

DEPOSE JONES AS ROAD SUPERVISOR ROGUE RIVER AREA

Walter Jones, mayor of Rogue River, under indictment with 21 others including County Judge Earl H. Fehl, and Sheriff Gordon L. Schermerhorn, has been deposed as road supervisor of the Rogue River district. The action was taken several weeks ago, and just became known in the last few days. Jones was appointed by County Judge Fehl, and had charge of road and relief work in the area.

No successor has been named by the county court. For the present the work of the district is being handled by William Tetheron of the Eagle Point district. Inability of residents to agree upon a road supervisor, is given as the reason for delaying the appointment. A number of prospects have been received, to names suggested as probable successors.

NOT GUILTY PLEA ENTERED BY PAIR ON ARRAIGNMENT

(Continued from Page One) of a change of venue informed the court that "in spite of the propaganda in the papers, the defense is not seeking delay." The court replied "I am here only to hear the case."

Murmur Denials Banks, attired in a dark grey suit, was first to plea. He answered in a low voice, "Not guilty." Mrs. Banks then spoke the same words, in a decidedly low voice, heavy with nervousness. The couple were then escorted back to their cells by the state police, the sheriff, jail matron, and chief jailer.

The entire proceeding took less than ten minutes. Arguments on the change of venue motion will be heard tomorrow, and Attorney Phipps stated the motion would be supported by affidavits. The change of venue motion, it is said, will contend that owing to the state of public opinion, the defendants would have their constitutional rights jeopardized, and owing to the wide publicity, difficulty would be experienced in securing a jury. The state will contest the motion.

Court Room Filled Judge Skipworth ascended the bench. The seating capacity of the courtroom was filled a half hour earlier. The bailiff ordered a man in the rear of the room to be seated, with the words, "No one is allowed to stand." Attorney Phipps was the only member of defense counsel present when court was called. Attorney Enright entered a few minutes later.

Henrietta B. Martin, president of the late so-called "Good Government congress," and active lieutenant of Banks in his political efforts, and her mother, Mrs. C. H. Brown, arrived too late to gain entry to the courtroom. The door bailiff denied admission because all of the seats were occupied. Mrs. Martin was disappointed, but made no effort to gain entrance, after the emphatic refusal. Change Up to Court

The court has the right, under Oregon law, following the arguments of both sides to deny or grant the motion for a change of venue. The court, in the event the change to another county is granted, has the right to designate the county in which the trial shall be held. Following the completion of the change of venue plea, the court will set the trial date.

The motion for a change of venue was unexpected. If granted all the witnesses in the case would be transported to the new trial site and the expense would be greatly enhanced. Following the entering of plea Banks and his wife had no comment. Jail attendants said the pair were affected by the proceedings, and are beginning to view the charge against them seriously.

In the courtroom at the time were petit jurors called to serve in a civil action. Judge Skipworth, assigned to the case yesterday by the state supreme court, following the filing of an affidavit of prejudice against Judge W. M. Duncan of Klamath county, arrived last night by auto, after a day in his own court. He was accompanied by Mrs. Skipworth.

Continue Ballot Case The state, through Assistant Attorney General William S. Levens, asked that the ballot theft cases, in which Judge Duncan was disqualified by filing of six affidavits of prejudice be continued further. Judge Skipworth asked if any actions were to be presented.

The affidavits of prejudice were filed by County Judge Fehl, former Sheriff Schermerhorn, J. C. Croft, Walter Jones, mayor of Rogue River, John Glenn, former county jailer, and Arthur LaDien, all indicted on the ballot stealing charge. The state has indicated that it desires to try the Banks murder cases first, and to clear away the preliminary legal moves, before taking up the ballot theft cases.

Scotch whiskey (Log Cabin): 121 pints, Scotch whiskey (Old Priority): 53 quarts, Gordon gin (Dry London): 37 one-fifth bottles.

C. H. Mumma champagne: 1 quart, Beer: 108 bottles, One-third full five-gallon cans, 4 five-gallon cans containing water in addition the following articles: 19 ten-gallon empty milk cans, 1 carton of empty pint bottles, and 20 empty pint bottles.

The grand jury report in full, which continues confuting to the lay mind, was as follows: "We find that since January 1, 1932, various amounts of intoxicating liquor have been seized by various officers and turned into the sheriff's office for storage disposition and that the only records we have been able to find of the amounts turned in of the various kinds and quantities are the records of the district attorney and the state police: 438 gallons of alcohol, 208 bottles gin, 18 gallons wine, 28 bottles wine.

"Upon application of the sheriff's office, orders have been issued by the court for the destruction of the various items of said liquor described in the applications and referred to in the said orders with returns properly filed showing the destruction of the said liquors, the same being as follows: 265 gallons alcohol, no gin, 8 gallons wine and 1 bottle wine. "According to the above figures, there should be on hand undestroyed and in the storage vault, of which O. W. Dunford was custodian under the supervision of the sheriff, various of said liquors of the kinds and in amounts as follows: 173 gallons alcohol, 208 bottles gin, 10 gallons wine and 27 bottles wine.

"We have carefully checked the liquors on hand in the storage vaults aforesaid in the sub-basement of the court house and find the following amounts and kinds of liquor: 30 gallons of alcohol and 20 gallons of water in alcohol containers, 138 bottles gin, no wine on hand. "Based on the foregoing tabulations we find a shortage of liquors that should be on hand in the following kinds and following amounts: 143 gallons alcohol, 50 bottles gin, 10 gallons wine and 27 bottles wine.

"We have no record of how much liquor was on hand January 1, 1932. No shortage was found in beer, whiskey or moonshine. "Our investigation also reveals the fact that O. W. Dunford, with no authority, held two five-gallon cans containing alcohol in a storage room in the jail. It is understood that this has disappeared without a court order. This alcohol is not included in the above invoice. "We recommend that a more careful record be made by the sheriff and other police officers of liquor seized, kept and destroyed, and that the sheriff keep detailed records of all liquors turned over to him by police. Also that no liquor be destroyed without an order of the court.
