A Great Victory for Medford

FINALLY securing the 80-cent allowance for pear loans from the R. F. C. represents a truly remarkable triumph for Medford and the Rogue River valley.

The battle started with Medford against the world. It ended that way—and the world got the worst of it. This extraordinary victory was due largely to two men: Col. Gordon Voorhies, who represented Southern Oregon growers on the regional committee, and Dean Schoenfeld of O. S. C., who represented them in Washington, D. C.

Colonel Voorhies, single handed, against organized opposition, finally by sheer fighting spirit and persistence, brought the regional committee over to his way of thinking. Dean Schoenfeld then flew to Washington and carrying the fight directly into the enemy's camp, brought over the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

But behind them both were the pear growers of the valley— alert, aggressive and constantly on the job. They financed Dean Schoenfeld's trip, without which such a complete victory would have been impossible; and they gave Col. Voorhies at all times the heartiest and most constant support. Governor Meier, for the state, and the Medford Chamber of Commerce for this community, also gave valuable and greatly appreciated assistance.

No achievement in recent years more clearly demonstrates that the old Medford spirit of DOING things—and doing them in a big way,—still lives,—and that when it comes to progressive action, and constructive accomplishment,—no section of the state can quite equal this section of Southern Oregon.

Should Be a Good Year

THIS VICTORY means the 1933 pear crop will be produced and packed under practically normal conditions.

It is too early to tell anything about prices, but with general business conditions gradually improving, with a high quality of fruit and pack stressed, and over-production unlikely, the prospects at the present writing, are at least, not discouraging.

From a community standpoint, however, the important victory has already been won. The proper financing of growing, picking and packing means that the most important pay roll we have in Southern Oregon will be maintained. This money will stay at home and be distributed among local workers.

With anything like a normal market, this will mean a good year, in spite of the depression, for Medford and the Rogue River Valley.

Don't Miss the Banquet

THE MEDFORD Chamber of Commerce, under President Bolger and Secretary Banwell, is showing fine enterprise and making an excellent record.

In securing T. A. Stevenson, manager of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce, as the principal speaker at the Oregon Products banquet, the organization demonstrates it is seeking the best industrial development advice that the Pacific Coast affords.

Mr. Stevenson has made an extraordinary record in Tacoma for practical, dollar-and-cents development. During his first year he secured over 40 new industries with an investment of over five million dollars and in 1930 was awarded first prize by the National Association of Chamber of Commerce secretaries.

His talk here, therefore, should be of genuine value to the Chamber of Commerce and to this community. Those who attend,—and there should be a large attendance,—will be amply repaid.

INFLATION TALK NET WHEAT RISE; BUTTER ADVANCES

CHICAGO, April 15.—(P)—Soaring wheat, largely because of inflation talk, went about 3 cents a bushel higher today, and outdid the season's previous top for September contracts.

At today's maximum, wheat showed 20 cents advance in 3 1/2 months, but heavy profit-taking sales toward the last wiped out part of the gain. Higher quotations on the British pound sterling were interpreted by many wheat traders as indicative of a possible monetary agreement with this country.

COVINGTON, Ore., April 15.—(P)—A sharp advance in butter prices along the coast coupled with continued low production good consumption demand and a shortage report showing holdings far below a year ago in this territory, were highlights of an active week in the Pacific coast butter trade. It was stated in a review issued today by the USDA bureau of Agricultural Economics co-operating with the O. S. C. extension service.

Butter production is generally lower than a year ago with the greatest decline on the Pacific coast where pasture and feed conditions are poor. Storage holdings in this region are now only about 40 per cent of a year ago, according to latest reports.

Large eastern markets were also stronger this week though price advances were not as pronounced as in the far west. Consumption has been fairly satisfactory, absorbing current arrivals and drawing somewhat on storage stocks. Total national storage holdings are slightly more than the total a year ago.

Tragedy of Life
MARSFIELD, Ore., April 15.—(P)—The body of W. M. Turpin, 66, who disappeared from his home in Bay park April 8, was found late this morning south of Marshfield by Horace Mitchell, while the latter was hiking through the woods. Turpin had recently committed suicide by shooting himself with a shotgun. The widow and a son, Dan, survive.

Don't extend credit to Mr. New Customer until you find out from the Southern Oregon Credit Bureau how he paid the other fellow.

