

"I will appreciate any cooperation you may extend."

"The chamber of commerce is carrying out a militant publicity campaign destined to 'tell the world' about those things which we have here" further stated Mr. MacDonaid, "but we are not encouraging people to come here unless they are financially in a position to support themselves."

The panning contest is only one of the publicity stories sent out and others regarding the many diversified interests represented here—Scenic, agricultural, industrial, etc., are expected to be published in the near future.

New Frigidaire Economical In Electricity Use

The new Frigidaire that uses no more current than one ordinary electric light bulb will be placed on display in the near future. It was announced today by Morris B. Leonard, manager of Leonard Electric, new dealer for Frigidaire in this city.

"In addition to being unusually low in operating costs, this new household refrigerator sets other standards of economy," Mr. Leonard said. "It is the lowest priced Frigidaire ever built."

"It is an open secret that many of the so-called low-priced electric refrigerators that mushroomed into existence last year have not been economical from an operating standpoint. It is the lowest priced Frigidaire of a low price and which provides extraordinary low operating cost by use of a motor half the size of any ever used before, yet providing adequate refrigeration capacity.

"The Frigidaire is the product of a long established, reputable company which has been a consistent builder of quality refrigerators for seventeen years and has almost two and one-half million units in use, a million more than any other make."

W. L. Bowden, district representative for the Frigidaire company, will arrive in Medford today or Tuesday to complete arrangements with Morris Leonard for the local showing of Frigidaire 1933 models.
