

PROF. ENGLEHARDT SADLY TANGLED IN NATIVITY, FORTUNE

Documentary evidence concerning the citizenship of Prof. C. Englehardt of the Long Tom Mountain district, and one of the minor figures in the recent turmoil, will be presented to the immigration department by the district attorney's office. Prof. Englehardt was listed as a "victim" of a miscarriage of justice last spring, when found guilty by a jury of hitting a neighbor, John Domagola, over the head with a long board during a quarrel over hogs at large.

Prof. Englehardt appeared with Mrs. Henrietta B. Martin, president of the "Good Government Congress" in justice court late yesterday and offered himself as a bondsman for O. L. Van Wegen, held in the county jail on an indictment charging riotous conduct.

Records of the county clerk's office show that Englehardt gave two different spots as his birthplace, and two different ages. One affidavit asserts he was born in New York state, and the other that he was born in Meringue, Germany. Baptismal records support the latter place.

Questioned upon these records, Prof. Englehardt refused to answer, and the hearing on his qualifications as a bondsman ended.

It was also revealed that Prof. Englehardt's vote at the last election was challenged by the election board but later he was allowed to vote. Mrs. Martin, who was accompanied by her father, C. H. Brown, and her mother, said that an effort would be made to secure new bondsmen. A laborer by the name of Bowman, who ostensibly was to be offered as a bondsman, was not questioned relative to his qualifications. Mrs. Martin and her father were released last Saturday on bonds, after two weeks in the county jail on indictments alleging criminal syndicalism, riotous conduct and standing a bank.

Prof. Englehardt claimed he was worth $75,000, but refused to state where his wealth was located. His farm is assessed at $5700.

Van Wegen is indicted for riotous conduct, in connection with Mrs. Martin's attempt to horsewhip Editor Leonard Hall of the Jacksonville Miner. A gun-carrying charge against him in justice court is awaiting decision.

HITLER COHORTS HELD BY PLEDGE TO PROVIDE JOBS

by their incumbents. Hence the wholesale dismissal. Civil service rights of contracts were no protection. Had Hitler respected these legal safeguards no more than 300 of his followers could have secured appointments. Even if every man who is suspected of not being in accord with the present regime were to be removed from his job, not more than 300,000 Nazis could be put in federal, state or municipal positions.

Here is the real answer for the intensive anti-Jewish drive. Room must be made for at least another 200,000 of the faithful outside of the government machinery.

Out Just from Jobs.

By ousting the Jews, professional men who belong to the Nazi party and would not stoop to fill a lowly official job, can be established without having to go through the formalities of proving their qualifications. Editors, doctors, actors, judges, engineers, business executives and lawyers are being placed by a mere order from local Nazi headquarters.

For these reasons there will be a considerable toning down of the present anti-Semitic campaign as soon as Nazi adherents have moved into jobs previously held by Jews.

The second phase of the Nazi "consolidation" should be completed by April 10.

The third and most important subject which Hitler has to tackle is to do something for the millions who voted for him. He is in no hurry to redeem this part of his promises. The reason is simple — he cannot. Only a reversal of the world economic situation could alleviate unemployment in Germany. The Nazi compulsory labor scheme cannot possibly help more than 500,000 men. That would still leave at least four and a half millions on their hands who are actually starving.

GOOD PROGRESS IN HIGHWAY PROJECTS

Laying of concrete is expected to start next week on the Central Point cut-off of the Pacific Highway, and good progress is being made on the Ashland straightening of the same route. Paving on the job is expected to start about May 1.

Work is expected to start next week on the Graves creek project between Gold Hill and Grants Pass. The work will eliminate a series of curves.

Activity on the Douglas county section of the Tiller-Trail road, a federal project, is scheduled to be resumed about April 15.

ASHLAND DOGS MUST STAY HOME, IS WORD

Ashland dogs will henceforth be dispersed by a special officer, as they have suddenly become a nuisance to spring garden makers. The dogs bury bones in freshly spaded earth and when seed is planted return to dig them up. They forget where they interred the bone and energetically scratch up the entire garden plot and a choice flower bed if one is at hand. This aroused the Ashlanders to such a point they requested a special dog officer and he will be named. His duties will be to round up the garden-destroying dogs.