FOREST WORKERS IN RELIEF PLAN 'GO IN TRAINING'

PORTLAND, April 15.—(P)—In the first few days of next week the first quota of the 21,000 men who will work in the national forests of Oregon and Washington in the conservation corps, will be called to the army camps in which they will be conditioned before they leave for the woods to undertake the emergency employment authorized by President Roosevelt.

Later 2,000 Oregon men will be sent into the state forests of Oregon, and 3,500 into Washington state lands. There is yet no estimate of the number of men who will be put to work in national parks and Indian reservations of the two states, but it is expected to be considerable, and in addition several thousand Oregon men will find work on the Oregon-California land grant areas.

The total of 21,000 men in Oregon and Washington will be sent to 105 camps of 200 men each, to work in national forests. The first quota will be 2,500 men, to be sent out in groups of about 200 to each of Oregon's seven national forests, and to the five in Washington.

All of these forests except the Deschutes in Oregon and the Colville in Washington are west of the Cascade mountains.

It was indicated by the forestry office here that all men who are to work on the development in Oregon will be drawn from this state.

LINDBERGH'S PLAN AIR TRIP TO WEST
KANSAS CITY, April 15.—(P)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh will begin an inspection tour of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc. from New York to Los Angeles next week, headquarters of the company announced today.

Colonel Lindbergh, chairman of the corporation's technical committee, is expected to fly one of the company's planes.

HEALTH AND SUDEN CHANGE

One of the recommendations vouchsafed to employees by the "medical bureau" of a metropolitan public service corporation in a leaflet on "How to Keep Well This Winter" is to avoid chilling after perspiring. Another is to wear your outside wrap when you go outdoors. Apparently the company doctor thinks the robot will wear an inside wrap indoors without being told.

Who pays the cost of the corporation's "medical bureau"? The public. It is all figured in the excess profits. Incidentally a pro rata cut in wages in short every such medical, surgical or tin-doctor service provided by a big business concern is maintained out of the excess profits in which employees would otherwise share. The employer assumes the employee is too dumb to choose his own medical attendant when he needs medical care and so it is that corporations all over our bootlicking land take care of this matter for the peasantry. Independence? There isn't enough of that quaint spirit left to support a neighborhood grocery or butcher shop.

Quick cooling of the body after overheating is not only harmless but rather beneficial to health, as he who bathes should know. Is it not a custom to brave a sudden dash or spray or plunge in cold water at the end of a steam or hot vapor bath? The silly idea of this final cold dash is to "close the pores so no cold can get in," but what it really does is contract or tighten the surface blood vessels which have been relaxed by the heat and overdistended with blood.

I repeat there is no harm in such quick cooling after such overheating. Nor in any similar sudden change. On the contrary it is beneficial to health and general vigor and "pep" to subject the body to just such sudden changes as often come with the weather, climate and environment permit. All with due regard for your own comfort, of course. In fact, unless you are a blamed idiot, you know better than any doctor does, whether you should put on or leave off any particular wrap or other cover in any circumstances. Your own feelings are a better guide about that than the quaint notions of any old fogey physician.

It is unwise for one unaccustomed to vigorous exertion to cool off too quickly after a strenuous game or a hard job of work. Exercise because of sudden cooling interferes with the removal of products of combustion from the tissues about the muscles, and when the removal of these acid waste products THROUGH THE CIRCULATION is delayed, lameness, stiffness or soreness of the muscles is likely to follow. This is unpleasant. But it is never dangerous unless there is some greater danger of any known illness from such chilling after unaccustomed exertion. I emphasize unaccustomed effort, because, as athletes well know, with training one becomes less and less susceptible to such lameness even if one is downright careless about chilling after a warm-up. An athlete in a good training becomes almost immune to such lameness. It is the cub or the scrub that puts on the big show of blankets, sweaters and similar trappings along the sidelines. Most of us in the grandstand would be stiff tomorrow if we jogged once around the field.

All clear now? Remember, your own sense of comfort is the only guide to follow in respect to sudden changes. Don't let the old fossils worry you about this.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Iodin Ration.
I'd like complete particulars in regard to your iodine treatment for a person 44 years of age who... (P. N. P.)

Answer—I have no such treatment. Perhaps you mean the Iodin Ration. That is for every mature adult, especially those who feel and look a bit stale. It is also for young persons who wish to avoid going gray. Send a dime and a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the Iodin Ration. Please do not ask me whether it is good for this or that individual case. If in doubt about it, ask your physician.

