LOCAL THIRSTY TO VALLEY GOLFERS GET NICKEL BEER BUT GLASS SMALL

The thirsty of Medford will get a nickel glass of beer, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding, but it will bein a seven-ounce glass. A seven ounce glass is an ounce larger than a Cotz Cola glass, and long ways from the beer schooner of the pre-prohibition days. The public demands nickel beer-and will get it in a small glass. The public demands nickel sheer and will get it in a small glass. The public demand has been strong for a nickel glass of beer, when strong for a nickel glass of beer, when strong for a nickel glass of beer, when the amber fluid comes back next Priday. Dispensers have great respect for the public demand. They figure there are more nickels, than there are dimes. They want to sell their beer are more nickels, than there are dimes. They want to sell their beer at a profit, and keep their customers happy. Many have announced they will not sell beer, unless they can dispense it for a nickel, so the seven ounce glass is now advanced as a solution.

There will be a ten cent glass of beer, and it will be of the 12-ounce calibre. It will have five ounces more whistle-wetting power than the city libration of attending the tournament, which will culminate with machen at the did.

Foursome for today's tournament, as announced by Chairman August P. Johnsen, tournament club chairman, announced yesterday from all participants, with many prizes to be awarded both men and woll get it in a small glass. The importance is important that it is importative team capitain, set in touch with Jack Hueston, club chairman, announced whether his group plans to play its or nine holes. The man named in the first two-some of the foursome is capital.

The man named in the two-ball foursome tournament, with the two-ball foursome tournament at the court will be a warded both men and woll get it in a mail glass. The public demands nickel had a participants, with many prizes to be awarded both men and woll and the private point and the foursome tournament at the courts for all participants, with many prizes to be awarded

Until it is known what the city license fee will be after next Tuesday, there will be considerable uncertainty, as to the price and the places that will sell it. A few have announced their intention of selling beer whatever the license fee. Then there is the matter of regulation. Thre must be some, or "bootleg beer" will be sold from the housetops, or close to them.
Places that have been selling near-sold from the housetops, or close to them.

Places that have been selling nearbeer have the edge. Their equipment is all installed, and all they have to do is to attach a keg of the real beer to do business. It is figured it will take close to $500 to rig up a beer-serving establishment. It takes a lot of pipes, plumbing, pumps, sinks, and a refrigeration system.

Beer will be on tap here next Friday, but it will take a week or ten days to get the supply regulated. The supply will be ample the first day, to neet modest thirsts. If any great number decide to drown themselves in the beverage, there might be a shortage along towards sundown.

All the above refers to the keg trade. The city breweries have aiready started cuttling the price, it is reported. Portland will have nickel beet, in the seven ounce glasses. San Francisco papers Friday announced that the "ten cent glass was inevitable, if the seller wanted to keep his head above water." There is the matter of the freight differential, or something between this city, and the two metropoli to be rigured in Trucks will bring the first beer here—a fleet from Portland, and from Oakland. program as originally outlined is completely worked out.

"To date we have increased the membership by 121. Of this increase 106 are new members. Even considering present conditions the results are disappointing.

"What's the matter with Medford? Hasn't this city need for a Chamber of Commerce? By reference to the fills of the Mail Tribune of ten years ago, Medford's Chamber of Commerce had a membership of 638, the third largest in the state. Today, after a week's drive we have less than a third of that number.

"It's high time Medford's husiness men take our situation seriously and support an organization which has for its purpose the cementing together of our man-power in a constructive program for the general good of the entire community."

The need for concentrated effort in one organization, stressed by other groups during the past several weeks, was further emphasized by Mr. Hogan, who stated that unity in action for the betterment of Medford is the object of the chamber of commerce.

BRIEF FILED WITH

MEIER BY SHERIFF

IN OUSTER ACTION

Sheriff Gordon L Schermerhorn through his counsel, Attorney Frank

J. Newman, last wick filed with the governor, an 18-page brief, in de-fense of the indicted official, against whom ounter proceedings have been instituted.

The state has also filed a brief with the chief executive, setting forth evidence and facts, not brought out in theouster hearing before Circuit

In theosister hearing before Circuit Judge Duncan, on the ground it would reveal important evidence, in the ballot stealing case.

The Schermershorn brieg contends that the law under which the ouster proceedings were brought is unconstitutional; that the state's case was not proceeded by the district attorsolutional: that he state's case was not prosecuted by the district attor-torney, and that there was an insufficiency of evidence introduced to warrant the ouster.

The brief cites that the accused sheriff is guilty of no crime; that he acted within his rights; that no evidence of criminal intent on his part was shown.

The White Cockatoo BY MIGNON G. EBERHART

> HANCE brought Sue Tally and Jim Sundean to the same cerie hotel in a provincial French town. An elusive, phantom danger drove Sue to Sundean with her pitiful plea for help-and from that instant there surged about them terrifying, threatening events.

> Murder, shots from the dark, a ghostly face at the window of an unoccupied room, intrigue, mystery, harrowing nights and fearful days . . . and over it all watched the cold, black, staring eyes of Pucci, the white cockatoo, awaiting the fateful moment to strike. A heart-warming romance with its crashing excitement, it is the most absorbing story by this popular author.