The Impure Blood Obession
I am a 15 year old school girl. I have a plentiful supply of blackheads and pimples. I thought this was due to impure blood, so I have been taking a blood tonic... (M. T. L.)

Answer—The chap who concocts the "blood tonic" is the only one who takes that notion seriously, except the victim of the humbug. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address, mention your trouble, and you will receive a letter instructing you how to deal with the blackheads and pimples. This advice will not be sent unless correspondent asks for it and says he or she has the trouble. No clipping will suffice.

AUTO STICKERS FOR CARAVAN TO LAKE AVAILABLE

Upon reaching the park entrance, a very short ceremony will take place at which time Superintendent E. C. Solinsky and his aides will officially welcome the caravan to the park.

Klamath Falls is joining with Medford and the two caravans will meet at Annie Springs and for the rest of the day the entertainment and other arrangements will be a combined affair. Grants Pass is expected to send a number of cars which will make the first annual official opening of Crater Lake a real Southern Oregon event.

The Medford Gleemen and the Medford Elk band will attend and will provide the musical part of the day's entertainment. Amateur ski races will be conducted for boys under 18, girls under 18 and a men's free-for-all is also scheduled under leadership of Sam Jennings. Prizes for these events have been donated by local merchants.

The most popular part of the program undoubtedly will be a series of ski jumps by professionals, through the courtesy of the Crater Lake Ski Club of Klamath Falls and it is also the intention of this organization to erect a toboggan slide between now and the 23rd for the enjoyment of the large number of visitors expected.

For those who do not take lunch, arrangements have been made for hot sandwiches and coffee to be served in this connection the Standard Oil company has kindly donated $1,000 in order that the food shall be nice and hot. The oil company will also bring to Medford its car equipped with public speaking apparatus, which will be used on the streets of Medford a few days prior to the caravan for advertising purposes and will assist in the various activities at the park.

Flag exercises will be conducted featuring reveille and retreat under the direction of Warren Butler.

The Gilmore Oil company car will be the first in the caravan and a great deal of follow-up publicity will be given to Crater Lake by the company through the medium of motion picture films. Firestone Service Stores, Inc., will supply a car fully equipped to take care of punctures and the like at no cost to those participating in the caravan.

An added feature to the festival will be the opening of the community house where a big fire will be burning all day. "Practically every one in Medford goes for a long drive on Sunday," stated Mr. Shreve, "and we hope that on the 23rd our citizens will decide to co-operate with us and make the trip to Crater Lake. I also hope that those who have their own skis and toboggans will bring them along," continued Mr. Shreve.

Many other details have been worked out by the committee, which will be announced during the week and from the enthusiasm in evidence at the present time, it is fully expected that the number of cars in the caravan will exceed the fondest hopes of the committee.

Every co-operation is being received by the park authorities who are making preparations this week to take care of the large anticipated crowd.

SELF-DEFENSE IS VIEWED AS ARCH OF BANKS' CASE

It was purchased by Banks for $8000 several years ago.

The Pepper & Taylor tract, during the boom days here sold for $45,000, and was first purchased by J. P. Wainman of Phoenix for $25,000. Banks is said to have agreed to purchase it for $40,000. The Suncrest Orchard, Inc. bondholders have a suit pending against the property, with other units for $155,000 allegedly due on bonds.

Only a few people witnessed the sale, including two former employees of Banks. The only bidder was Attorney George M. Brown, who bought the Medford National bank and its assignee, O. B. Waddell. The sale was from the courthouse steps, almost directly beneath the window of the cell occupied by Banks. From the steps Banks addressed "demonstrations," and in his last speech therefrom proclaimed a "revolution."

In Better Spirit
According to jail attendants, Banks since the granting of the change of venue, has shown a revived confidence and cheerfulness. He eats well, sleeps well, and spends his waking hours reading Harvard classics, the Bible, playing solitaire and exercising in his cell, which is the largest and most comfortable in the county jail. He sees his wife daily, and is allowed visits with friends and kin.

The state started Saturday to arrange the preliminary details of the transfer of the case to Lane county, per court orders. The county clerk's office next week, will have certified copies of the original, and the original copies of the records in the case, prepared for delivery to the county clerk of Lane county, by the state police, under the personal supervision of Capt. Lee M. Brown.

Banks and Mrs. Banks, will be held in the county jail "until further orders of the court," which probably means they will not be taken to Lane county for the trial until a short time before it opens.
